The funding provided in this subsection is sufficient for the department to increase rates according to inflation, pursuant to Engrossed Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5237 (child care & early dev. exp.), beginning in fiscal year 2023 and annually thereafter.

The legislature intends with the passage of Engrossed Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5237 (child care & early dev. exp.) to implement these federal purposes by expanding eligibility for subsidized child care, reducing parent copayments, increasing provider base rates to recognize increased costs, and providing other financial support to stabilize the child care sector to remain open or to reopen. Certificated instructional staff units provided for skills centers that exceed the minimum requirements of RCW 28A.150.260 achieve class size reductions under RCW 28A.400.007 and are part of the state's program of basic education.

(ii) Pursuant to RCW 28A.150.260(4)(a), the assumed teacher planning period, expressed as a percentage of a teacher work day, is 13.42 percent in grades K-6, and 16.67 percent in grades 7-12; and

(iii) Advanced placement and international baccalaureate courses are funded at the same class size assumptions as general education schools in the same grade; and

(d)(i) Funding for teacher librarians, school nurses, social workers, school psychologists, and guidance counselors is allocated based on the school prototypes as provided in RCW 28A.150.260, as amended by Second Substitute House Bill No. 1664 (schools/support funding), and is considered certificated instructional staff, except as provided in (d)(ii) of this subsection.

(ii)(A) For the twenty schools with the lowest overall school score for all students in the 2018-19 school year, as determined by the Washington school improvement framework among elementary schools, middle schools, and other schools not serving students up to twelfth grade, having enrollments greater than one hundred fifty students, in addition to the allocation under (d)(i) of this subsection the superintendent shall allocate additional funding for guidance counselors for each level of prototypical school in the 2021-22 school year as follows:

	Elementary	Middle
Guidance counselors	0.307	0.512

To receive additional allocations under this subsection (2)(d)(ii)(A), a school eligible to receive the allocation must have demonstrated actual staffing for guidance counselors for its prototypical school level that meets or exceeds the staffing for guidance counselors in (d)(i) of this subsection and this subsection (2)(d)(ii)(A) for its prototypical school level. School districts must distribute the additional guidance counselors allocation in this subsection to the schools that generate the allocation. The enhancement within this subsection is not part of the state's program of basic education.

(B) For qualifying high-poverty schools in the 2022-23 school year, at which more than 50 percent of the students were eligible for free and reduced-price meals in the prior school year, in addition to the allocation under (d)(i) of this subsection, the superintendent shall allocate additional funding for guidance counselors for each level of prototypical school as follows:

The superintendent shall make allocations to school districts based on the district's annual average full-time equivalent enrollment in each grade. The following prototypical school values shall determine the allocation for principals, assistant principals, and other certificated building level administrators:

Prototypical School Building:

Elementary School	1.253
Middle School	1.353
High School	1.880

(b) Students in approved career and technical education and skill center programs generate certificated school building-level administrator staff units at per student rates that are a multiple of the general education rate in (a) of this subsection by the following factors:

Career and Technical Education students	1.025

(4) CLASSIFIED STAFF ALLOCATIONS

Allocations for classified staff units providing school building-level and district-wide support services for the 2021-22 and 2022-23 school years are determined using the formula-generated staff units provided in RCW 28A.150.260 and pursuant to this subsection, and adjusted based on each district's annual average full-time equivalent student enrollment in each grade.

(5) CENTRAL OFFICE ALLOCATIONS

In addition to classified and administrative staff units allocated in subsections (3) and (4) of this section, classified and administrative staff units are provided for the 2021-22 and 2022-23 school years for the central office administrative costs of operating a school district, at the following rates:

(a) The total central office staff units provided in this subsection (5) are calculated by first multiplying the total number of eligible certificated instructional, certificated administrative, and classified staff units providing school-based or district-wide support services, as identified in RCW 28A.150.260(6)(b) and the increased allocations provided pursuant to subsections (2) and (4) of this section, by 5.3 percent.

(b) Of the central office staff units calculated in (a) of this subsection, 74.53 percent are allocated as classified staff units, as generated in subsection (4) of this section, and 25.48 percent shall be allocated as administrative staff units, as generated in subsection (3) of this section.

(c) Staff units generated as enhancements outside the program of basic education to the minimum requirements of RCW 28A.150.260, and staff units generated by skill center and career-technical students, are excluded from the total central office staff units calculation in (a) of this subsection.

(d) For students in approved career-technical and skill center programs, central office classified units are allocated at the same staff unit per student rate as those generated for general education students of the same grade in this subsection (5), and central office administrative staff units are allocated at staff unit per student rates that exceed the general education rate established for students in the same grade in this subsection (5) by ~~((12.58))~~ 12.58 percent in the 2021-22 school year and ~~((11.91))~~ 11.91 percent in the 2022-23 school year for career and technical education students, and ~~((17.92))~~ 17.92 percent in the 2021-22 school year and ~~((17.22))~~ 17.22 percent in the 2022-23 school year for skill center students.

(7) INSURANCE BENEFIT ALLOCATIONS

Insurance benefit allocations shall be calculated at the rates specified in section 506 of this act, based on the number of benefit units determined as follows: Except for nonrepresented employees of educational service districts, the number of calculated benefit units determined below. Calculated benefit units are staff units multiplied by the benefit allocation factors established in the collective bargaining agreement referenced in ~~((section 942 of this act))~~ section 934 of this act. These factors are intended to adjust allocations so that, for the purpose of distributing insurance benefits, full-time equivalent employees may be calculated on the basis of 630 hours of work per year, with no individual employee counted as more than one full-time equivalent. The number of benefit units is determined as follows:

(a) The number of certificated staff units determined in subsections (2), (3), and (5) of this section multiplied by 1.02; and

(b) The number of classified staff units determined in subsections (4) and (5) of this section multiplied by 1.43.

(8) MATERIALS, SUPPLIES, AND OPERATING COSTS (MSOC) ALLOCATIONS

(b) Five funded substitute days per classroom teacher unit generated under subsection (2) of this section at a daily substitute rate of $151.86 and two funded substitute days per classified staff units generated under subsection (4) of this section at a daily substitute rate of $100.

(c) $29,880,000 of the education legacy trust account—state appropriation is provided solely for a one-time allocation to school districts for substitute costs. Allocations must be distributed to school districts proportionate to the substitute allocations provided in (b) of this subsection. To receive increased funding in this subsection, a school district must have a pool of paid leave that is available to staff who become ill or need to quarantine due to COVID-19 and who have limited leave balances, with priority given to those with 10 days or less of available leave.

(10) ALTERNATIVE LEARNING EXPERIENCE PROGRAM FUNDING

(a) Amounts provided in this section from July 1, 2021, to August 31, 2021, are adjusted to reflect provisions of chapter 357, Laws of 2020, as amended (allocation of funding for students enrolled in alternative learning experiences).

(b) To generate an allocation under this section, enrollments under uniform entry qualifications for kindergarten admission require an individualized decision by the district that is based upon the ability, or the need, or both, of an individual student as required in RCW 28A.225.160. Due to significant growth in exceptions provided under optional school district transitional kindergarten programs, and to ensure compliance with RCW 28A.225.160, the superintendent of public instruction must adopt rules for allocations under this section regarding exceptions to uniform entry qualifications for kindergarten admission for the 2022-23 school year. Rules established under the subsection must:

(i) Limit allocations for exceptions to uniform entry qualifications for kindergarten under this section only to students enrolled as individualized exceptions based upon the ability, or the need, or both, of an individual student;

(ii) Define full-time equivalent enrollments under exceptions to uniform entry qualifications for kindergarten that exceed a district's 2021-22 enrollments under exceptions as nonindividualized programmatic exceptions, which do not generate allocations under this section;

(iii) Allow school districts to fund nonindividualized programmatic exceptions from local revenues as enrichments of the state's statutory program of basic education; and

(iv) Include a review no later than June 30, 2023, based on the Washington state institute for public policy report required in section 606(4)(n) of this act and any applicable statutory changes made subsequent to this act.

(1) If a local education agency's combined state revenue generated in the 2021-22 school year is less than what its combined state revenue would be using the local education agency's budgeted 2021-22 annual average enrollment values used for December 2021 apportionment, then the superintendent of public instruction must provide a budgeted enrollment stabilization amount to the local education agency in the 2021-22 school year.

average enrollment values for the 2021-22 school year used for December 2021 apportionment minus its combined state revenue generated in the 2021-22 school year based on actual annual average enrollment values, if the difference is greater than zero, capped at the local education agency's proportional stabilization amount based on 2019-20 enrollment.

(c) "Proportional enrollment stabilization amount based on 2019-20 enrollment" for a local education agency is equal to the statewide net enrollment impact based on 2019-20 enrollment multiplied by its local education agency low enrollment impact based on 2019-20 enrollment divided by the statewide low enrollment impact based on 2019-20 enrollment.

(d) "Local education agency low enrollment impact based on 2019-20 enrollment" is equal to a local education agency's combined state revenue that would be generated using 2019-20 annual average enrollment values and formulas in place for the 2021-22 school year minus its combined state revenue generated in the 2021-22 school year, if the difference is greater than zero.

(e) "Statewide low enrollment impact based on 2019-20 enrollment" is the sum of local education agency low enrollment impacts based on 2019-20 enrollment for all local education agencies.

(f) "Statewide net enrollment impact based on 2019-20 enrollment" is equal to the combined state revenue that would be generated statewide using 2019-20 annual average enrollment values and formulas in place for the 2021-22 school year minus the combined state revenue generated statewide in the 2021-22 school year.

The governor's designee and the exclusive bargaining representative or representatives are authorized to enter into supplemental bargaining of agency-specific issues for inclusion in or as an addendum to the master collective bargaining agreement, subject to the parties' agreement regarding the issues and procedures for supplemental bargaining. Exclusive bargaining representatives that represent employees covered under chapter 41.06 RCW and exclusive bargaining representatives that represent employees exempt under chapter 41.06 RCW shall constitute separate coalitions and must negotiate separate master collective bargaining agreements. This subsection does not prohibit cooperation and coordination of bargaining between two or more exclusive bargaining representatives.

(b) This subsection does not apply to exclusive bargaining representatives who represent employees of institutions of higher education, except when the institution of higher education has elected to exercise its option under subsection (4) of this section to have its negotiations conducted by the governor or governor's designee under the procedures provided for general government agencies in subsections (1) through (3) of this section.

Requests for funds necessary to implement the provisions of bargaining agreements shall not be submitted to the legislature by the governor unless such requests:

(a) Have been submitted to the director of the office of financial management by October 1 prior to the legislative session at which the requests are to be considered; and

(b) Have been certified by the director of the office of financial management as being feasible financially for the state.

The legislature shall approve or reject the submission of the request for funds as a whole. The legislature shall not consider a request for funds to implement a collective bargaining agreement unless the request is transmitted to the legislature as part of the governor's budget document submitted under RCW 43.88.030 and 43.88.060. If the legislature rejects or fails to act on the submission, either party may reopen all or part of the agreement or the exclusive bargaining representative may seek to implement the procedures provided for in RCW 41.80.090.

(4)(a)(i) For the purpose of negotiating agreements for institutions of higher education, the employer shall be the respective governing board of each of the universities, colleges, or community colleges or a designee chosen by the board to negotiate on its behalf.

(c)(i) In the case of bargaining agreements reached between institutions of higher education other than the University of Washington and exclusive bargaining representatives agreed to under the provisions of this chapter, if appropriations are necessary to implement the compensation and fringe benefit provisions of the bargaining agreements, the governor shall submit a request for such funds to the legislature according to the provisions of subsection (3) of this section, except as provided in (c)(iii) of this subsection.

(ii) In the case of bargaining agreements reached between the University of Washington and exclusive bargaining representatives agreed to under the provisions of this chapter, if appropriations are necessary to implement the compensation and fringe benefit provisions of a bargaining agreement, the governor shall submit a request for such funds to the legislature according to the provisions of subsection (3) of this section, except as provided in this subsection (4)(c)(ii) and as provided in (c)(iii) of this subsection.

