Legislative Districts

The Washington State Legislature is a bicameral body that convenes annually. Washington is divided into 49 legislative districts, with one state Senator and two state Representatives elected in each district (49 Senators and 98 Representatives).

In the House, Representatives are elected in even-numbered years to serve two-year terms. Senators are elected every four years with overlapping terms; therefore, half of the Senate is up for reelection every two years.

THE WASHINGTON STATE LEGISLATURE

Washington has a bicameral legislature which convenes in regular session annually. Regular sessions begin the second Monday in January of each year and are constitutionally limited to 105 days during odd numbered years and 60 days in even years. Special sessions are called by the Governor's proclamation in which reason for the call must be stated, or by a two-thirds vote of the Legislature.

The Senate has 49 members and there are 98 representatives in the House. Districts from which legislators are elected are subject to redistricting and reapportionment on the basis of population after each decennial census.

State Representatives are elected to a two-year term and all Representatives stand for re-election at the general election held in even-numbered years. Members of the State Senate are elected for four-year staggered terms with about one half of the membership being up for reelection at general election in even-numbered years. As provided by the State Constitution, each house is the judge of the election and qualifications of its own members.

The Legislature is the branch of government which establishes governmental policy and determines services people want and need from government. Thus the Legislature, as the policy forming representative of the people, fulfills its part in the American system of government.

Officers of the Legislature

With the exception of the Lieutenant Governor, who serves as the President of the Senate, the Constitution provides that each house shall elect its own officers. As President of the Senate, the Lieutenant Governor presides over the Senate, and the Constitution gives him the deciding vote in the case of an equal division of the members on a question, except on final passage of a bill; has the right to name any Senator to perform the duties of the chair in the absence of the President Pro Tempore; preserves order, controls the chamber and lobby, signs in open session all acts and resolutions; decides all questions of order without debate. The Lieutenant Governor may speak to points of order in preference to members, and signs all writs, warrants, and subpoenas issued by order of the Senate; has charge of and sees that all officers, attaches, and clerks perform their duties. These duties are prescribed by rules of the Senate, and pass, in the absence of the President, to the President Pro Tempore, who is elected by fellow Senators. The Senate also elects a Vice President Pro Tempore to serve in the absence of the President Pro Tempore, in the event the Lieutenant Governor may be acting as Governor.

Other Legislative Officers: All other officers are elected in each house by its members. In the Senate, the President Pro Tempore, Vice President Pro Tempore, Secretary of the Senate, and Sergeant at Arms are elected immediately after the oath of office is administered to the members, roll is called, and temporary rules have been adopted. At the same time, the House of Representatives elects the Speaker of the House, Speaker Pro Tempore, Chief Clerk, Assistant Chief Clerk, and Sergeant at Arms.

Secretary of the Senate: The Secretary of the Senate is the administrative officer of the Senate. He or she selects and removes employees, subject to approval of the Senate, supervises all procedural details, and performs other duties of the office during the session and until the election of a successor at the next session.

Speaker of the House: Duties of the Speaker of the House include presiding over the House, preserving order and decorum, referring bills to committees, speaking to points of order, deciding questions of order, naming any member to perform the duties of the chair during a temporary absence, appointing all standing and special committees, signing all bills, resolutions and memorials in open session and, when necessary, signing all acts, orders and proceedings of the House. He or she also performs such other duties as may be assigned by action of members of the House both during the duration of session and the interim between sessions. In the event of illness, death, or inability to act, the Speaker Pro Tempore, who is also elected at the commencement of each regular session shall hold office during all sessions until the convening of the succeeding regular session.

Chief Clerk: The Chief Clerk of the House, like the Secretary of the Senate, is an administrative officer. Neither is a member of the Legislature, but both are elected by the bodies. The Chief Clerk selects and removes employees with approval of the Speaker of the House, supervises preparation of the journal, performs other duties of this office, and is responsible at all times for the acts of assistants.

Deputy Chief Clerk: The Deputy Chief Clerk is elected by the House and assists the Chief Clerk in all duties. In the event of the death, illness, or inability of the Chief Clerk to act, the Deputy Chief Clerk shall assume duties and powers of the Chief Clerk.

Sergeant at Arms: The Sergeant at Arms is elected by the body to administer services and security needs of the members. It is his or her specific duty to keep order, to summon members to their seats upon call of the House or Senate, and to see that the legislative premises are kept clean and comfortable. The Sergeant at Arms also supervises all other support services persons: tour guides, garage, parking, shuttle bus, cafeteria, pages, door keepers and building security persons.

The Committee System

With the introduction of well over a thousand bills during a regular legislative session, and the limited time for consideration, it would be an almost impossible task for the entire legislative body to give proper consideration and study to each proposed piece of legislation in detail.

Therefore, the committee system has been developed to facilitate the detailed study of bills. The entire body of each house is divided into small groups or committees, each of which has a special field, and each of which considers proposed legislation dealing with particular subjects falling within the purview of the committee. The same rules of procedure that govern the conduct of business in the House and Senate apply where applicable in committee meetings, where the chair or, in his or her absence, the vice chair presides.

After a bill is introduced and read the first time, it is assigned to an appropriate committee by the President of the Senate or the Speaker of the House. When the bill is reported out of committee, the committee report or reports must carry signatures of the majority of the members on the committee. The rules of each house require that a bill be reported back with one of the following recommendations: that the bill “Do Pass;” that it “Do Pass As Amended;” that it be rereferred to another committee; or “With No Recommendation.” A bill may be reported back with both a majority and a minority recommendation if disagreement on the measure arises. A completely new bill may be drafted by the committee on the same subject, who then recommends that “The Substitute Bill be Substituted Therefor.”

The committee often calls in representatives of various state agencies, holds joint meetings with their counterpart in the other house, and holds public hearings in order to obtain information regarding bills referred to it.

Committee Functions: Each of these committees is important to the legislative process and to the functioning of all departments of state government, but the most important committees — those upon which membership is highly esteemed in both houses of the Legislature — are those on Rules, Ways and Means, Transportation and Judiciary. The most important of these is the Committee on Rules because it determines what bills shall be brought before the respective houses for consideration. A simple majority of members present in the Senate can take a bill from the Rules Committee and place it on the calendar. In the House, an affirmative vote by a majority of elected members is necessary to bring a bill out of the Rules Committee and place it on the calendar. In actual practice, however, such floor action to place bills on the calendar is seldom, if ever, taken by either house.

Daily Order of Business

Each house follows a prescribed order of business, as provided by its rules, which is the standing agenda for each day of session.

House Order of Business: Business shall be disposed of in the following order:

1. Roll Call, Presentation of Colors, Prayer, and Approval of the Journal of the preceding day.
2. Introduction of Visiting Dignitaries.
3. Messages from the Senate, Governor, and other state officials.
4. Introduction and First Reading of Bills, Memorials, Joint Resolutions and Concurrent Resolutions.
5. Committee Reports.
6. Second Reading of Bills — Calendar of the Day.
7. Third Reading of Bills.
8. Floor Resolutions and Motions.