(A) If appropriations of less than ten thousand dollars are necessary to implement the provisions of a bargaining agreement, a request for such funds shall not be submitted to the legislature by the governor unless the request has been submitted to the director of the office of financial management by October 1 prior to the legislative session at which the request is to be considered.

(II) Has been certified by the director of the office of financial management as being feasible financially for the state.

(C) If the director of the office of financial management does not certify a request under (c)(ii)(B) of this subsection as being feasible financially for the state, the parties shall enter into collective bargaining solely for the purpose of reaching a mutually agreed upon modification of the agreement necessary to address the absence of those requested funds. The legislature may act upon the compensation and fringe benefit provisions of the modified collective bargaining agreement if those provisions are agreed upon and submitted to the office of financial management and legislative budget committees before final legislative action on the biennial or supplemental operating budget by the sitting legislature.

(iii) In the case of a bargaining unit of employees of institutions of higher education in which the exclusive bargaining representative is certified during or after the conclusion of a legislative session, the legislature may act upon the compensation and fringe benefit provisions of the unit's initial collective bargaining agreement if those provisions are agreed upon and submitted to the office of financial management and legislative budget committees before final legislative action on the biennial or supplemental operating budget by the sitting legislature.

(5) If, after the compensation and fringe benefit provisions of an agreement are approved by the legislature, a significant revenue shortfall occurs resulting in reduced appropriations, as declared by proclamation of the governor or by resolution of the legislature, both parties shall immediately enter into collective bargaining for a mutually agreed upon modification of the agreement.

(6) After the expiration date of a collective bargaining agreement negotiated under this chapter, all of the terms and conditions specified in the collective bargaining agreement remain in effect until the effective date of a subsequently negotiated agreement, not to exceed one year from the expiration date stated in the agreement. Thereafter, the employer may unilaterally implement according to law.

(1) The COVID-19 public health response account is created in the custody of the state treasurer. Only the secretary, or the secretary's designee, may authorize expenditures from the account for costs related to the public health response to COVID-19, subject to any limitations imposed by grant funding deposited into the account. The COVID-19 public health response account is subject to allotment procedures under chapter 43.88 RCW, but an appropriation is not required for expenditures.

(2)(a) The legislature finds that a safe, efficient, and effective delivery of vaccinations is of the utmost importance for restoring societal and economic functions. As we learn more about the virus, the vaccine, and challenges to vaccine allocation and distribution, it is anticipated that the state's COVID-19 vaccination distribution plan will evolve. To that end, the legislature has provided flexibility by funding expenditures for testing, contact tracing, mitigation activities, vaccine administration and distribution, and other allowable uses for the state, local health jurisdictions, and tribes at the discretion of the secretary and without an appropriation. However, to maintain fiscal control and to ensure spending priorities align, the department is required to collaborate and communicate with the chairs and ranking members of the health care and fiscal committees of the legislature and local health jurisdictions in advance of any significant revision of the state's COVID-19 vaccination plan and to provide regular updates on its implementation and spending.

(b) As part of the public health response to COVID-19, the expenditures from the account must be used to effectively administer the vaccine for COVID-19 and conduct testing and contact tracing. The department must ensure that COVID-19 outreach is accessible, culturally and linguistically appropriate, and that it includes community-driven partnerships and strategies.

(c) When making expenditures for administering the vaccine for COVID-19, the department must focus on identifying persons for vaccination, prioritizing underserved, underrepresented, and hard-to-reach communities, making the vaccine accessible, and providing support to schools for safe reopening. Strategies for vaccine distribution shall include the establishment and expansion of community vaccination centers, mobile vaccination units, reporting enhancements, in-home visits for vaccinations for the elderly, and transportation of individuals to vaccination sites.

(d) When making expenditures regarding testing and contact tracing, the department must provide equitable access, prioritize underserved, underrepresented, and hard-to-reach communities,

(3) When making expenditures from the account, the department must include an emphasis on public communication regarding the availability and accessibility of the vaccine and testing, and the importance of vaccine and testing availability to the safe reopening of the state.

(4)(a) The department must report to the fiscal and health care committees of the legislature on a monthly basis regarding its COVID-19 response.

~~((b))~~ To the extent that it is available, the report must include data regarding vaccine distribution, testing, and contact tracing, as follows:

(ii) The quarterly reports must reflect the previous quarter, a projection of expected expenditures and revenue for the next quarter, and an accounting of the expenditures and revenue for the 2021-2023 fiscal biennium to date. The quarterly reports are due no later than 30 days after the end of the applicable quarter.

(c) The first monthly report pursuant to (a) of this subsection is due no later than one month from February 19, 2021. Monthly reports are no longer required upon the department's determination that the remaining balance of the COVID-19 ~~((public health))~~ public health response account is less than $100,000.

The amount to the department shall also be used to defray the costs of administering the funding, coordination, and oversight of local government programs for waste reduction, litter control, recycling, and composting so that local governments can apply one hundred percent of their funding to achieving program goals. The amount to the department of revenue shall be used to enforce compliance with the litter tax imposed in chapter 82.19 RCW;

2022 REGULAR SESSION

(b)(i) Twenty percent to the department for local government funding programs for waste reduction, litter control, recycling activities, and composting activities by cities and counties under RCW 70A.200.190, to be administered by the department of ecology; (ii) any unspent funds under (b)(i) of this subsection may be used to create and pay for a matching fund competitive grant program to be used by local governments for the development and implementation of contamination reduction and outreach plans for inclusion in comprehensive solid waste management plans or by local governments and nonprofit organizations for local or statewide education programs designed to help the public with litter control, waste reduction, recycling, and composting of primarily the products taxed under chapter 82.19 RCW. Recipients under this subsection include programs to reduce wasted food and food waste that are designed to achieve the goals established in RCW 70A.205.715(1) and that are consistent with the plan developed in RCW 70A.205.715(3). Grants must adhere to the following requirements: (A) No grant may exceed sixty thousand dollars; (B) grant recipients shall match the grant funding allocated by the department by an amount equal to twenty-five percent of eligible expenses. A local government's share of these costs may be met by cash or contributed services; (C) the obligation of the department to make grant payments is contingent upon the availability of the amount of money appropriated for this subsection (1)(b); and (D) grants are managed under the guidelines for existing grant programs; and

(c) Forty percent to the department of ecology to: (i) Implement activities under RCW 70A.200.150 for waste reduction, recycling, and composting efforts; (ii) provide technical assistance to local governments and commercial businesses to increase recycling markets and recycling and composting programs primarily for the products taxed under chapter 82.19 RCW designed to educate citizens about waste reduction, litter control, and recyclable and compostable products and programs; (iii) increase access to waste reduction, composting, and recycling programs, particularly for food packaging and plastic bags and appropriate composting techniques; and (iv) for programs to reduce wasted food and food waste that are designed to achieve the goals established in RCW 70A.205.715(1) and that are consistent with the plan developed in RCW 70A.205.715(3).

(3) Not less than five percent and no more than ten percent of the amount appropriated into the waste reduction, recycling, and litter control account every biennium shall be reserved for capital needs, including the purchase of vehicles for transporting crews and for collecting litter and solid waste. Capital funds shall be distributed among state agencies and local governments according to the same criteria provided in RCW 70A.200.170 for the remainder of the funds, so that the most effective waste reduction, litter control, recycling, and composting programs receive the most funding. The intent of this subsection is to provide funds for the purchase of equipment that will enable the department to account for the greatest return on investment in terms of reaching a zero litter goal.

(4) Funds in the waste reduction, recycling, and litter control account, collected under chapter 82.19 RCW, must be prioritized for the products identified under RCW 82.19.020 solely for the purposes of recycling, composting, and litter collection, reduction, and control programs.

Sec. 958. RCW 71.24.580 and 2021 c 334 s 989 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The criminal justice treatment account is created in the state treasury. Moneys in the account may be expended solely for: (a) Substance use disorder treatment and treatment support services for offenders with a substance use disorder that, if not treated, would result in addiction, against whom charges are filed by a prosecuting attorney in Washington state; (b) the provision of substance use disorder treatment services and treatment support services for nonviolent offenders within a drug court program and, during the 2021-23 fiscal biennium, for 180 days following graduation from the drug court program; and (c) the administrative and overhead costs associated with the operation of a drug court. Amounts provided in this subsection must be used for treatment and recovery support services for criminally involved offenders and authorization of these services shall not be subject to determinations of medical necessity. During the 2019-2021 and 2021-2023 fiscal biennia, funding from the criminal justice treatment account may be used to provide treatment and support services through the conclusion of an individual's treatment plan to individuals participating in a drug court program as of February 24, 2021, if that individual wishes to continue treatment following dismissal of charges they were facing under RCW 69.50.4013(1). Such participation is voluntary and contingent upon substantial compliance with drug court program requirements. During the 2019-2021 and 2021-2023 fiscal biennia, the legislature may appropriate from the account for municipal drug courts and increased treatment options. During the 2019-2021 fiscal biennium, the legislature may direct the state treasurer to make transfers of moneys in the criminal justice treatment account to the home security fund account created in RCW 43.185C.060. Moneys in the account may be spent only after appropriation.

(2) For purposes of this section:

(a) "Treatment" means services that are critical to a participant's successful completion of his or her substance use disorder treatment program, including but not limited to the recovery support and other programmatic elements outlined in RCW 2.30.030 authorizing therapeutic courts; and

(b) "Treatment support" includes transportation to or from inpatient or outpatient treatment services when no viable alternative exists, and child care services that are necessary to ensure a participant's ability to attend outpatient treatment sessions.

(3) Revenues to the criminal justice treatment account consist of: (a) Funds transferred to the account pursuant to this section; and (b) any other revenues appropriated to or deposited in the account.

(4)(a) For the fiscal year beginning July 1, 2005, and each subsequent fiscal year, the state treasurer shall transfer eight million two hundred fifty thousand dollars from the general fund to the criminal justice treatment account, divided into four equal quarterly payments. For the fiscal year beginning July 1, 2006, and each subsequent fiscal year, the amount transferred shall be increased on an annual basis by the implicit price deflator as published by the federal bureau of labor statistics.

(b) In each odd-numbered year, the legislature shall appropriate the amount transferred to the criminal justice treatment account in (a) of this subsection to the department for the purposes of subsection (5) of this section.

(5) Moneys appropriated to the authority from the criminal justice treatment account shall be distributed as specified in this subsection. The authority may retain up to three percent of the amount appropriated under subsection (4)(b) of this section for its administrative costs.

(a) Seventy percent of amounts appropriated to the authority from the account shall be distributed to counties pursuant to the distribution formula adopted under this section. The authority, in consultation with the department of corrections, the Washington state association of counties, the Washington state association of drug court professionals, the superior court judges' association, the Washington association of prosecuting attorneys, representatives of the criminal defense bar, representatives of substance use disorder treatment providers, and any other person deemed by the authority to be necessary, shall establish a fair and reasonable methodology for distribution to counties of moneys in the criminal justice treatment account. County or regional plans submitted for the expenditure of formula funds must be approved by the panel established in (b) of this subsection.

(b) Thirty percent of the amounts appropriated to the authority from the account shall be distributed as grants for purposes of treating offenders against whom charges are filed by a county prosecuting attorney. The authority shall appoint a panel of representatives from the Washington association of prosecuting attorneys, the Washington association of sheriffs and police chiefs, the superior court judges' association, the Washington state association of counties, the Washington defender's association or the Washington association of criminal defense lawyers, the department of corrections, the Washington state association of drug court professionals, and substance use disorder treatment providers. The panel shall review county or regional plans for funding under (a) of this subsection and grants approved under this subsection. The panel shall attempt to ensure that treatment as funded by the grants is available to offenders statewide.

(6) The county alcohol and drug coordinator, county prosecutor, county sheriff, county superior court, a substance abuse treatment provider appointed by the county legislative authority, a member of the criminal defense bar appointed by the county legislative authority, and, in counties with a drug court, a representative of the drug court shall jointly submit a plan, approved by the county legislative authority or authorities, to the panel established in subsection (5)(b) of this section, for disposition of all the funds provided from the criminal justice treatment account within that county. The submitted plan should incorporate current evidence-based practices in substance use disorder treatment. The funds shall be used solely to provide approved alcohol and substance use disorder treatment pursuant to RCW 71.24.560 and treatment support services. No more than ten percent of the total moneys received under subsections (4) and (5) of this section by a county or group of counties participating in a regional agreement shall be spent for treatment support services.

(7) Counties are encouraged to consider regional agreements and submit regional plans for the efficient delivery of treatment under this section.

(8) Moneys allocated under this section shall be used to supplement, not supplant, other federal, state, and local funds used for substance abuse treatment.

(9) If a region or county uses criminal justice treatment account funds to support a therapeutic court, the therapeutic court must allow the use of all medications approved by the federal food and drug administration for the treatment of opioid use disorder as deemed medically appropriate for a participant by a medical professional. If appropriate medication-assisted treatment resources are not available or accessible within the jurisdiction, the health care authority's designee for assistance must assist the court with acquiring the resource.

(10) Counties must meet the criteria established in RCW 2.30.030(3).

(11) The authority shall annually review and monitor the expenditures made by any county or group of counties that receives appropriated funds distributed under this section. Counties shall repay any funds that are not spent in accordance with the requirements of its contract with the authority.

(b) The child welfare housing assistance pilot program is intended to shorten the time that children remain in out-of-home care.

(9) This section expires June 30, ~~((2022))~~ 2023.

Sec. 960. RCW 74.46.561 and 2021 c 334 s 993 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The legislature adopts a new system for establishing nursing home payment rates beginning July 1, 2016. Any payments to nursing homes for services provided after June 30, 2016, must be based on the new system. The new system must be designed in such a manner as to decrease administrative complexity associated with the payment methodology, reward nursing homes providing care for high acuity residents, incentivize quality care for residents of nursing homes, and establish minimum staffing standards for direct care.

(2) The new system must be based primarily on industry-wide costs, and have three main components: Direct care, indirect care, and capital.

(3) The direct care component must include the direct care and therapy care components of the previous system, along with food, laundry, and dietary services. Direct care must be paid at a fixed rate, based on one hundred percent or greater of statewide case mix neutral median costs, but for fiscal year 2023 shall be capped so that a nursing home provider's direct care rate does not exceed ~~((one hundred thirty))~~ 165 percent of its base year's direct care allowable costs except if the provider is below the minimum staffing standard established in RCW 74.42.360(2). The legislature intends to remove the cap on direct care rates by June 30, 2027. Direct care must be performance-adjusted for acuity every six months, using case mix principles. Direct care must be regionally adjusted using countywide wage index information available through the United States department of labor's bureau of labor statistics. There is no minimum occupancy for direct care. The direct care component rate allocations calculated in accordance with this section must be adjusted to the extent necessary to comply with RCW 74.46.421.

(4) The indirect care component must include the elements of administrative expenses, maintenance costs, and housekeeping services from the previous system. A minimum occupancy assumption of ninety percent must be applied to indirect care, but for fiscal year 2023, a minimum occupancy assumption of 70 percent must be applied to indirect care. Indirect care must be paid at a fixed rate, based on ninety percent or greater of statewide median costs. The indirect care component rate allocations calculated in accordance with this section must be adjusted to the extent necessary to comply with RCW 74.46.421.

(5) The capital component must use a fair market rental system to set a price per bed. The capital component must be adjusted for the age of the facility, and must use a minimum occupancy assumption of ninety percent.

(a) Beginning July 1, 2016, the fair rental rate allocation for each facility must be determined by multiplying the allowable nursing home square footage in (c) of this subsection by the RSMMeans rental rate in (d) of this subsection and by the number of licensed beds yielding the gross unadjusted building value. An equipment allowance of ten percent must be added to the unadjusted building value. The sum of the unadjusted building value and equipment allowance must then be reduced by the average age of the facility as determined by (e) of this subsection using a depreciation rate of one and one-half percent. The depreciated building and equipment plus land valued at ten percent of the gross unadjusted building value before depreciation must then be multiplied by the rental rate at seven and one-half percent to yield an allowable fair rental value for the land, building, and equipment.

(b) The fair rental value determined in (a) of this subsection must be divided by the greater of the actual total facility census from the prior full calendar year or imputed census based on the number of licensed beds at ninety percent occupancy.

(c) For the rate year beginning July 1, 2016, all facilities must be reimbursed using four hundred square feet. For the rate year beginning July 1, 2017, allowable nursing facility square footage must be determined using the total nursing facility square footage as reported on the medicaid cost reports submitted to the department in compliance with this chapter. The maximum allowable square feet per bed may not exceed four hundred fifty.

(d) Each facility must be paid at eighty-three percent or greater of the median nursing facility RSMMeans construction index value per square foot. The department may use updated RSMMeans construction index information when more recent square footage data becomes available. The statewide value per square foot must be indexed based on facility zip code by multiplying the statewide value per square foot times the appropriate zip code based index. For the purpose of implementing this section, the value per square foot effective July 1, 2016, must be set so that the weighted average fair rental value rate is not less than ten dollars and eighty cents per patient day. The capital component rate allocations calculated in accordance with this section must be adjusted to the extent necessary to comply with RCW 74.46.421.

(e) The average age is the actual facility age reduced for significant renovations. Significant renovations are defined as those renovations that exceed two thousand dollars per bed in a calendar year as reported on the annual cost report submitted in accordance with this chapter. For the rate beginning July 1, 2016, the department shall use renovation data back to 1994 as submitted on facility cost reports. Beginning July 1, 2016, facility ages must be reduced in future years if the value of the renovation completed in any year exceeds two thousand dollars times the number of licensed beds. The cost of the renovation must be divided by the accumulated depreciation per bed in the year of the renovation to determine the equivalent number of new replacement beds. The new age for the facility is a weighted average with the replacement bed equivalents reflecting an age of zero and the existing licensed beds, minus the new bed equivalents, reflecting their age in the year of the renovation. At no time may the depreciated age be less than zero or greater than forty-four years.

(f) A nursing facility's capital component rate allocation must be rebased annually, effective July 1, 2016, in accordance with this section and this chapter.

(g) For the purposes of this subsection (5), "RSMMeans" means building construction costs data as published by Gordian.

(6) A quality incentive must be offered as a rate enhancement beginning July 1, 2016.

(a) An enhancement no larger than five percent and no less than one percent of the statewide average daily rate must be paid to facilities that meet or exceed the standard established for the quality incentive. All providers must have the opportunity to earn the full quality incentive payment.

(b) The quality incentive component must be determined by calculating an overall facility quality score composed of four to six quality measures. For fiscal year 2017 there shall be four quality measures, and for fiscal year 2018 there shall be six quality measures. Initially, the quality incentive component must be based on minimum data set quality measures for the percentage of long-stay residents who self-report moderate to severe pain, the percentage of high-risk long-stay residents with pressure ulcers, the percentage of long-stay residents experiencing one or more falls with major injury, and the percentage of long-stay residents with a urinary tract infection. Quality measures must be reviewed on an annual basis by a stakeholder work group established by the department. Upon review, quality measures may be added or changed. The department may risk adjust individual quality measures as it deems appropriate.

(c) The facility quality score must be point based, using at a minimum the facility's most recent available three-quarter average centers for medicare and medicaid services quality data. Point thresholds for each quality measure must be established using the corresponding statistical values for the quality measure point determinants of eighty quality measure points, sixty quality measure points, forty quality measure points, and twenty quality measure points, identified in the most recent available five-star quality rating system technical user's guide published by the centers for medicare and medicaid services.

(d) Facilities meeting or exceeding the highest performance threshold (top level) for a quality measure receive twenty-five points. Facilities meeting the second highest performance threshold receive twenty points. Facilities meeting the third level of performance threshold receive fifteen points. Facilities in the bottom performance threshold level receive no points. Points from all quality measures must then be summed into a single aggregate quality score for each facility.

(e) Facilities receiving an aggregate quality score of eighty percent of the overall available total score or higher must be placed in the highest tier (tier V), facilities receiving an aggregate score of between seventy and seventy-nine percent of the overall available total score must be placed in the second highest tier (tier IV), facilities receiving an aggregate score of between sixty and sixty-nine percent of the overall available total score must be placed in the third highest tier (tier III), facilities receiving an aggregate score of between fifty and fifty-nine percent of the overall available total score must be placed in the fourth highest tier (tier II), and facilities receiving less than fifty percent of the overall available total score must be placed in the lowest tier (tier I).

(f) The tier system must be used to determine the amount of each facility's per patient day quality incentive component. The per patient day quality incentive component for tier IV is seventy-five percent of the per patient day quality incentive component for tier V, the per patient day quality incentive component for tier III is fifty percent of the per patient day quality incentive component for tier V, and the per patient day quality incentive component for tier II is twenty-five percent of the per patient day quality incentive component for tier V. Facilities in tier I receive no quality incentive component.

(g) Tier system payments must be set in a manner that ensures that the entire biennial appropriation for the quality incentive program is allocated.

(h) Facilities with insufficient three-quarter average centers for medicare and medicaid services quality data must be assigned to the tier corresponding to their five-star quality rating. Facilities with a five-star quality rating must be assigned to the highest tier (tier V) and facilities with a one-star quality rating must be assigned to the lowest tier (tier I). The use of a facility's five-star quality rating shall only occur in the case of insufficient centers for medicare and medicaid services minimum data set information.

(i) The quality incentive rates must be adjusted semiannually on July 1 and January 1 of each year using, at a minimum, the most recent available three-quarter average centers for medicare and medicaid services quality data.

(j) Beginning July 1, 2017, the percentage of short-stay residents who newly received an antipsychotic medication must be added as a quality measure. The department must determine the quality incentive thresholds for this quality measure in a manner consistent with those outlined in (b) through (h) of this subsection using the centers for medicare and medicaid services quality data.

(k) Beginning July 1, 2017, the percentage of direct care staff turnover must be added as a quality measure using the centers for medicare and medicaid services' payroll-based journal and nursing home facility payroll data. Turnover is defined as an employee departure. The department must determine the quality incentive thresholds for this quality measure using data from the centers for medicare and medicaid services' payroll-based journal, unless such data is not available, in which case the department shall use direct care staffing turnover data from the most recent medicaid cost report.

(7) Reimbursement of the safety net assessment imposed by chapter 74.48 RCW and paid in relation to medicaid residents must be continued.

(8)(a) The direct care and indirect care components must be rebased in even-numbered years, beginning with rates paid on July 1, 2016. Rates paid on July 1, 2016, must be based on the 2014 calendar year cost report. On a percentage basis, after rebasing, the department must confirm that the statewide average daily rate has increased at least as much as the average rate of inflation, as determined by the skilled nursing facility market basket index published by the centers for medicare and medicaid services, or a comparable index. If after rebasing, the percentage increase to the statewide average daily rate is less than the average rate of inflation for the same time period, the department is authorized to increase rates by the difference between the percentage increase after rebasing and the average rate of inflation.

(b) It is the intention of the legislature that direct and indirect care rates paid in fiscal year 2022 will be rebased using the calendar year 2019 cost reports. For fiscal year 2021, in addition to the rates generated by (a) of this subsection, an additional adjustment is provided as established in this subsection (8)(b). Beginning May 1, 2020, and through June 30, 2021, the calendar year costs must be adjusted for inflation by a twenty-four month consumer price index, based on the most recently available monthly index for all urban consumers, as published by the bureau of labor statistics. It is also the intent of the legislature that, starting in fiscal year 2022, a facility-specific rate add-on equal to the inflation adjustment that facilities received solely in fiscal year 2021, must be added to the rate.

(c) To determine the necessity of regular inflationary adjustments to the nursing facility rates, by December 1, 2020, the department shall provide the appropriate policy and fiscal committees of the legislature with a report that provides a review of rates paid in 2017, 2018, and 2019 in comparison to costs incurred by nursing facilities.