9. Presentation of Petitions, Memorials and Remonstrances addressed to the Legislature.
10. Introduction of visitors and other business to be considered.
11. Announcements.

Senate Order of Business: After the roll is called and Journal read and approved, business shall be disposed of in the following order:

1. Reports of Standing Committees.
2. Reports of Select Committees.
3. Messages from the Governor and other state officials.
4. Messages from the House of Representatives.
5. Introduction, First Reading and References of Bills, Joint Memorials, and Joint Resolutions.
6. Second Reading of Bills.
7. Third Reading of Bills.
8. Presentation of Petitions, Memorials, Resolutions, and Motions.

The order of business established by this rule may be changed and any order of business already dealt with may be reverted or advanced to by a majority of those present.

All questions relating to the priority of business shall be decided without debate. Messages from the Governor, other state officers, and from the House of Representatives may be considered at any time with the consent of the Senate.

Any standing rules of order or business may be suspended temporarily by a two-thirds vote of the members present.

Bills, Resolutions and Memorials

A bill is a written proposal to enact a law. It may propose to enact an entirely new law or make an addition to change an existing statute in order to add clarity. It may correct an error in statute, or adjust it to changing circumstances. A bill is born as an idea in the mind of a legislator, a department or agency of government, or an individual citizen or group. However, it must always be sponsored by a member or committee of the Legislature, and be approved or drafted by legislative bill drafters. The sponsor is responsible for placing the bill in the “hopper” for introduction.

Resolutions and memorials are written motions expressing the wishes and recommendations of the Legislature, and some resolutions have the effect of law for a temporary period.

A Joint Memorial is a message or petition addressed to the President and/or Congress of the United States, or the head of any other branch of federal government asking for consideration of some matter of concern to the state or region, or of universal interest.

A Joint Resolution may propose an amendment to the Constitution for reference to the people for acceptance or rejection, or it may formulate a legislative directive to state administrative officers and agencies. Joint resolutions which propose to amend the Constitution must receive a two-thirds affirmative vote of all members elected in each house to pass.

A Concurrent Resolution is a statement of policy concurred in by both houses. It may relate to the joint rules, to internal operations of the Legislature as a unit of government, or it can create and assign duties to an interim committee.

A Floor Resolution relates only to the business of the house in which it originates. It is not considered by the other house, it is treated as a written motion, and may be adopted by a voice vote. Joint memorials and joint resolutions are subject to all procedural rules governing the course of bills. Concurrent resolutions require a roll call vote only when they authorize investigating committees and/or allocate or authorize expenditure of any funds; otherwise, they may be treated as motions and adopted without a roll call.

OVERVIEW OF THE LEGISLATIVE PROCESS

The Washington State Legislature is made up of two houses (or chambers), the Senate and the House of Representatives. Washington has 49 legislative districts, each of which elects a Senator and two Representatives. Senators serve four-year terms and Representatives serve two-year terms. The Senate and House of Representatives meet in session each year to create new laws, change existing laws, and enact budgets for the State.

The legislative cycle is two years long. Within that two-year cycle, there are two kinds of legislative sessions: regular sessions and extraordinary, or special, sessions. Regular sessions are mandated by the State Constitution and begin the second Monday in January each year. In the odd-numbered year, for example, 2005, the regular session is 105 days; in the even-numbered year, for example, 2006, it is 60 days. Extraordinary sessions are called by the Governor to address specific issues, usually the budget. There can be any number of extraordinary sessions within the two-year cycle, and they can last no more than 30 days.

The members of the House and Senate offer legislation, or bills, for consideration. The ideas for bills come from a number of places: something has happened in the last year that inspires new legislation (for instance, the change in people's perception of crime gave rise to the youth violence bills that were offered during the 1994 Session), a member wishes to address an issue that is specific to his or her district, the Legislature decides to tackle a major issue (such as regulatory reform), changes in technology dictate a change in the State's laws, etc.

Once a member introduces a bill, the legislative process begins. The process has a number of specific steps. If the bill makes it through all the steps in the chamber in which it was introduced (the "first house"), it goes to the other chamber (or "second house") and goes through the same steps there. Each step is identified and explained below.

Pre-filing: Members can pre-file bills for introduction beginning the first Monday in December. Pre-filed bills are officially introduced the first day of the session

Introduction, or First Reading: The first thing that happens to bills on the "floor" is introduction and referral to committee. This is also referred to as the bill's first reading. (Bills must have three readings in each house in order to pass the Legislature.)

Leadership determines to which committees bills will be referred; this is usually determined by the bill's subject matter. Bills that require an appropriation or that raise revenue must also go to a fiscal committee for review (the Appropriations Committee in the House or the Ways and Means Committee in the Senate).

Committee Action: The chair of each committee works with leadership and staff to schedule bills to be heard by the committee. Committees hold three kinds of meetings: (1) work sessions, where issues are determined and reviewed; (2) public hearings, where testimony from interested parties is taken; and (3) executive sessions, where the committee decides how it will report the bill to the whole house. Not all bills get scheduled for hearing, so a good number of bills never get any further than committee.

Bills can be reported in several fashions, the most usual being "do pass" (pass the bill just as it is), "do pass as amended" (pass the bill as amended by the committee), and "do pass substitute" (the committee offers a different version to take the place of the original bill).

The members on the prevailing side sign the "majority" report; those members who disagree with the majority sign the "minority" report. Not all bills coming out of committee have minority reports.

As a bill moves through the committee process, the staff prepares the "bill report." The bill report includes a legislative history of the bill, background on the issue, a summary of the legislation, the names of those who testified on the bill, and a summary of the testimony for and against the bill. The bill report is edited as the bill moves through the process. When the bill moves to the opposite house, that house prepares a bill report as well. A bill that has finally passed the Legislature would have House, Senate, and Final bill reports.

At the start of the session, both houses agree on dates by which bills have to be reported out of committee in order to be eligible for further consideration by the Legislature. There is a "cutoff" date for bills to be out of committee in the first house and one for bills to be out of committee in the second house.

Rules Committee: Once a bill has been reported by the appropriate committee(s), the floor acts on the committee report and then passes the bill to the Rules Committee. Usually, the floor adopts the committee's recommendation.

The Rules Committee is where leadership exercises the most control over the process. The Rules Committee is made up of members from both parties. Each member on the committee gets to select two or three bills that will move on to the next step in the process. Which bills a member selects could be the result of a party caucus, or another member approaching that member, or a piece of legislation about which the member feels strongly.

If you are a person with a disability and need a special accommodation, please contact the House at (360) 786-7271, or the Senate at (360) 786-7189. TTY 1-800-833-6388. For further legislative information, call the Legislative Hotline at 1-800-562-6000, or check the internet at www.leg.wa.gov.

Rules Review/Rules White: The first step in the Rules Committee process is called Rules Review in the House and Rules White in the Senate (the report Overview of the Legislative Process that lists the bills in this step in the Senate is printed on white paper). Rules Committee members review the bills and decide whether or not to move them on to the next step.