(9) The direct care component provided in subsection (3) of this section is subject to the reconciliation and settlement process provided in RCW 74.46.022(6). Beginning July 1, 2016, pursuant to rules established by the department, funds that are received through the reconciliation and settlement process provided in RCW 74.46.022(6) must be used for technical assistance, specialized training, or an increase to the quality enhancement established in subsection (6) of this section. The legislature intends to review the utility of maintaining the reconciliation and settlement process under a price-based payment methodology, and may discontinue the reconciliation and settlement process after the 2017-2019 fiscal biennium.

(10) Compared to the rate in effect June 30, 2016, including all cost components and rate add-ons, no facility may receive a rate reduction of more than one percent on July 1, 2016, more than two percent on July 1, 2017, or more than five percent on July 1, 2018. To ensure that the appropriation for nursing homes remains cost neutral, the department is authorized to cap the rate increase for facilities in fiscal years 2017, 2018, and 2019.

Sec. 961. RCW 76.04.516 and 2021 c 298 s 3 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) By December 1st of each even-numbered year, and in compliance with RCW 43.01.036, the department must report to the governor and legislature on the following:

(3) The report required in this section should support existing department assessments pursuant to RCW 79.10.530 and 76.06.200.

(4)(a)(i) Prior to the determination of the 2025-2034 sustainable harvest calculation as required by RCW 79.10.320, the department must hire an independent third-party contractor to assist it in updating its forest inventory by increasing the intensity of forest sample plots on all forestlands over the next two biennium. In carrying out the review, the joint legislative audit and review committee shall:

(i) Retain one or more contractors with expertise in forest inventories, forest growth and yield modeling, and operational research modeling in forest harvest scheduling to conduct the technical review;

(ii) Be a member of department's sustainable harvest calculation technical advisory committee, along with one of its contractors selected in (c)(i) of this subsection; and

(iii) Prior to the department's determination of the sustainable harvest ~~((calculation))~~ calculation under RCW 79.10.320, ensure that a completed independent review and report with findings and recommendations is submitted to the board of natural resources and the legislature.

(d) Upon receiving the report from the joint legislative audit and review committee required under (c)(iii) of this subsection, the board of natural resources shall determine whether modifications are necessary to the sustainable harvest calculation prior to approving harvest level under RCW 79.10.320.

(8)(a) If a provider intends to bill a patient, a behavioral health administrative services organization, or a managed care organization for an audio-only telemedicine service, the provider must obtain patient consent for the billing in advance of the service being delivered.

(b) If the health care authority has cause to believe that a provider has engaged in a pattern of unresolved violations of this subsection (8), the health care authority may submit information to the appropriate disciplining authority, as defined in RCW 18.130.020, for action. Prior to submitting information to the appropriate disciplining authority, the health care authority may provide the provider with an opportunity to cure the alleged violations or explain why the actions in question did not violate this subsection (8).

(c) If the provider has engaged in a pattern of unresolved violations of this subsection (8), the appropriate disciplining authority may levy a fine or cost recovery upon the provider in an amount not to exceed the applicable statutory amount per violation and take other action as permitted under the authority of the disciplining authority. Upon completion of its review of any potential violation submitted by the health care authority or initiated directly by an enrollee, the disciplining authority shall notify the health care authority of the results of the review, including whether the violation was substantiated and any enforcement action taken as a result of a finding of a substantiated violation.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE

March 4, 2022

MR. PRESIDENT:

The House passed SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5555 with the following amendment(s): 5555-S AMH CED H2760.1

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. (1) The legislature acknowledges that a primary responsibility of government is to ensure public safety and that almost always an emergency response begins with a request to 911 for assistance. Requests to 911 and subsequent emergency response communications are managed by public safety telecommunicator professionals. These first responders are essential workers who continue public service throughout the pandemic, who are essential to triage requests for emergency responses and provide lifesaving instructions and guidance to those who call 911, ensuring the appropriate response for the situation; law enforcement, behavioral health, fire, and emergency medical. The public safety telecommunicator also dispatches, tracks, processes, and transmits information from the public and continually communicates with responders providing an additional layer of safety. The legislature takes special note of the contributions made by public safety telecommunicators whose tasks are arduous and whose working conditions may be contributing to the high and often critical turnover among the principal cadre of professionals who receive and process requests from the public for emergency response and provide emergency communications with public safety responders.

(2) The legislature also recognizes that public safety telecommunicators are the only public safety professionals who are not required to be certified and do not have standard initial training requirements to perform their critical public safety function. Further, employers of public safety telecommunicators face challenges in attracting suitable candidates, training, and retaining of staff due to the high demand and high stress environment of this critical public safety profession.

(3) The legislature finds and declares that:

(a) Public safety telecommunicators must have a formal system of training, and certification and recertification standards, to ensure a standardized response is given when the public seeks assistance during an emergency and that standardized communications are in place to support public safety responders within Washington state.

(b) The quality of emergency response in most cases begins with the competence of public safety telecommunicators. To ensure the availability and quality of trained public safety telecommunicators, the legislature recognizes the need to adopt and implement standardized training programs and certification and recertification requirements.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. The definitions in this section apply throughout this chapter unless the context clearly requires otherwise.

(1) "Certification board" means the voluntary public safety telecommunicator certification board.

(2) "Public safety answering point" includes primary public safety answering points that receive 911 calls directly from the public and secondary public safety answering points that receive 911 calls only on a transfer or relay basis from the primary public safety answering point.

(3) "Public safety telecommunicator" means a first responder working in a primary public safety answering point, regardless of title, who has successfully completed the training, certification, or recertification standards established in the state of Washington. This includes an employee of the state, a local public agency, or an independent governmental agency whose primary responsibility is to receive, process, transmit, or dispatch 911 emergency and nonemergency calls for law enforcement, fire, emergency medical, and other public safety services by telephone, radio, or other communication devices and includes an individual who promoted from this position and supervises individuals who perform these functions.

(4) "State-approved training program" means a public safety telecommunicator certified training program approved by the certification board to meet the requirements of a state-approved public safety telecommunicator training, certification, and recertification standards. For community colleges, vocational-technical institutes, skill centers, and secondary schools as described in chapter 28B.50 RCW, public safety telecommunicator certified training programs shall be approved by the certification board in cooperation with the board for community and technical colleges or the superintendent of public instruction.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. The certification board is established in the state 911 coordination office to create a certification and training program for public safety telecommunicators throughout the state.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. Duties of the certification board include:

(1) Adopting bylaws for the certification board;

(2) Adopting rules, with the advice and assistance of the 911 advisory committee, to implement the provisions of this chapter including, but not limited to, rules to implement a state-approved training program for process, policy, and procedure;

(3) Reviewing and approving state-approved training programs biennially. State-approved training programs should be consistent with industry standards;

(4) Setting all public safety telecommunicator certification, registration, and renewal fees, and to collect and deposit all such fees in the 911 account established under RCW 38.52.540; and

(5) Establishing recertification requirements.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. The certification board shall represent diverse stakeholders of the 911 system and shall consist of the following volunteer members:

(1) The chair or vice chair of the 911 advisory committee;

(2) Two public safety answering point directors or 911 coordinators, one from the eastside and one from the westside of the Cascade mountains appointed by the 911 advisory committee;

(3) Two labor union representatives from labor unions representing public safety telecommunicators;

(4) One representative appointed by the Washington association of sheriffs and police chiefs;

(5) One representative appointed by the Washington state fire chiefs association;

(6) One representative from the Washington state association of counties appointed by the Washington state association of counties; and

(7) Two public safety telecommunicators from a public safety answering point, one from the eastside and one from the westside of the Cascade mountains appointed by the 911 advisory committee.

Sec. 6. RCW 38.52.520 and 2010 1st sp.s. c 19 s 15 are each amended to read as follows:

A state (~~enhanced~~) 911 coordination office, headed by the state (~~enhanced~~) 911 coordinator, is established in the emergency management division of the department. Duties of the office include:

(1) Coordinating and facilitating the implementation and operation of (~~enhanced~~) 911 emergency communications systems throughout the state;

(2) Seeking advice and assistance from, and providing staff support for, the (~~enhanced~~) 911 advisory committee;

(3) Providing staff support and assistance to the certification board established under section 3 of this act that includes, but may not be limited to:

(a) Establishing forms and procedures necessary to administer chapter 38.--- RCW (the new chapter created in section 7 of this act);

(c) Maintaining the official record for the department of all applicants and persons with registrations and certificates under chapter 38.--- RCW (the new chapter created in section 7 of this act).

(4) Recommending to the utilities and transportation commission by August 31st of each year the level of the state (~~enhanced~~) 911 excise tax for the following year;

~~((4))~~ (5) Considering base needs of individual counties for specific assistance, specify rules defining the purposes for which available state (~~enhanced~~) 911 funding may be expended, with the advice and assistance of the (~~enhanced~~) 911 advisory committee; and

~~((5))~~ (6) Providing an annual update to the (~~enhanced~~) 911 advisory committee on how much money each county has spent on:

(a) Efforts to modernize their existing (~~enhanced~~) 911 emergency communications system; and

(b) (~~Enhanced~~) 911 operational costs.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. Sections 1 through 5 of this act constitute a new chapter in Title 38 RCW."

2022 REGULAR SESSION

MR. PRESIDENT:

The House passed SENATE BILL NO. 5585 with the following amendment(s): 5585 AMH ENVI H2773.1

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"Sec. 1. RCW 90.48.465 and 2009 c 456 s 6 and 2009 c 249 s 1 are each reenacted and amended to read as follows:

(1) The department shall establish fees to collect expenses for issuing and administering each class of permits under RCW 90.48.160, 90.48.162, and 90.48.260. An initial fee schedule shall be established by rule and be adjusted no more often than once every two years. This fee schedule shall apply to all permits, regardless of date of issuance, and fees shall be assessed prospectively. All fees charged shall be based on factors relating to the complexity of permit issuance and compliance and may be based on pollutant loading and toxicity and be designed to encourage recycling and the reduction of the quantity of pollutants. Fees shall be established in amounts to fully recover and not to exceed expenses incurred by the department in processing permit applications and modifications, monitoring and evaluating compliance with permits, conducting inspections, securing laboratory analysis of samples taken during inspections, reviewing plans and documents directly related to operations of permittees, overseeing performance of delegated pretreatment programs, and supporting the overhead expenses that are directly related to these activities.

~~(2) ((The annual fee paid by a municipality, as defined in 33 U.S.C. Sec. 1362, for all domestic wastewater facility permits issued under RCW 90.48.162 and 90.48.260 shall not exceed the total of a maximum of eighteen cents per month per residence or residential equivalent contributing to the municipality's wastewater system.~~

~~(3))~~ (3) The department shall ensure that indirect dischargers do not pay twice for the administrative expense of a permit. Accordingly, administrative expenses for permits issued by a municipality under RCW 90.48.165 are not recoverable by the department.

~~((4))~~ (3) In establishing fees, the department shall consider the economic impact of fees on small dischargers and the economic impact of fees on public entities required to obtain permits for stormwater runoff and shall provide appropriate adjustments.

~~((5))~~ (4) The fee for an individual permit issued for a dairy farm as defined under chapter 90.64 RCW shall be fifty cents per animal unit up to one thousand two hundred fourteen dollars for fiscal year 1999. The fee for a general permit issued for a dairy farm as defined under chapter 90.64 RCW shall be fifty cents per animal unit up to eight hundred fifty dollars for fiscal year 1999. Thereafter, these fees may rise in accordance with the fiscal growth factor as provided in chapter 43.135 RCW.

~~((6))~~ (5) The fee for a general permit or an individual permit developed solely as a result of the federal court of appeals decision in Headwaters, Inc. v. Talent Irrigation District, 243 F.3rd 526 (9th Cir. 2001) is limited, until June 30, 2003, to a maximum of three hundred dollars. Such a permit is required only, and as long as, the interpretation of this court decision is not overturned or modified by future court rulings, administrative rule making, or clarification of scope by the United States environmental protection agency or legislative action. In such a case the department shall take appropriate action to rescind or modify these permits.

~~((7))~~ (6) All fees collected under this section shall be deposited in the water quality permit account hereby created in the state treasury. Moneys in the account may be appropriated only for purposes of administering permits under RCW 90.46.220, 90.48.160, 90.48.162, and 90.48.260.

~~((8))~~ (7) The department shall present a biennial progress report on the use of moneys from the account to the legislature. The report will be due December 31st of odd-numbered years. The report shall consist of information on fees collected, actual expenses incurred, and anticipated expenses for the current and following fiscal years.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. (1)(a) Recognizing the importance of close coordination and partnership between the department of ecology and municipal treatment plants, the department shall form an advisory committee, appointed by the director of ecology or the director's designee, to create recommendations for adjusting the fee schedule for permits authorized by RCW 90.48.162 and 90.48.165 by rule. The advisory committee must include:

(i) Two representatives of permitted facilities representing communities of 25,000 or fewer in population;

(ii) Two representatives of permitted facilities representing communities greater than 25,000 and up to 200,000 in population;

(iii) One representative of permitted facilities representing communities greater than 200,000 in population;

(iv) Two representatives of nonprofit environmental organizations;

(v) One representative of a statewide association representing cities;

(vi) One representative of a statewide association representing counties;

(vii) One representative of a statewide association representing special purpose districts with responsibilities for domestic wastewater; and (viii) One representative of a statewide business association.

(b) The department must also offer tribal consultation and invite federally recognized tribes to participate on the advisory committee.

(2) By December 31, 2022, the advisory committee must submit recommendations to the department of ecology that will identify fees needed to fully recover expenses incurred by the department of ecology to administer municipal wastewater permits issued under RCW 90.48.162 and 90.48.260, as required under RCW 90.48.465(1), to include permit writing and public review, inspections and technical assistance, discharge monitoring reporting and data support, and supporting the overhead expenses related to administering the wastewater discharge permits.

(3) The advisory committee recommendations must:

(a) Assess the municipal wastewater permitting backlogs and permit workloads;

(b) Assess staffing and revenue needed to meet state and federal legal mandates and the needs of permittees; and

(c) Recommend how to structure the permit fees to reduce permitting backlogs and achieve goals for timely issuance of permits under RCW 90.48.162 and 90.48.260.

(4) The department of ecology must use these recommendations as the basis, in a manner consistent with rule-making procedures under chapter 34.05 RCW, for updates in 2023 to the relevant water quality permit fees set in chapter 173-224 WAC. The department of ecology will present the recommendations of the advisory committee to the legislature at some point after the recommendations are available through the 2023 legislative session.

(5) This section expires January 1, 2024.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. Beginning in 2025, the department of ecology's biennial progress report required in RCW 90.48.465(7) must include information on the implementation of a revised fee structure for full cost recovery for municipal wastewater discharge permits and the use of the fees to administer the municipal discharge permitting program and issue permits in a timely manner. The biennial report must also include information demonstrating progress towards achieving the goal of reducing the wastewater discharge permit backlog to no more than 40 percent by July 1, 2025, and not more than a 20 percent backlog by July 1, 2027."

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE

March 2, 2022

MR. PRESIDENT:

The House passed SECOND SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5619 with the following amendment(s): 5619-S2 AMH APP H2935.1

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. (1) The legislature finds that coastal ecosystems and marine vegetation provide an array of valuable ecosystem goods and services to deep water and nearshore environments in Puget Sound and along the coastline. In particular, kelp forests and eelgrass meadows act as three dimensional foundations for diverse and productive nearshore ecosystems, supporting food webs and providing important habitat for a wide array of marine life, including orcas and threatened and endangered salmon and salmonid species. These marine forests and meadows play an important role in climate mitigation and adaptation by sequestering carbon and relieving impacts from ocean acidification. Marine vegetation can sequester up to 20 times more carbon than terrestrial forests, and therefore represent a critical tool in the fight against climate change.

(2) Washington state is home to 22 species of kelp and is a global hotspot for kelp diversity. However, these kelp forests are under threat and have declined in recent decades. A 2018 study conducted by the Samish Indian Nation on the bull kelp beds in the San Juan Islands found a 305-acre loss of kelp beds from 2006 to 2016, a 36 percent decline in one decade. A statewide study published in 2021 by the department of natural resources found that compared to the earliest baseline in 1878, the amount of bull kelp in 2017 had decreased by 63 percent in south Puget Sound, with individual areas showing up to 96 percent loss.

(3) The legislature also finds that kelp and eelgrass have important cultural value to northwest tribal nations and have provided diverse marine resources that have sustained and inspired indigenous traditions over generations. In particular, bull kelp has played a prominent role in traditional knowledge and technology and is used in fishing, hunting, and food preparation and storage. Decline in kelp forests threatens these uses, and the cultural livelihoods of Northwest tribal nations.

(4) Washington state's native eelgrass meadows (Zostera marina) also provide vital habitat for many organisms, including nursery habitat for juvenile salmon and feeder fish. Native eelgrass can provide a refuge for shellfish from the effects of ocean acidification. Native eelgrass also helps prevent erosion and maintain shoreline stability by anchoring seafloor sediment with its spreading roots and rhizomes. Native eelgrass is used as an indicator of estuary health, because of its fast response to changes in water quality. Examples of rapid native eelgrass loss include Westcott Bay in San Juan county, where in 2000 there were 37 acres of eelgrass meadows and 20 years later less than one acre remains. Changes in the abundance or distribution of this resource are likely to reflect changes in environmental conditions and therefore are key species to monitor and protect to ensure marine ecosystem health.

(5) Kelp forests and eelgrass meadows also provide and enhance diverse recreational opportunities, including productive fishing and picturesque kayaking and diving. These activities are important for local economies and for promoting strong senses of place and overall human well-being in communities.

(6) There is a need for greater education and outreach to communities to promote sustainable recreation practices in and near native kelp forests and eelgrass meadows, such as those called for in the Puget Sound kelp conservation and recovery plan.

(7) Existing regional plans for conservation of kelp forests and eelgrass meadows, including the Puget Sound kelp conservation and recovery plan (2020) and the Puget Sound eelgrass recovery strategy (2015), identify the need to prioritize areas for conservation and restoration based on historical and current distributions.

(8) Existing state plans for combatting ocean acidification in Washington, adopted in 2013 and 2017, identify actions to advance research and explore conservation and restoration of kelp and eelgrass, along with other aquatic vegetation, to help mitigate impacts of ocean acidification locally.

(9) The legislature further finds that our terrestrial and marine ecosystems are interlinked and the state must be proactive in conserving our resources from trees to seas by protecting and restoring our marine forests and meadows in concert with conservation and reforestation of terrestrial forests. Therefore, it is the intent of the legislature to conserve and restore 10,000 acres of native kelp forests and eelgrass meadows by 2040.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. A new section is added to chapter 79.135 RCW to read as follows:

(1) The department shall, consistent with this section, and subject to available funding, work with partners to establish a native kelp forest and eelgrass meadow health and conservation plan that endeavors to, by the year 2040, conserve and restore at least 10,000 acres of native kelp forests and eelgrass meadows. The plan should proactively and systematically address:

(a) The potential loss of native kelp forest and eelgrass meadow habitat throughout Puget Sound and along the Washington state coastline;

(b) Potential current and future stressors related to the decline of native kelp forests and eelgrass meadows; and

(c) Awareness, action, and engagement tools being used by public and private entities in the Puget Sound region to raise awareness of the importance of conserving and restoring native kelp forests and eelgrass meadows and reducing stressors related to their decline.

(2) The department shall develop the plan to assess and prioritize areas for coordinated conservation and restoration actions. The plan must consist of the following elements: Assessment and prioritization; identifying coordinated actions and success measures; monitoring; and reporting.

(a) The department shall, together with partners, develop a framework to identify and prioritize native kelp forest and eelgrass meadow areas in greatest need of conservation or restoration. The framework must:

(i) Incorporate conservation of native kelp forests and eelgrass meadows. Utilize and build on existing research to map and prioritize areas of native kelp forests and eelgrass meadows throughout Puget Sound and along the coast that are at highest risk of permanent loss, or contribute significant environmental, economic, and cultural benefits to tribal nations and local communities, including salmon recovery and water quality, and where opportunities for partnership and collaboration can accelerate progress towards the goal, and develop criteria by which an acre of kelp forests and eelgrass meadows can be considered to be conserved or restored;

(ii) Identify research necessary to analyze and assess potential ecological, environmental, and community benefits of aquaculture of native seaweed species;

(iii) Map and prioritize native kelp forest and eelgrass meadow areas throughout Puget Sound and along the coast where they were historically present, identifying priority locations for restoration, and where opportunities for partnership and collaboration exist that will accelerate progress towards the goal. This should include identification of sites where restoration may be possible and would most benefit nearshore ecosystem function, including where restoration could also support healthy kelp forests and eelgrass meadows, salmon recovery, water quality, and other ecosystem benefits, such as mitigating the negative effects of ocean acidification;

(iv) Identify potential stressors impacting the health and vitality of native kelp forests and eelgrass meadows in prioritized areas in order to specifically address them in conservation and restoration efforts.

(b) In developing coordinated actions and success measures, the department shall:

(i) Conduct an assessment and inventory of existing tools relevant to conserving and restoring native kelp forests and eelgrass meadows and reducing stressors related to their decline;

(ii) Identify new or amended tools that would support the goals of the plan created under this section; and

(iii) Identify success measures to track progress toward the conservation and restoration goal.

(3) In developing the plan, the department shall:

(a) Involve impacted communities using the community engagement plan developed under RCW 70A.02.050;

(b) Consult with federally recognized tribal nations, including consultation on the cultural and ecological importance of native kelp forests and eelgrass meadows now threatened by urbanization or other disturbances;

(c) Engage and collaborate with state and federal agencies, such as the national oceanic and atmospheric administration, the Northwest straits commission, the department of ecology, the department of fish and wildlife, the Puget Sound partnership, the recreation and conservation office, and the marine resources advisory council;

(d) Engage with representatives from other stakeholder groups that may have vested and direct interest in the outcomes of the plan including, but not limited to, shellfish growers, the boating industry, and recreational user communities.

(4)(a) By December 1, 2022, the department must submit a report in compliance with RCW 43.01.036 to the office of financial management and the appropriate committees of the legislature, to include community engagement plans and schedule for plan development. The native kelp forest and eelgrass meadow health and conservation plan must be finalized and submitted to the office of financial management and the appropriate committees of the legislature by December 1, 2023, including a map and justification of identified priority areas based on collaboratively developed criteria, and a list of potential tools and actions for conservation or restoration of these priority areas. A monitoring plan based on the identified success measures will also be submitted.

(b) Subsequently, each biennium, the department shall continue to monitor the distributions and trends of native kelp forests and eelgrass meadows to inform adaptive management of the plan and coordinated partner actions. The department shall submit a report to the legislature that describes the native kelp forest and eelgrass meadow conservation priority areas, and monitoring approaches and findings, including success measures established in the plan. Beginning December 1, 2024, and by December 1st of each even-numbered year thereafter, the department shall provide the appropriate committees of the legislature and the office of financial management with:

(i) An updated map of distributions and trends, and summary of success measures and findings, including relevant information from the prioritization process;

(ii) An updated list summarizing potential stressors, prioritized areas, and corresponding coordinated actions and success measures. The summary must include any barriers to plan implementation and legislative or administrative recommendations to address those barriers;

(iii) An update on the number of acres of native kelp forests and eelgrass meadows conserved by region, including restoration or loss in priority areas;

(iv) An update on consultation with federally recognized tribal nations; and

(v) An update on the department's community engagement plan or plans developed under RCW 70A.02.050.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. The department of natural resources shall map areas of native and nonnative kelp forests and eelgrass meadows, together with areas in which there are both native and nonnative kelp forests and eelgrass meadows, throughout Puget Sound and along the coastline. The department of natural resources may utilize the map when establishing a native kelp forest and eelgrass meadow health and conservation plan under section 2 of this act. The map of areas of native and nonnative kelp forests and eelgrass meadows, together with areas in which there are both native and nonnative kelp forests and eelgrass meadows, must be submitted to the office of financial management and the appropriate committees of the legislature by December 1, 2023.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE

March 3, 2022

MR. PRESIDENT:

The House passed SUBSTITUTION SENATE BILL NO. 5722 with the following amendment(s): 5722-S AMH HACK H2954.1

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature finds that in order to meet the statewide greenhouse gas emissions limits in RCW 70A.45.020, the state must require performance standards for existing buildings.