Rules Consideration/Rules Green: The next step is called Rules Consideration in the House and Rules Green in the Senate (the report is printed on green paper). Sometimes bills skip this step and go to the calendar for second reading. It is another step that allows leadership to control the process.

Calendars/Bill Report Books: The Rules Committee decides which bills will be scheduled for second reading. Those bills that will probably require some debate are placed on the regular calendar.

Those that the rules committee agree are not controversial may be placed on the suspension calendar in the House, the consent calendar in the Senate.

Each house prepares documents that list the bills scheduled to be heard on the floor. The House prepares "bill report books" (containing an order of contents and the bill report of each bill on the calendar) and "floor calendars" (a list of the bills, a brief description for each, and the committee action on each). The Senate prepares "calendars" (with an order of contents and the bill report of each bill), and "flash calendars" (the list with the brief descriptions and committee actions). The Senate flash calendar lists only those bills that were "pulled" from Rules at the last Rules Committee meeting.

Second Reading: It is on second reading that the chamber discusses the merits of the legislation. It is here, too, where members can offer amendments to the bill. Most bills that get this far get their second reading in the couple of weeks following the committee cut-off.

If a bill has been amended in committee or on the floor in the first house, it is ordered engrossed. Engrossing a bill means incorporating the amendments into the body of the bill so that the second house gets one document. If a bill has been amended in the second house, it is returned to the first house with the amendments attached so that the first house can decide whether or not it wishes to agree with the changes the second house made.

Third Reading: Third reading is where the roll call vote on final passage is taken. If the bill finally passes, it continues in the process. If the bill fails on final passage, it goes no further. Under certain circumstances, the chamber may decide to reconsider the vote that was taken; in that case, the chamber has twenty-four hours to make a motion to reconsider the bill.

If the bill passes third reading in the second house and the second house did not amend the bill, the bill has passed the Legislature.

At the start of the session, both houses agree on "cut-off" dates by which bills have to be finally passed out of the first house and finally passed out of the second house.

Concurrence, Dispute, and Conference Committees: If the bill has been amended by the second house, the first house has to decide whether it will concur in the amendments or not. Leadership decides which bills returned from the second house will be discussed and places those bills on the concurrence calendar (House) or concurring calendar (Senate). If the first house concurs in the amendments, the bill has passed the Legislature.

If the first house disagrees with the second house, it can ask the second house to recede from the amendments. If the second house recedes, the bill has passed the Legislature.

If the two houses cannot resolve their differences, one of them can ask for a conference committee. Members from each house meet to discuss the differences. If they agree on what is to be done, the conference committee makes a report. Both houses must adopt the conference committee report for the bill to pass the Legislature. If one house does not adopt the conference committee report (whether by vote or inaction), the bill has not passed. The House Floor Activity Report and the Senate Floor Activity Report list the bills on the concurrence, dispute, and conference calendars.

Enrolling: Once a bill has finally passed the Legislature, it is enrolled. A certificate proclaiming that it has passed is attached and, if necessary, the amendments from the second house or conference committee are incorporated into the body of the bill. The bill is signed by the Speaker of the House, the Chief Clerk of the House, the President of the Senate, and the Secretary of the Senate and is sent to the Governor for his or her action.

Governor's actions: The Governor reviews the bill. The Governor may decide to sign it, veto part of it, or veto all of it. If the Governor vetoes part or all of it, the Legislature may vote to override the veto. (That happens rarely.) If the governor does not act on a bill after the allotted number of days, it is as if it were signed. From the Governor's desk, bills go to the Secretary of State who assigns a session law chapter number. The Chapter to Bill Table (available on the Internet) lists the bills that have passed the Legislature, the chapter numbers assigned by the Secretary of State, vetoes, short descriptions, and the effective dates.

Carryover: The Legislature works within the framework of a two-year cycle. For instance, the 2005-06 Session is the 59th Session of the Legislature. There will be a least two regular sessions, a "long" session in 2005 (105 days) and a "short" session in 2006 (60 days). There could also be any number of special sessions, none of which can last longer than 30 days.

Therefore, just because a bill did not make it all the way through during the regular session in the odd-numbered year (for example, 2005) does not mean it is "dead." At the end of the session, all bills in the second house are returned to the first house; so a House bill in committee in the Senate when session ends is returned to the House. At the start of the next session, be it a special session or the next regular session, bills from the previous session are reintroduced and retained in their present position.

"Carryover" bills can be taken up again in subsequent sessions during the biennium. The Legislature has a lot of latitude with these bills. The first house can place the bill on the calendar for third reading and send it right back to the second house, or it can make the bill go to committee and through the whole process again.

This is in addition to the new bills introduced during the current session. This procedure can make it difficult to keep track of bills during a special session or the second regular session. If a bill does not make it through the process by the end of the two-year cycle, it is "dead."

GUIDE TO EFFECTIVE LEGISLATIVE PARTICIPATION

Get to Know Your Legislators

To make a difference in the legislative process, you must develop a relationship with your legislators. Keep in mind that you can work effectively with someone, regardless of the personal opinions either of you may hold. Although you are unlikely to agree on every issue, you can still build a positive relationship.

The best way to get to know your legislators on a personal basis is to spend time with them when the Legislature is not meeting. Arrange a meeting during the months between sessions when they are home.

Your legislators are also your neighbors. You share many of the same interests and concerns, so make a strong effort to build on the common ground you both hold. Take the time to find out who they are as people.

You can contact your legislators in a number of ways:

- Personal visit. Call the office, introduce yourself, tell the legislator or the legislative assistant what you would like to discuss, and make an appointment for a visit.

If you plan a visit, be prepared for your discussion. Know what you want to say, be factual, and make your comments as brief and specific as you can. If you do not know something, be willing to admit it and offer to follow up with more information later, which is also an avenue for further discussion.

- Write a letter. Express your views and request the member's attention through the mail. Make your letters brief, to the point, clear, and formal. Include your mailing address and phone number so the legislator knows where to respond.
- Send an e-mail message. Like letters, e-mails should be brief, to the point, clear, and formal. Include your name and mailing address, as well as your e-mail address, and let the legislator know how you'd prefer to be contacted.
- Call the toll-free Legislative Hotline. You can call the toll-free Hotline at 1-800-562-6000 to leave a brief message on any issue.
- Attend a Town Hall Meeting. Most Legislators conduct periodic town hall meetings at various locations in their district. This is a good opportunity to meet your Legislator and to express your views and concerns in an informal setting.

"It is not the fact of liberty, but the way in which liberty is exercised that ultimately determines whether liberty itself survives."

— Dorothy Thompson

Participate in a Committee Hearing

The Participating in the Process page at www.leg.wa.gov gives three options on how to participate in discussions during legislative session.

- Testify before a committee. Make your views and positions known by testifying before a committee that is having public hearings on an issue or bill.

If you frequently testify on bills, you may find it useful to create a Legislative Account. An account allows you to autofill sign-in information and view and edit your sign-in history.