In order to have a comprehensive understanding of the need and potential for updating the state's building stock, including the "split incentive issue" in which tenants are responsible for energy costs and building owners are responsible for choices about energy systems and building maintenance, more robust benchmarking and reporting for building performance, operations, and maintenance is needed. While the state has adopted comprehensive reporting requirements for larger buildings, it currently lacks similar requirements for smaller buildings. It is the intent of the legislature to extend existing building benchmarking, energy management, and operations and maintenance planning requirements to smaller commercial and multifamily residential buildings in order to assess the needs and opportunities for job creation and incentives and environmental and public health improvements.

The legislature further finds that in order to meet the statewide greenhouse gas emissions limits in the energy sectors of the economy, more resources must be directed toward achieving decarbonization of building heating and cooling loads, while continuing to relieve energy burdens that exist in overburdened communities. These resources must include comprehensive customer support, outreach, and technical assistance. These efforts must include notifying building owners of requirements through communications campaigns, providing resources to aid in compliance, and delivering training to equip building owners, and the industry, to be successful.

Sec. 2. RCW 19.27A.200 and 2019 c 285 s 2 are each amended to read as follows:

The definitions in this section apply throughout RCW 19.27A.210, 19.27A.220, 19.27A.230, ~~((and))~~ 19.27A.240, and sections 3 and 4 of this act unless the context clearly requires otherwise.

(1) "Agricultural structure" means a structure designed and constructed to house farm implements, hay, grain, poultry, livestock, or other horticultural products, and that is not a place used by the public or a place of human habitation or employment where agricultural products are processed, treated, or packaged.

(2) "Baseline energy use intensity" means a building's ~~((weather-normalized))~~ energy use intensity ~~((measured the previous year to making an application for an incentive under RCW 19.27A.220))~~ that is representative of energy use in a normal weather year.

(3)(a) "Building owner" means an individual or entity possessing title to a building.

(b) In the event of a land lease, "building owner" means the entity possessing title to the building on leased land.

(4) "Building tenant" means a person or entity occupying or holding possession of a building or premises pursuant to a rental agreement.

(5) "Conditional compliance" means a temporary compliance method used by covered building owners that demonstrate the owner has implemented energy use reduction strategies required by the standard, but has not demonstrated full compliance with the energy use intensity target.

(6) "Consumer-owned utility" has the same meaning as defined in RCW 19.27A.140.

(7) "Covered ~~((commercial))~~ building" ~~((means a building where the sum of nonresidential, hotel, motel, and dormitory floor areas exceeds fifty thousand gross square feet, excluding the parking garage area))~~ includes a tier 1 covered building and a tier 2 covered building.

(8) "Department" means the department of commerce.

gas, including natural gas derived from renewable sources, synthetic sources, and fossil fuel sources; district steam; district hot water; district chilled water; propane; fuel oil; wood; coal; or other fuels used to meet the energy loads of a building.

(13) "Energy use intensity" means a measurement that normalizes a building's site energy use relative to its size. A building's energy use intensity is calculated by dividing the total net energy consumed in one year by the gross floor area of the building, excluding the parking garage. "Energy use intensity" is reported as a value of thousand British thermal units per square foot per year.

(14) "Energy use intensity target" means the target for net energy use intensity of a covered ((commercial)) building ((that has been established for the purposes of complying with the standard established under RCW 19.27A.210)).

(19) "Multifamily residential building" means a covered multifamily building containing sleeping units or more than ((two)) five dwelling units where occupants are primarily permanent in nature.

(20) "Net energy use" means the sum of metered and bulk fuel energy entering the building, minus the sum of metered energy leaving the building or campus. Renewable energy produced on a campus that is not attached to a covered building may be included.

(21) "Qualifying utility" means a consumer-owned or investor-owned gas or electric utility that serves more than ((twenty five thousand)) 25,000 customers in the state of Washington.

(22) "Savings-to-investment ratio" means the ratio of the total present value savings to the total present value costs of a bundle of an energy or water conservation measure estimated over the projected useful life of each measure. The numerator of the ratio is the present value of net savings in energy or water and nonfuel or nonwater operation and maintenance costs attributable to the proposed energy or water conservation measure. The denominator of the ratio is the present value of the net increase in investment and replacement costs less salvage value attributable to the proposed energy or water conservation measure.

Tier 2 covered buildings also include multifamily residential buildings where floor areas are equal to or exceed 50,000 gross square feet, excluding the parking garage area.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. A new section is added to chapter 19.27A RCW to read as follows:

(1)(a) By December 1, 2023, the department must adopt by rule a state energy management and benchmarking requirement for tier 2 covered buildings. The department shall include a small business economic impact statement pursuant to chapter 19.85 RCW as part of the rule making.

(b) In establishing the requirements under (a) of this subsection, the department must adopt requirements for building owner implementation consistent with the standard established pursuant to RCW 19.27A.210(1) and limited to energy management planning, operations and maintenance planning, and energy use analysis through benchmarking and associated reporting and administrative procedures. Administrative procedures must include exemptions for financial hardship and an appeals process for administrative determinations, including penalties imposed by the department.

(c) The department must provide a customer support program to building owners including, but not limited to, outreach and informational materials that connect tier 2 covered building owners to utility resources, periodic training, phone and email support, and other technical assistance. The customer support program must include enhanced technical support, such as benchmarking assistance and assistance in developing energy management and operations and maintenance plans, for tier 2 covered buildings whose owners typically do not employ dedicated building managers including, but not limited to, multifamily housing, child care facilities, and houses of worship. The department shall prioritize underresourced buildings with a high energy use per square foot, buildings in rural communities, buildings whose tenants are primarily small businesses, and buildings located in high-risk communities according to the department of health's environmental health disparities map.

(d)(i) The department may adopt rules related to the imposition of an administrative penalty not to exceed 30 cents per square foot upon a tier 2 covered building owner for failing to submit documentation demonstrating compliance with the requirements of this subsection.

(ii) Administrative penalties collected under this section must be deposited into the low-income weatherization and structural rehabilitation assistance account created in RCW 70A.35.030 and reinvested into the program, where feasible, to support compliance with the standard.

(2) By July 1, 2025, the department must provide the owners of tier 2 covered buildings with notification of the requirements the department has adopted pursuant to this section that apply to tier 2 covered buildings.

(3) The owner of a tier 2 covered building must report the building owner's compliance with the requirements adopted by the department to the department in accordance with the schedule established under subsection (4) of this section and every five years thereafter. For each reporting date, the building owner must submit documentation to demonstrate that the building owner has developed and implemented the procedures adopted by the department by rule, limited to energy management planning, operations and maintenance planning, and energy use analysis through benchmarking.

(4) By July 1, 2027, tier 2 covered building owners must submit reports to the department as required by the rules adopted in subsection (1) of this section.

(5)(a) By July 1, 2029, the department must evaluate benchmarking data to determine energy use and greenhouse gas emissions averages by tier 2 covered building type.

(b) The department must submit a report to the legislature and the governor by October 1, 2029, with recommendations for cost-effective building performance standards for tier 2 covered buildings. The report must contain information on estimated costs to building owners to implement the performance standards and anticipated implementation challenges.

(c)(i) By December 31, 2030, the department must adopt rules for performance standards for tier 2 covered buildings.

(ii) In adopting these performance standards, the department must consider the age of the building in setting energy use intensity targets.

(iii) The department may adopt performance standards for multifamily residential buildings on a longer timeline schedule than for other tier 2 covered buildings.

(iv) The rules may not take effect before the end of the 2031 regular legislative session.

(v) The department must include a small business economic impact statement pursuant to chapter 19.85 RCW as part of the rule making.

Sec. 4. RCW 19.27A.220 and 2021 c 315 s 18 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The department must establish a state energy performance standard early adoption incentive program consistent with the requirements of this section. This early adoption incentive program may include incentive payments for early adoption of tier 2 covered building owner requirements as described in subsection (6) of this section.

(2) The department must adopt application and reporting requirements for the incentive program. Building energy reporting for the incentive program must be consistent with the energy reporting requirements established under RCW 19.27A.210.

(3) Upon receiving documentation demonstrating that a building owner qualifies for an incentive under this section, the department must authorize each applicable entity administering incentive payments, as provided in RCW 19.27A.240, to make an incentive payment to the building owner. When a building is served by more than one entity offering incentives or more than one type of fuel, incentive payments must be proportional to the energy use intensity reduction of each specific fuel provided by each entity for tier 1 buildings. The department may authorize any participating utility, regardless of fuel specific savings, serving a tier 2 building to administer the incentive payment.

(4) ~~((An eligible))~~ A covered building owner may receive an incentive payment in the amounts specified in subsection ~~((6))~~(8)(a) of this section only if the following requirements are met:

(a) The building is either: (i) A covered commercial building subject to the requirements of the standard established under RCW 19.27A.210; or (ii) a multifamily residential building where the floor area exceeds ~~((fifty thousand))~~ 50,000 gross square feet, excluding the parking garage area;

(b) The building's baseline energy use intensity exceeds its applicable energy use intensity target by at least ~~((fifteen))~~ 15 energy use intensity units;

(c) At least one electric utility, gas company, or thermal energy company providing or delivering energy to the covered commercial building or multifamily residential building is participating in the incentive program by administering incentive payments as provided in RCW 19.27A.240; and

(d) The building owner complies with any other requirements established by the department.

~~((5))~~~~((An eligible))~~ A covered building owner who meets the requirements of subsection (4) of this section may submit an application to the department for an incentive payment in a form and manner prescribed by the department. The application must be submitted in accordance with the following schedule:

~~((4))~~ (a) For a building with more than ~~((two hundred twenty thousand))~~ 220,000 gross square feet, beginning July 1, 2021, through June 1, 2025;

~~((3))~~ (b) For a building with more than ~~((ninety thousand))~~ 90,000 gross square feet but less than ~~((two hundred twenty thousand and one))~~ 220,001 gross square feet, beginning July 1, 2021, through June 1, 2026; and

~~((2))~~ (c) For a building with more than ~~((fifty thousand))~~ 50,000 gross square feet but less than ~~((ninety thousand and one))~~ 90,001 gross square feet, beginning July 1, 2021, through June 1, 2027.

~~((1))~~ (6)(a) A tier 2 covered building owner may receive an incentive payment in the amounts specified in subsection (8)(b) of this section only if all required benchmarking, energy management, and operations and maintenance planning documentation as required under section 3 of this act has been submitted to the department and an incentive application has been completed.

(b) An eligible tier 2 covered building owner may submit an application beginning July 1, 2025, through June 1, 2030.

(7) The department must review each application and determine whether the applicant is eligible for the incentive program and if funds are available for the incentive payment within the limitation established in RCW 19.27A.230. If the department certifies an application, it must provide verification to the building owner and each entity participating as provided in RCW 19.27A.240 and providing service to the building owner.

~~((6))~~ ~~An eligible building owner~~ (8)(a) An eligible owner of a tier 1 covered building or an eligible owner of a multifamily residential building greater than 50,000 gross square feet, excluding the parking area, that demonstrates early compliance with the applicable energy use intensity target under the standard established under RCW 19.27A.210 may receive a base incentive payment of ~~((eighty five))~~ 85 cents per gross square foot of floor area, excluding parking, unconditioned, or semiconditioned spaces.

~~((7))~~ (b) A tier 2 eligible building owner that demonstrates compliance with the applicable benchmarking, energy management, and operations and maintenance planning requirements may receive a base incentive payment of 30 cents per gross square foot of floor area, excluding parking, unconditioned, or semiconditioned spaces. The department may implement a tiered incentive structure for upgrading multifamily buildings to provide an enhanced incentive payment to multifamily building owners willing to commit to antidisplacement provisions.

(9) The incentives provided in subsection ~~((6))~~ (8) of this section are subject to the limitations and requirements of this section, including any rules or procedures implementing this section.