- Submitting Written Testimony to a Committee. If you do not wish to testify in a committee hearing, you can still submit written testimony on a bill for the archived legislative record.
- Get Your Position on a Bill Noted for Legislative Record. If you wish, you could choose to have your position noted. The Committee Sign In - Remote Testimony page also allows you to select a chamber, committee, and bill, then indicate you wish to have your position noted for the archived legislative record.

If you are a person with a disability and need a special accommodation, please contact the House at (360) 786-7271, or the Senate at (360) 786-7189. TTY 1-800-833-6388. For further legislative information, call the Legislative Hotline at 1-800-562-6000, or check the internet at www.leg.wa.gov.

“There is but one element of government, and that is THE PEOPLE. From this springs all government.”
— John Adams

The Legislative Process

Every year, the Legislature meets to engage in the process of public decision making. The objective is to reach a consensus on a wide range of issues affecting every citizen and the future prosperity of Washington State. It is a process that involves cooperation to make critical decisions in everyone’s best interest.

We have chosen representatives to carry out the difficult task of determining what kind of laws and policies will best serve these interests. However, to effectively perform their job, legislators rely heavily on input from a wide variety of different sources.

They receive a great deal of technical information from their staff, state agency personnel and professional lobbyists. Yet, much of what they actually decide depends on the views, interests and preferences of the citizens who elect them.

This is precisely how the legislative process was designed to work best. It is based on a close, open and positive relationship between elected officials and the citizens whom they represent.

You can actively participate in the legislative process in a variety of ways. Select the method that allows the fullest expression of your personal interest and commitment, but follow some basic steps.

Know How the Process Works

For your individual participation to be most effective, a basic understanding of the whole legislative picture is essential. If there is something you do not understand about the process, ask someone who can provide an answer. Here are some resources:

- Call the Legislative Information Center at (360) 786-7573.
- Call your legislator’s office.

Go to Find Your District at www.leg.wa.gov. This page uses your address to determine who your district representatives are. From there, links to their specific contact pages are provided.

- Explore the Classes & Tutorials at www.leg.wa.gov for an overview of the legislative process, and for information on how a bill becomes a law and how to read a bill.
- Listen to or watch broadcasts of committee hearings to see how they work. All committee hearings are broadcast live in streaming audio over our internet web site and many hearings are televised live on TVW (www.tvw.org).

Make Yourself the Expert

Before you address an issue, do some homework. Know the whole issue: who it affects, what others feel about it, how it will influence future trends, and any other information you are able to gather. Thorough research allows you to present your viewpoint with confidence and credibility, and, combined with your personal experience, is the most effective information you can provide.

Get to Know Legislative Staff

Legislators rely heavily on professional staff for information gathering and analysis. You can play an equally supportive role by making sure staff are aware of the perspective your personal knowledge and experience can provide. Legislative staff work on a wide range of issues. They always appreciate new sources of clear and accurate information, and they can provide you with the most current information they have.

Network with Other Citizens

Much of the information you need to be effective in the legislative process can be obtained from other concerned and active citizens. Most interest areas are represented by informal citizen groups, if not formal membership organizations.

Find out whether there are groups that share your concerns and establish a network. A group of concerned citizens can be much more effective working together, rather than as separate individuals trying to accomplish the same goal.

Key Points to Remember

Regardless of how frequently you contact your legislators, you will be far more effective if you follow these points:

1. Be well prepared for your discussions.
2. Provide a written statement with all verbal presentations.
3. Make letters and e-mail formal, specific, and concise.
4. Don’t berate or argue with your legislator when you disagree. Simply thank the member for the time spent with you and express a desire for further discussion.

Whatever position you represent, however, remember your participation makes a difference. Our legislative process is one way each of us may contribute to the quality of life we experience in our state. Your willingness to be a responsible, involved participant is crucial to the decision-making process.

HOW TO TESTIFY IN COMMITTEE

“Open” Legislature

Washington State has one of the most “open” legislatures in the country. A bill has a public hearing before Senate and House committees before being considered on the floor of the House and Senate. Your opportunity to testify comes at the committee hearings. If you cannot appear before a committee, contact your legislator making your position on a bill known. You can do so by writing a letter, sending an e-mail, calling the legislator’s Olympia office, or by calling the Legislative Hotline at 800-562-6000.

Senate committees usually meet in hearing rooms in the John A. Cherberg Building and House Committees usually meet in the John L. O’Brien Building. Both buildings are adjacent to the Legislative Building in Olympia.

“Every person may freely speak, write and publish on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of that right.”

— Article 1, Section 1
Washington State Constitution

Committee Hearings

Legislative hearings are conducted informally. They are not judicial proceedings and the rules are somewhat relaxed. Anyone can testify; you do not need formal training. Schedules of committee hearings are published weekly and daily during the legislative session.

To find out when a hearing is scheduled:

- Check our web site at www.leg.wa.gov.
- Call the toll-free Legislative Hotline number (1-800-562-6000).
- Inquire in person or by phone at the Legislative Information Center, 110 Legislative Building (360-786-7573).
- Subscribe to the Legislature’s Committee E-mail Notification Service (GovDelivery).

The Legislative Information Center also has copies of bills for distribution. Be sure to ask for any pending amendments or substitutes to particular bills. Notices of interim committee hearings are sent out by committees between legislative sessions and are available via the Legislature’s Committee E-mail Notification Service (GovDelivery).

If you are a person with a disability and need a special accommodation, please contact the House at (360) 786-7271, or the Senate at (360) 786-7189. TTY 1-800-833-6388. For further legislative information, call the Legislative Hotline at 1-800-562-6000, or check the internet at www.leg.wa.gov.

Before the Hearing

Prepare Your Remarks. Time is usually limited, so be brief and direct. Written testimony should not be read at committee hearings. Writing down your comments in outline form will be helpful when you speak, and you should summarize your written testimony.

Avoid Duplication. If other persons will be offering similar testimony at the hearing, try to coordinate your testimony and avoid duplication. Well-organized testimony is the most effective.

Are you a Lobbyist?

Generally, if you are testifying on a bill or issue and represent only yourself, you will not be required to register as a lobbyist.

This Public Disclosure Commission \(PDC\) page outlines guidelines on this subject. You do not have to register and report if you:

1. Appear only before public meetings of legislative committees or state agencies, or
2. Do not receive pay, expenses or other consideration for lobbying and make no expenditure for or on behalf of a legislator, elected official or state employee in connection with lobbying, or
3. Restrict your lobbying to four days during any three month period and spend no more than $35 for or on behalf of a legislator, elected official or state employee.

“All political power is inherent in the people, and governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed, and are established to protect and maintain individual rights.”

— Article 1, Section 1
Washington State Constitution

At The Meeting

- Be punctual; usually there is only one public hearing at which testimony is held on a particular bill.
- Sign-in is now done electronically, and closes one hour before the meeting regardless of how or where you sign in from. You may access the Committee Sign-In Program from a web-enabled device (smartphone, laptop or tablet).
- Click Committee Electronic Sign-In Instructions to obtain more detailed instructions or for information on how to create an optional Committee Sign-In account.
- The most recent proposed amendments or substitute bills are available from Committee Documents.
- Written materials are no longer accepted. You can submit written testimony here.
- Testifiers aren't allowed to use presentation equipment. Any presentation material needs to be submitted as written testimony online.

How the Meeting Is Conducted

Be present at the beginning of the hearing. The committee chair will open the hearing on a particular bill. Frequently, opening comments will be made by the bill's sponsor or by committee staff. Sometimes, however, the chair will ask for testimony from proponents and opponents immediately.

The chair will organize the hearing to ensure that:

1. The committee members hear relevant information,
2. Interested persons are given the opportunity to express their positions, and
3. The hearing does not exceed the time available.

Most committee hearings are limited to no more than two hours, and may have several matters pending. The chair will attempt to be fair and provide each person an opportunity to testify. It may be necessary, however, to restrict testimony so that everyone is given an opportunity to express his or her opinions. You may be called with others to save time.

Making Your Remarks

1. Begin by introducing yourself to the chair and committee members and stating your purpose. For example, “Mr. or Madam Chair and members of the committee, I am John Doe from Spokane. I am here representing myself. I support this bill because...”
2. In your opening remarks, make it clear whether you are representing other citizens, or a separate group.
3. Be brief, and be sure your remarks are clear. Avoid being too technical, and do not repeat previously made remarks. You do not need to be nervous or worried about how you present your testimony.
4. Be prepared for questions and comments from committee members. These are designed to gain additional information, but don't answer if you are not sure of the answer. Tell the members you will send a written answer back to the committee and then follow through.
5. Restrict yourself to your testimony. Abstain from other overt demonstrations such as clapping, cheering, booing, etc.

How to Submit Written Testimony

1. Select the committee name and meeting date and time, then select the bill for which you would like to submit written testimony.
2. Select “I would like to Submit Written Testimony.” Written testimony will close 24 hours after the start time of the hearing.
3. Provide your written comments in the form. Your comments will be made available to legislative members and staff of the committee, and will be included in the legislative record for bill and meeting archival purposes, but will not be used as part of testimony summary materials on the bill report.

How to State Your Position on a Bill Without Testifying

1. Select the committee and meeting date and time, then select the bill for which you would like to register.
2. Select “I would like my position noted for the legislative record.” Registration will close 1 hour before the start time of the hearing.
3. Ensure your registration information is accurate. Your registered position will be made available to legislative members and staff of the committee, and will be included in the legislative record for bill and meeting archival purposes, but will not be used as part of testimony summary materials on the bill report.

How a Bill Becomes a Law

1 A bill may be introduced in either the Senate or House of Representatives by a member.

2 It is referred to a committee for a hearing. The committee studies the bill and may hold public hearings on it. It can then pass, reject or take no action on the bill.

3 The committee report on the passed bill is read in open session of the House or Senate, and the bill is then referred to the Rules Committee unless otherwise ordered by the House or Senate.

4 The Rules Committee can either place the bill on the second reading of the calendar for debate before the entire body, or take no action.

5 At the second reading, a bill is subject to debate and amendment before being placed on the third reading calendar for final passage.

6 After passing one house, the bill goes through the same procedure in the other house.

7 The bill's chamber of origin must agree to any changes made to the bill by the opposite chamber.

8 When the bill is accepted in both houses, it is signed by the respective leaders and sent to the governor.

9 The governor signs the bill into law or may veto all or part of it. If the governor fails to act on the bill, it may become law without a signature.

HOW A BILL BECOMES A LAW

A bill may be introduced in either the House of Representatives or Senate, but the procedure by which a bill becomes a law is much the same, wherever the bill originates. In this example, we'll use the Senate.

1 A bill is introduced in the Senate by a member, or members, of that body. After the bill is filed with the Secretary of the Senate, it is given a number and, unless a majority demands it be read in full, it is read the first time by title only in open session of the Senate. It is then referred to a standing committee of the Senate.

6 After passing in the Senate, the bill will go through an almost identical procedure in the House. If the bill is passed by the House, but is amended by that body, the Senate must concur in the amendments or ask the House to remove them. If the Senate does not accept the change in the bill and the House insists on the change, a conference committee may be requested to work out the differences.

7 If appointed, a conference committee has the power to work from the proposed amendments or to recommend new amendments or a striking amendment, consistent with the subject matter of the original measure. When the conferees reach agreement, they report to their respective chambers. Their report is either adopted or rejected without any changes.

There has been an average of around 1,630 bills introduced and 1,200 floor amendments each year over the past ten years.

2 The committee studies the bill and often holds public hearings on it. The committee will then meet to consider the information it has gathered. It may approve the bill with or without amendments, draft a substitute bill on the same subject incorporating the desired changes, or take no action.

* Includes special sessions.

This process has to be completed before the fiscal committee's House of Origin Cut-Off Date. From here, a bill will go through the same process in the opposite chamber.

5 When the bill appears on the calendar for second reading, it is subject to amendment. The bill may be amended or left as is and moved to third reading and final passage. Debate may occur on amendments and final passage of the bill. Depending upon the degree of controversy, debate may last a few minutes to several hours — or even several days.

There has been an average of around 320 bills passed each year over the past ten years, which is about 20%.

8 If the report is adopted and the bill passed by both chambers, the bill is signed by the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House in open sessions of each body, and then is sent for the Governor's signature.

3 The committee is now ready to report back to the Senate. If the majority is in favor of the bill as introduced or with certain amendments, the committee recommends the bill for passage. The committee report is read in open session of the Senate, and the bill is then referred to the Rules Committee. If the bill has a significant fiscal impact, it may be referred to the Ways & Means or Transportation Committee for budget impact. If the bill is referred to a fiscal committee, it repeats steps 2 and 3.