~~((8))~~ (10) The department must establish requirements for the verification of energy consumption by the building owner and each participating electric utility, gas company, and thermal energy company.

~~((9))~~ (11) The department must provide an administrative process for an eligible building owner to appeal a determination of an incentive eligibility or amount.

FIFTY EIGHTH DAY, MARCH 8, 2022

~~((40))~~ (12) By September 30, 2025, and every two years thereafter, the department must report to the appropriate committees of the legislature on the results of the incentive program under this section and may provide recommendations to improve the effectiveness of the program. The 2025 report to the legislature must include recommendations for aligning the incentive program established under this section consistent with a goal of reducing greenhouse gas emissions from substitutes, as defined in RCW 70A.60.010.

~~((44))~~ (13) The department may adopt rules to implement this section.

Sec. 5. RCW 19.27A.230 and 2019 c 285 s 5 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The department may not issue a certification for ~~((a))~~ a tier 1 incentive application under RCW 19.27A.220(8)(a) if doing so is likely to result in total incentive payments under RCW 19.27A.220(8)(a) in excess of ~~((seventy five million dollars))~~ $75,000,000.

(2) The department may not issue certification for a tier 2 incentive application under RCW 19.27A.220(8)(b) if doing so is likely to result in total incentive payments under RCW 19.27A.220(8)(b) in excess of $150,000,000.

Sec. 6. RCW 19.27A.240 and 2019 c 285 s 6 are each amended to read as follows:

(1)(a) Each qualifying utility must administer incentive payments for the state energy performance standard early adoption incentive program established in RCW 19.27A.220 on behalf of its customers who are eligible building owners of covered commercial buildings ~~((or))~~ multifamily residential buildings, or other tier 2 covered buildings consistent with the requirements of this section. Any thermal energy company, electric utility, or gas company not otherwise required to administer incentive payments may voluntarily participate by providing notice to the department in a form and manner prescribed by the department.

(b) Nothing in this subsection (1) requires a qualifying utility to administer incentive payments for the state energy performance standard early adoption incentive program established in RCW 19.27A.220 for which the qualifying utility is not allowed a credit against taxes due under this chapter, as described in RCW 82.16.185.

(2) An entity that administers the payments for the incentive program under this section must administer the program in a manner that is consistent with the standard established and any rules adopted by the department under RCW 19.27A.210 ~~((and))~~, 19.27A.220, and section 3 of this act.

(3) Upon receiving notification from the department that a building owner has qualified for an incentive payment, each entity that administers incentive payments under this section must make incentive payments to its customers who are eligible building owners of covered commercial buildings or multifamily residential buildings who qualify as provided under this section and at rates specified in RCW 19.27A.220~~((6))~~ (8). When a building is served by more than one entity administering incentive payments, incentive payments must be proportional to the energy use intensity reduction of the participating entities' fuel.

(4) The participation by an entity in the administration of incentive payments under this section does not relieve the entity of any obligation that may otherwise exist or be established to provide customer energy efficiency programs or incentives.

(5) An entity that administers the payments for the incentive program under this section is not liable for excess payments made in reliance on amounts reported by the department as due and payable as provided under RCW 19.27A.220, if such amounts are later found to be abnormal or inaccurate due to no fault of the business.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. If specific funding for the purposes of this act, referencing this act by bill or chapter number, is not provided by June 30, 2022, in the omnibus appropriations act, this act is null and void."

Correct the title.

(d) The (~~board~~) commission inspector or law enforcement officer has probable cause to believe that the property was used or is intended to be used in violation of this chapter.

(3) In the event of seizure pursuant to subsection (2) of this section, proceedings for forfeiture shall be deemed commenced by the seizure. The law enforcement agency under whose authority the seizure was made shall cause notice to be served within fifteen days following the seizure on the owner of the property seized and the person in charge thereof and any person having any known right or interest therein, including any community property interest, of the seizure and intended forfeiture of the seized property. Service of notice of seizure of real property shall be made according to the rules of civil procedure. However, the state may not obtain a default judgment with respect to real property against a party who is served by substituted service absent an affidavit stating that a good faith effort has been made to ascertain if the defaulted party is incarcerated within the state, and that there is no present basis to believe that the party is incarcerated within the state. Notice of seizure in the case of property subject to a security interest that has been perfected by filing a financing statement in accordance with chapter 62A.9A RCW, or a certificate of title, shall be made by service upon the secured party or the secured party's assignee at the address shown on the financing statement or the certificate of title. The notice of seizure in other cases may be served by any method authorized by law or court rule including but not limited to service by certified mail with return receipt requested. Service by mail shall be deemed complete upon mailing within the fifteen day period following the seizure.

(4) If no person notifies the seizing law enforcement agency in writing of the person's claim of ownership or right to possession of items specified in subsection (1)(d), (g), or (h) of this section within forty-five days of the service of notice from the seizing agency in the case of personal property and ninety days in the case of real property, the item seized shall be deemed forfeited. The community property interest in real property of a person whose spouse or domestic partner committed a violation giving rise to seizure of the real property may not be forfeited if the person did not participate in the violation.

(5) If any person notifies the seizing law enforcement agency in writing of the person's claim of ownership or right to possession of items specified in subsection (1)(b), (c), (d), (e), (f), (g), or (h) of this section within forty-five days of the service of notice from the seizing agency in the case of personal property and ninety days in the case of real property, the person or persons shall be afforded a reasonable opportunity to be heard as to the claim or right. The notice of claim may be served by any method authorized by law or court rule including, but not limited to, service by first-class mail. Service by mail shall be deemed complete upon mailing within the forty-five day period following service of the notice of seizure in the case of personal property and within the ninety-day period following service of the notice of seizure in the case of real property. The hearing shall be before the chief law enforcement officer of the seizing agency or the chief law enforcement officer's designee, except where the seizing agency is a state agency as defined in RCW 34.12.020(4), the hearing shall be before the chief law enforcement officer of the seizing agency or an administrative law judge appointed under chapter 34.12 RCW, except that any person asserting a claim or right may remove the matter to a court of competent jurisdiction. Removal of any matter involving personal property may only be accomplished according to the rules of civil procedure. The person seeking removal of the matter must serve process against the state, county, political subdivision, or municipality that operates the seizing agency, and any other party of interest, in accordance with RCW 4.28.080 or 4.92.020, within forty-five days after the person seeking removal has notified the seizing law enforcement agency of the person's claim of ownership or right to possession. The court to which the matter is to be removed shall be the district court when the aggregate value of personal property is within the jurisdictional limit set forth in RCW 3.66.020. A hearing before the seizing agency and any appeal therefrom shall be under Title 34 RCW. In all cases, the burden of proof is upon the law enforcement agency to establish, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the property is subject to forfeiture.

The seizing law enforcement agency shall promptly return the article or articles to the claimant upon a determination by the administrative law judge or court that the claimant is the present lawful owner or is lawfully entitled to possession thereof of items specified in subsection (1)(b), (c), (d), (e), (f), (g), or (h) of this section.

(6) In any proceeding to forfeit property under this title, where the claimant substantially prevails, the claimant is entitled to reasonable attorneys' fees reasonably incurred by the claimant. In addition, in a court hearing between two or more claimants to the article or articles involved, the prevailing party is entitled to a judgment for costs and reasonable attorneys' fees.

(7) When property is forfeited under this chapter the ~~((board))~~ commission or seizing law enforcement agency may:

(a) Retain it for official use or upon application by any law enforcement agency of this state release such property to such agency for the exclusive use of enforcing the provisions of this chapter;

(b) Sell that which is not required to be destroyed by law and which is not harmful to the public;

(c) Request the appropriate sheriff or director of public safety to take custody of the property and remove it for disposition in accordance with law; or

(d) Forward it to the drug enforcement administration for disposition.

(8)(a) When property is forfeited, the seizing agency shall keep a record indicating the identity of the prior owner, if known, a description of the property, the disposition of the property, the value of the property at the time of seizure, and the amount of proceeds realized from disposition of the property.

(b) Each seizing agency shall retain records of forfeited property for at least seven years.

(c) Each seizing agency shall file a report including a copy of the records of forfeited property with the state treasurer each calendar quarter.

(d) The quarterly report need not include a record of forfeited property that is still being held for use as evidence during the investigation or prosecution of a case or during the appeal from a conviction.

(9)(a) By January 31st of each year, each seizing agency shall remit to the state ~~((treasurer))~~ an amount equal to ten percent of the net proceeds of any property forfeited during the preceding calendar year for deposit into the behavioral health loan repayment program account created in RCW 28B.115.135 through June 30, 2027, and into the state general fund thereafter. ~~((Money remitted shall be deposited in the state general fund.))~~

(b) The net proceeds of forfeited property is the value of the forfeitable interest in the property after deducting the cost of satisfying any bona fide security interest to which the property is subject at the time of seizure; and in the case of sold property, after deducting the cost of sale, including reasonable fees or commissions paid to independent selling agents, and the cost of any valid landlord's claim for damages under subsection (15) of this section.

(c) The value of sold forfeited property is the sale price. The value of retained forfeited property is the fair market value of the property at the time of seizure, determined when possible by reference to an applicable commonly used index, such as the index used by the department of licensing for valuation of motor vehicles. A seizing agency may use, but need not use, an independent qualified appraiser to determine the value of retained property. If an appraiser is used, the value of the property appraised is net of the cost of the appraisal. The value of destroyed property and retained firearms or illegal property is zero.

(10) Forfeited property and net proceeds not required to be ~~((paid))~~ remitted to the state ~~((treasurer))~~ shall be retained by the seizing law enforcement agency exclusively for the expansion and improvement of controlled substances related law enforcement activity. Money retained under this section may not be used to supplant preexisting funding sources.

(11) Controlled substances listed in Schedule I, II, III, IV, and V that are possessed, transferred, sold, or offered for sale in violation of this chapter are contraband and shall be seized and summarily forfeited to the state. Controlled substances listed in Schedule I, II, III, IV, and V, which are seized or come into the possession of the ~~((board))~~ commission, the owners of which are unknown, are contraband and shall be summarily forfeited to the ~~((board))~~ commission.

(12) Species of plants from which controlled substances in Schedules I and II may be derived which have been planted or cultivated in violation of this chapter, or of which the owners or cultivators are unknown, or which are wild growths, may be seized and summarily forfeited to the ~~((board))~~ commission.

(13) The failure, upon demand by a ~~((board))~~ commission inspector or law enforcement officer, of the person in occupancy or in control of land or premises upon which the species of plants are growing or being stored to produce an appropriate registration or proof that he or she is the holder thereof constitutes authority for the seizure and forfeiture of the plants.

(14) Upon the entry of an order of forfeiture of real property, the court shall forward a copy of the order to the assessor of the county in which the property is located. Orders for the forfeiture of real property shall be entered by the superior court, subject to court rules. Such an order shall be filed by the seizing agency in the county auditor's records in the county in which the real property is located.

(15)(a) A landlord may assert a claim against proceeds from the sale of assets seized and forfeited under subsection (7)(b) of this section, only if:

(i) A law enforcement officer, while acting in his or her official capacity, directly caused damage to the complaining landlord's property while executing a search of a tenant's residence; and

(ii) The landlord has applied any funds remaining in the tenant's deposit, to which the landlord has a right under chapter 59.18 RCW, to cover the damage directly caused by a law enforcement officer prior to asserting a claim under the provisions of this section;

(A) Only if the funds applied under (a)(ii) of this subsection are insufficient to satisfy the damage directly caused by a law enforcement officer, may the landlord seek compensation for the damage by filing a claim against the governmental entity under whose authority the law enforcement agency operates within thirty days after the search;

(B) Only if the governmental entity denies or fails to respond to the landlord's claim within sixty days of the date of filing, may the landlord collect damages under this subsection by filing within thirty days of denial or the expiration of the sixty-day period, whichever occurs first, a claim with the seizing law enforcement agency. The seizing law enforcement agency must notify the landlord of the status of the claim by the end of the thirty-day period. Nothing in this section requires the claim to be paid by the end of the sixty-day or thirty-day period.