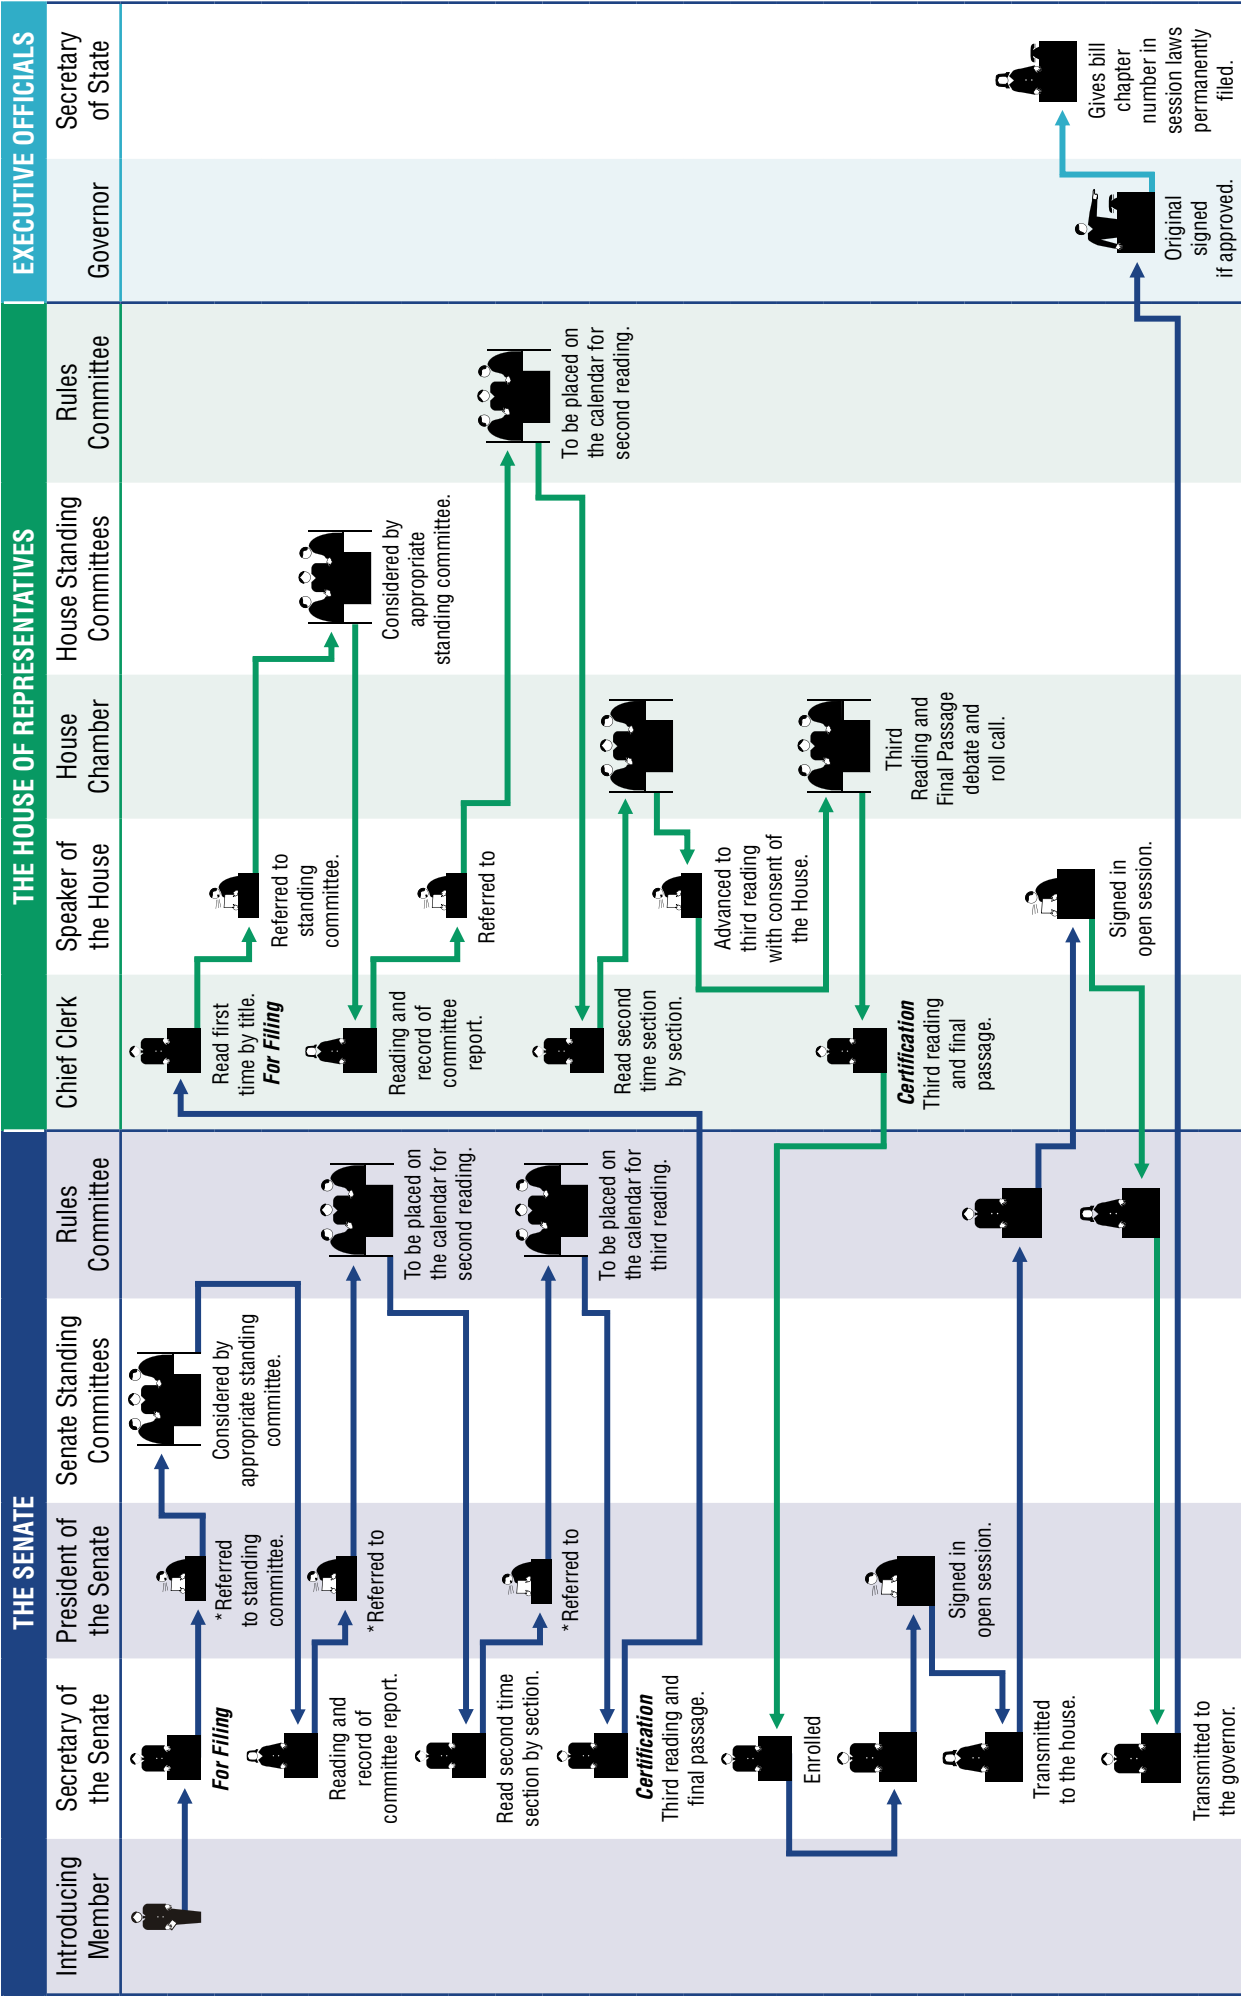

4 Once the bill reaches the Rules Committee, it can be placed on the second reading calendar for debate before the entire Senate, or take no action.

9 Within five days, if the Legislature is still in session, or twenty days after its adjournment, the Governor may sign the bill or veto all or any section of it. The Legislature can override the veto by a two-thirds vote of both chambers. If the Governor fails to act on the bill, it becomes law without a signature.

THE COURSE OF A BILL

Published by the Senate and the House of Representatives

The above procedure for a non-fiscal bill introduced in the Senate is the simplest possible, neither veto nor amendment has occurred. If such a bill is introduced in the House, the Chief Clerk would perform essentially the same functions as the Secretary of the Senate as indicated above, and the action of the Senate thereon would occur after passage thereof by the House.

* By a vote of the Senate

UNDERSTANDING HOUSE AND SENATE CALENDARS

As bills are introduced and pass through the legislative process they are assigned to various “calendars”. Aside from the Cutoff Calendar and the various committee hearing calendars, these documents aren’t calendars in the familiar sense. They are generally lists of bills with brief descriptions that have been cleared through one of the legislative steps like bill introduction or coming out of committee. These “calendars” are issued as these events occur (usually daily) and may have different names in the House and the Senate.

The Cutoff Calendar

At the beginning of each session, the House and the Senate jointly agree on a timetable for considering bills. Bills that haven’t moved forward through the various steps by the dates listed on the cutoff calendar will most likely receive no further consideration. Typical cutoff dates are last day to be voted out of committee, the last day to consider bills in the house of origin, the last day for bills from the opposite house to be voted out of committee, and the last day for bills from the opposite house to be considered on the floor.

<https://leg.wa.gov/legislature/Pages/cutoff.aspx>

The Introduction Calendars

The House and the Senate both have an Introduction Calendar (the Senate’s is sometimes call the Short Titles). The respective Introduction Calendars list all the bills introduced for the day on the floor of the House or Senate and provide a short description of each.

<https://leg.wa.gov/legislature/Pages/Calendar.aspx>

The Standing Committee Reports

The House and Senate both produce a Standing Committee Report which lists all the bills that have been passed out of committees for the day. The report lists the bill number, a brief description, the committee and its recommendation and the place to which the bill was referred next (usually the Rules Committee).

<https://app.leg.wa.gov/billinfo/outofcommittee.aspx>

The Rules Review Calendar (House) or Rules White Calendar (Senate)

Bills generally go through a two-step review process in the rules committee where members can select a limited number of bills on the calendar to receive further consideration. These calendars list the bills which are in the initial review stage in the rules committee.

<https://app.leg.wa.gov/dlr/tld/>

The Rules Consideration Calendar (House) or Rules Green Calendar (Senate)

These calendars list the bills which have been selected from the Review or White calendars in the calendar above and are eligible to be pulled from this calendar to the floor of the House or Senate.

<https://app.leg.wa.gov/dlr/tld/>

The Rules Flash Calendar (Senate only)

This calendar lists the bills that have been pulled from the Green or White Calendars at the most recent Senate Rules meeting and sent to the floor. The House produces no comparable calendar.

<https://app.leg.wa.gov/dlr/tld/>

The X-Files Calendar

The House and Senate both produce an X-Files calendar. This is a list of bills which the Rules Committee members agree will not be sent to the floor of the House or the Senate for further consideration.

If you are a person with a disability and need a special accommodation, please contact the House at (360) 786-7271, or the Senate at (360) 786-7189. TTY 1-800-833-6388. For further legislative information, call the Legislative Hotline at 1-800-562-6000, or check the internet at www.leg.wa.gov.

The Suspension Calendar (House) or Consent Calendar (Senate)

These calendars are published after a Rules Committee meeting and contain a list of non-controversial bills all the rules members agree can be sent to the floor without the usual two-step process. These calendars have been used rarely in the past few years.

The 2nd & 3rd Reading Calendar (House) or Green Book (Senate)

This is a list and description of all bills currently under consideration on the floor of the House or Senate.

<https://leg.wa.gov/legislature/Pages/Calendar.aspx>

The Concurrence Calendar

This is a list of bills from the opposite house which have been amended and are seeking concurrence (agreement on the amendments by the house of origin).

<https://leg.wa.gov/legislature/Pages/Calendar.aspx>

The Dispute Calendar

This is a list of bills with amendments that have come back from the opposite house without concurrence (the opposite house didn't agree with the amendments and asks the house making the amendments to just pass the original version of the bill).

<https://leg.wa.gov/legislature/Pages/Calendar.aspx>

The Conference Calendar

This is a list of bills in dispute which have been referred to the Conference Committee.

<https://leg.wa.gov/legislature/Pages/Calendar.aspx>

The Confirmation Calendar (Senate only)

This is a list of Gubernatorial appointments that are currently on the floor of the Senate awaiting confirmation.

All of these calendars are available in paper form in the Legislative Information Center as they are published, and most are available electronically on the Legislative Website www.leg.wa.gov.

ELECTED OFFICIALS AND THEIR FUNCTIONS

The nine elected executives serve a four-year term. All run independently. The Superintendent of Public Instruction may not declare a partisan affiliation. They are listed in their order of ascension to the office of Governor.

Governor

The State Constitution assigns the Governor the “supreme executive power of this state.” This role is continuously redefined through constitutional and statutory changes and through accepted practice.

The Governor is head of the executive branch of government, but also has legislative responsibilities, as well as serving as an agent of communications with other states and the federal government.

The Governor’s executive branch responsibilities include appointing the heads of departments, agencies, and institutions. Also, mid-term vacancies in certain positions outside the executive branch, such as judges, are filled initially by gubernatorial appointment.

By holding cabinet meetings, communicating with other state officers and overseeing budget expenditures, the Governor fulfills the responsibility to “see that the laws are faithfully executed.” The Governor further fulfills this responsibility by serving as an ex-officio member on a number of boards and commissions.

The Governor’s legislative responsibilities include reporting to the Legislature annually on affairs of the state (the State of the State Address) and submitting a budget recommendation. Other legislative recommendations may also be issued by the Governor. Further, the Governor may veto legislation passed by the Legislature and may convene the Legislature in extraordinary session.

Other duties assigned to the Governor include serving as commander-in-chief of the state’s military establishment (the National Guard), except when it has been called into federal service. Pardoning power also is vested in the Governor, subject to regulations and restrictions prescribed by law.

In addition, the Governor makes countless personal appearances at public and private events, and issues proclamations relating to matters of interest to the people of Washington.

Lieutenant Governor

The function of the Lieutenant Governor is to act as Governor if the Governor is removed from office or is unable to perform the duties of the office, to be the presiding officer of the Senate, to serve as acting Governor when the Governor is absent from the state, and to discharge other duties as prescribed by law.

The Lieutenant Governor serves by tradition as Chair of the Senate Rules Committee. The Lieutenant Governor is a member of the State Finance Committee, State Capitol Committee, the Washington Health Care Facilities Authority, the Washington Higher Education Facilities Authority, and the State Medal of Merit Committee.

Secretary of State

The office of the Secretary of State was established with the adoption of the State Constitution in 1889.

Elections

The Secretary of State is the state's chief elections officer, and as such, is responsible for supervising all state and local elections. The Elections Division produces and distributes the state's voters' pamphlet, verifies petition signatures on initiatives and referendums, accepts declarations of candidacy for federal and state offices, administers voter registration programs, canvasses state election returns, and tests and certifies electronic voting equipment.

Corporations

All corporations doing business in Washington must register with the Secretary of State through the agency's Corporations Division. These registrations provide information about a corporation's officers, and other related data for use by financial and legal services, law enforcement agencies, the IRS, and the general public.

Archives

The Secretary of State is responsible for collecting and preserving the historical records of the state, and making those records available for research. Records dating back to 1854 are held by the agency's Archives Division at the state capital and at five regional repositories across the state.

State Library

The Washington State Library became a part of the Secretary of State's Office in 2002. The State Library opened in 1853. Since 1889, the date of the first legislative session, the library has recorded every bill introduced in the Legislature. Its collections include the Journals of the Lewis and Clark Expedition, the papers of renowned activists like Emma Smith Devoe, details of Pacific Northwest science explorations of the 19th century, and medical books dating back to the 1600's.

Other functions of the Secretary of State include: registering all organizations involved in soliciting the public for charitable donations; administering the state's Productivity Board encouraging state employees to create solutions to make the state more efficient and effective; managing the Address Confidentiality Program for victims of domestic violence; affixing the State Seal and attesting to certain documents issued by the Governor; and certifying certain matters to the Legislature.

In addition to these constitutional and statutory duties, the Secretary of State is frequently called upon to greet and confer with dignitaries and delegations visiting the state of Washington from other countries.

State Treasurer

As the state's chief financial officer, the Treasurer provides for the banking, financial and investment needs of state government.

Revenues and other funds collected by state agencies are transmitted to the Treasurer daily. The Treasurer is responsible for distributing these funds to state agencies, counties, cities and school districts. As the state's disbursement officer, the Treasurer signs more than 5.4 million warrants annually. But, increasingly, the transactions are made electronically.

Treasury receipts, including investment transactions, average more than $310 million daily. Early every morning the Treasurer invests all cash in excess of the state's daily needs in short-term securities. In fiscal year 1995 the Treasurer's cash management investments averaged nearly $1.9 billion daily and earned taxpayers $128 million in interest.

The Treasurer is custodian for all state-owned investments (securities, bonds, stocks, etc.), including $30 billion in state pension and accident insurance funds managed by the State Investment Board. The Treasurer is one of nine members of the State Investment Board.

The Treasurer, on behalf of the State Finance Committee, issues state bonds to finance state construction projects and pays interest and principal to the state's bondholders.

State Auditor

The State Auditor has the important responsibility to ensure that state and local governments are accountable to the public they serve. The Washington State Constitution establishes the office as the auditor of all public accounts. Every public dollar spent by state agencies and local governments comes under the Auditor's purview.

The office's primary service is the performance of regular financial and legal compliance audits of all state agencies and local governments. There are more than 2,400 local governments in Washington including all cities, counties, schools, ports and special purpose districts. Also audited are all state agencies, boards and commissions, including public colleges and universities. Fraud and other special investigations are also performed.

In addition, the Auditor administers the Employee Disclosure, or "Whistleblower Act", and investigates citizen reports of government impropriety. As an elected office, the State Auditor has the independence necessary to objectively perform audits and investigations.

Other responsibilities include prescribing local governments' uniform budgeting, accounting and reporting systems; training and technical assistance; prescribing the accounting manual for public school districts jointly with the Superintendent of Public Instruction; annually publishing local government comparative statistics; and coordinating the audit efficiency and quality assurance program.

With a staff of nearly 300 located strategically around the state, the Auditor's Office is able to deliver services effectively and efficiently.

Attorney General

The office of the Attorney General is the largest law firm in the state of Washington. The office is headed by the Attorney General, the state's chief legal officer. The office is also staffed by attorneys, appointed as Assistant Attorneys General, administrative, investigative, paralegal, secretarial and other staff members.

The Attorney General has a broad array of responsibilities unique and necessary to the operations of state government. These responsibilities include: serving as legal counsel to the Governor, members of the Legislature, state officials, and the more than 230 state agencies, boards and commissions; defending the state officials and employees for actions performed in their official capacities; advising and representing the state agencies so they can fulfill their official duties; and issuing legal opinions. The Attorney General also enforces the Consumer Protection Act, and advises and assists local prosecuting attorneys when requested.

Commissioner of Public Lands

The Commissioner of Public Lands is the elected head of the Washington State Department of Natural Resources (DNR), one of the largest natural resource agencies in the nation.

The Board of Natural Resources, chaired by the Commissioner of Public Lands, establishes policy for the department.

The department has four primary roles: land manager, regulator, firefighter, and conservator.

Land Manager

The department, led by the Lands Commissioner, manages about 5 million acres of public lands. DNR manages about 2 million acres of forest lands and 1 million acres of agricultural and grazing lands as well as urban properties, generating income to support school construction, colleges, counties, state institutions and other beneficiaries.

DNR manages nearly 2 million acres of state-owned aquatic lands – tidelands, harbors and the beds of navigable waterways – to benefit the people of Washington.

Regulator

DNR oversees dozens of resource-based businesses at the foundation of Washington's economy. The department enforces laws regulating logging practices, reforestation requirements, petroleum and natural gas exploration and surface mine reclamation.

Firefighter

The department's wildlife protection and suppression programs cover about 12 million acres of state and private forest land. Fighting fire is a priority that spans every level of DNR's seven regions and 13 divisions.

Conservator

DNR has taken a lead role in preserving Washington's natural heritage. A rapidly growing system of Natural Area Preserves and Natural Resources Conservation Areas protects sites of outstanding beauty and environmental significance.

DNR's responsibilities are linked by a guiding commitment to be good stewards of Washington's natural resources.

Insurance Commissioner

Consumer protection is the most important job of the Insurance Commissioner.

When the office was created by the first state Legislature in 1889-90, its main function was simply to register insurance companies that wanted to do business in Washington. Today, the role has expanded to include overall industry regulation, making sure companies meet all their obligations and abide by the rigorous financial and legal standards set for doing business in this state.

About 50 of the 1,500 authorized insurers in Washington State today are "domestic" insurers, which means they have their headquarters in the state. In addition, the agency is responsible for the testing, licensing and oversight of more than 36,000 individual companies and licenses each year.

Any citizen may file a complaint with the Insurance Commissioner and request an investigation of that complaint. The Consumer Protection Division routinely fields more than 200,000 contacts a year, many of them via a special toll-free hot line: 1-800-562-6900.

Seniors on Medicare or other retirement benefits have access to a special arm of the agency. The Senior Health Insurance Benefits Advisors are trained by the experts on the Commissioner's staff and are available in most Washington communities to meet with other seniors to discuss health-insurance concerns.

The Commissioner's office collects a special tax levied on insurance companies and turns over more than $100 million a year to the state's general fund. The insurance industry also must pay for its own regulation. Companies share that cost according to the amount of business they do in the state.