(b) For any claim filed under (a)(ii) of this subsection, the law enforcement agency shall pay the claim unless the agency provides substantial proof that the landlord either:

(i) Knew or consented to actions of the tenant in violation of this chapter or chapter 69.41 or 69.52 RCW; or

(ii) Failed to respond to a notification of the illegal activity, provided by a law enforcement agency under RCW 59.18.075, within seven days of receipt of notification of the illegal activity.

(16) The landlord's claim for damages under subsection (15) of this section may not include a claim for loss of business and is limited to:

(a) Damage to tangible property and clean-up costs;

(b) The lesser of the cost of repair or fair market value of the damage directly caused by a law enforcement officer;

(c) The proceeds from the sale of the specific tenant's property seized and forfeited under subsection (7)(b) of this section; and

(d) The proceeds available after the seizing law enforcement agency satisfies any bona fide security interest in the tenant's property and costs related to sale of the tenant's property as provided by subsection (9)(b) of this section.

(17) Subsections (15) and (16) of this section do not limit any other rights a landlord may have against a tenant to collect for damages. However, if a law enforcement agency satisfies a landlord's claim under subsection (15) of this section, the rights the landlord has against the tenant for damages directly caused by a law enforcement officer under the terms of the landlord and tenant's contract are subrogated to the law enforcement agency.

Sec. 2. RCW 46.61.5058 and 2013 2nd sp.s. c 35 s 18 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Upon the arrest of a person or upon the filing of a complaint, citation, or information in a court of competent jurisdiction, based upon probable cause to believe that a person has violated RCW 46.20.740, 46.61.502, or 46.61.504 or any similar municipal ordinance, if such person has a prior offense within seven years as defined in RCW 46.61.5055, and where the person has been provided written notice that any transfer, sale, or encumbrance of such person's interest in the vehicle over which that person was actually driving or had physical control when the violation occurred, is unlawful pending either acquittal, dismissal, sixty days after conviction, or other termination of the charge, such person shall be prohibited from encumbering, selling, or transferring his or her interest in such vehicle, except as otherwise provided in (a), (b), and (c) of this subsection, until either acquittal, dismissal, sixty days after conviction, or other termination of the charge. The prohibition against transfer of title shall not be stayed pending the determination of an appeal from the conviction.

(a) A vehicle encumbered by a bona fide security interest may be transferred to the secured party or to a person designated by the secured party;

(b) A leased or rented vehicle may be transferred to the lessor, rental agency, or to a person designated by the lessor or rental agency; and

(c) A vehicle may be transferred to a third party or a vehicle dealer who is a bona fide purchaser or may be subject to a bona fide security interest in the vehicle unless it is established that (i) in the case of a purchase by a third party or vehicle dealer, such party or dealer had actual notice that the vehicle was subject to the prohibition prior to the purchase, or (ii) in the case of a security interest, the holder of the security interest had actual notice that the vehicle was subject to the prohibition prior to the encumbrance of title.

(2) On conviction for a violation of either RCW 46.20.740, 46.61.502, or 46.61.504 or any similar municipal ordinance where the person convicted has a prior offense within seven years as defined in RCW 46.61.5055, the motor vehicle the person was driving or over which the person had actual physical control at the time of the offense, if the person has a financial interest in the vehicle, the court shall consider at sentencing whether the vehicle shall be seized and forfeited pursuant to this section if a seizure or forfeiture has not yet occurred.

(3) A vehicle subject to forfeiture under this chapter may be seized by a law enforcement officer of this state upon process issued by a court of competent jurisdiction. Seizure of a vehicle may be made without process if the vehicle subject to seizure has been the subject of a prior judgment in favor of the state in a forfeiture proceeding based upon this section.

(4) Seizure under subsection (3) of this section automatically commences proceedings for forfeiture. The law enforcement agency under whose authority the seizure was made shall cause notice of the seizure and intended forfeiture of the seized vehicle to be served within fifteen days after the seizure on the owner of the vehicle seized, on the person in charge of the vehicle, and on any person having a known right or interest in the vehicle, including a community property interest. The notice of seizure may be served by any method authorized by law or court rule, including but not limited to service by certified mail with return receipt requested. Service by mail is complete upon mailing within the fifteen-day period after the seizure. Notice of seizure in the case of property subject to a security interest that has been perfected on a certificate of title shall be made by service upon the secured party or the secured party's assignee at the address shown on the financing statement or the certificate of title.

(5) If no person notifies the seizing law enforcement agency in writing of the person's claim of ownership or right to possession of the seized vehicle within forty-five days of the seizure, the vehicle is deemed forfeited.

(6) If a person notifies the seizing law enforcement agency in writing of the person's claim of ownership or right to possession of the seized vehicle within forty-five days of the seizure, the law enforcement agency shall give the person or persons a reasonable opportunity to be heard as to the claim or right. The hearing shall be before the chief law enforcement officer of the seizing agency or the chief law enforcement officer's designee, except where the seizing agency is a state agency as defined in RCW 34.12.020, the hearing shall be before the chief law enforcement officer of the seizing agency or an administrative law judge appointed under chapter 34.12 RCW, except that any person asserting a claim or right may remove the matter to a court of competent jurisdiction. Removal may only be accomplished according to the rules of civil procedure. The person seeking removal of the matter must serve process against the state, county, political subdivision, or municipality that operates the seizing agency, and any other party of interest, in accordance with RCW 4.28.080 or 4.92.020, within forty-five days after the person seeking removal has notified the seizing law enforcement agency of the person's claim of ownership or right to possession. The court to which the matter is to be removed shall be the district court when the aggregate value of the vehicle is within the jurisdictional limit set forth in RCW 3.66.020. A hearing before the seizing agency and any appeal therefrom shall be under Title 34 RCW. In a court hearing between two or more claimants to the vehicle involved, the prevailing party shall be entitled to a judgment for costs and reasonable attorneys' fees. The burden of producing evidence shall be upon the person claiming to be the legal owner or the person claiming to have the lawful right to possession of the vehicle. The seizing law enforcement agency shall promptly return the vehicle to the claimant upon a determination by the administrative law judge or court that the claimant is the present legal owner under this title or is lawfully entitled to possession of the vehicle.

(7) When a vehicle is forfeited under this chapter the seizing law enforcement agency may sell the vehicle, retain it for official use, or upon application by a law enforcement agency of this state release the vehicle to that agency for the exclusive use of enforcing this title; provided, however, that the agency shall first satisfy any bona fide security interest to which the vehicle is subject under subsection (1)(a) or (c) of this section.

(8) When a vehicle is forfeited, the seizing agency shall keep a record indicating the identity of the prior owner, if known, a description of the vehicle, the disposition of the vehicle, the value of the vehicle at the time of seizure, and the amount of proceeds realized from disposition of the vehicle.

(9) Each seizing agency shall retain records of forfeited vehicles for at least seven years.

(10) Each seizing agency shall file a report including a copy of the records of forfeited vehicles with the state treasurer each calendar quarter.

(11) The quarterly report need not include a record of a forfeited vehicle that is still being held for use as evidence during the investigation or prosecution of a case or during the appeal from a conviction.

(12) By January 31st of each year, each seizing agency shall remit to the state (~~treasurer~~) an amount equal to ten percent of the net proceeds of vehicles forfeited during the preceding calendar year (~~Money remitted shall be deposited in the state general fund~~) for deposit into the behavioral health loan repayment program account created in RCW 28B.115.135 through June 30, 2027, and into the state general fund thereafter.

(13) The net proceeds of a forfeited vehicle is the value of the forfeitable interest in the vehicle after deducting the cost of satisfying a bona fide security interest to which the vehicle is subject at the time of seizure; and in the case of a sold vehicle, after deducting the cost of sale, including reasonable fees or commissions paid to independent selling agents.

(14) The value of a sold forfeited vehicle is the sale price. The value of a retained forfeited vehicle is the fair market value of the vehicle at the time of seizure, determined when possible by reference to an applicable commonly used index, such as the index used by the department of licensing. A seizing agency may, but need not, use an independent qualified appraiser to determine the value of retained vehicles. If an appraiser is used, the value of the vehicle appraised is net of the cost of the appraisal.

Sec. 3. RCW 10.105.010 and 2009 c 479 s 15 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The following are subject to seizure and forfeiture and no property right exists in them: All personal property, including, but not limited to, any item, object, tool, substance, device, weapon, machine, vehicle of any kind, money, security, or negotiable instrument, which has been or was actually employed as an instrumentality in the commission of, or in aiding or abetting in the commission of any felony, or which was furnished or was intended to be furnished by any person in the commission of, as a result of, or as compensation for the commission of, any felony, or which was acquired in whole or in part with proceeds traceable to the commission of a felony. No property may be forfeited under this section until after there has been a superior court conviction of the owner of the property for the felony in connection with which the property was employed, furnished, or acquired.

A forfeiture of property encumbered by a bona fide security interest is subject to the interest of the secured party if at the time the security interest was created, the secured party neither had knowledge of nor consented to the commission of the felony.

(2) Personal property subject to forfeiture under this chapter may be seized by any law enforcement officer of this state upon process issued by any superior court having jurisdiction over the property. Seizure of personal property without process may be made if:

(d) The law enforcement officer has probable cause to believe that the property was used or is intended to be used in the commission of a felony.

(3) In the event of seizure pursuant to this section, proceedings for forfeiture shall be deemed commenced by the seizure. The law enforcement agency under whose authority the seizure was made shall cause notice to be served within fifteen days following the seizure on the owner of the property seized and the person in charge thereof and any person having any known right or interest therein, including any community property interest, of the seizure and intended forfeiture of the seized property. The notice of seizure may be served by any method authorized by law or court rule including but not limited to service by certified mail with return receipt requested. Service by mail shall be deemed complete upon mailing within the fifteen day period following the seizure. Notice of seizure in the case of property subject to a security interest that has been perfected by filing a financing statement in accordance with chapter 62A.9A RCW, or a certificate of title shall be made by service upon the secured party or the secured party's assignee at the address shown on the financing statement or the certificate of title.

(4) If no person notifies the seizing law enforcement agency in writing of the person's claim of ownership or right to possession of items specified in subsection (1) of this section within forty-five days of the seizure, the item seized shall be deemed forfeited.

(5) If a person notifies the seizing law enforcement agency in writing of the person's claim of ownership or right to possession of the seized property within forty-five days of the seizure, the law enforcement agency shall give the person or persons a reasonable opportunity to be heard as to the claim or right. Removal may only be accomplished according to the rules of civil procedure. The person seeking removal of the matter must serve process against the state, county, political subdivision, or municipality that operates the seizing agency, and any other party of interest, in accordance with RCW 4.28.080 or 4.92.020, within forty-five days after the person seeking removal has notified the seizing law enforcement agency of the person's claim of ownership or right to possession. The court to which the matter is to be removed shall be the district court when the aggregate value of the property is within the jurisdictional limit set forth in RCW 3.66.020. A hearing before the seizing agency and any appeal therefrom shall be under Title 34 RCW. In a court hearing between two or more claimants to the property involved, the prevailing party shall be entitled to a judgment for costs and reasonable attorney's fees. The burden of producing evidence shall be upon the person claiming to be the lawful owner or the person claiming to have the lawful right to possession of the property. The seizing law enforcement agency shall promptly return the property to the claimant upon a determination by the administrative law judge or court that the claimant is the present lawful owner or is lawfully entitled to possession of the property.

(6) When property is forfeited under this chapter, after satisfying any court-ordered victim restitution, the seizing law enforcement agency may:

(a) Retain it for official use or upon application by any law enforcement agency of this state release such property to such agency for the exclusive use of enforcing the criminal law;

(b) Sell that which is not required to be destroyed by law and which is not harmful to the public.

(7) By January 31st of each year, each seizing agency shall remit to the state (~~(treasure)~~) an amount equal to ten percent of the net proceeds of any property forfeited during the preceding calendar year (~~(Money remitted shall be deposited in the state general fund)~~) for deposit into the behavioral health loan repayment program account created in RCW 28B.115.135 through June 30, 2027, and into the state general fund thereafter.

(a) The net proceeds of forfeited property is the value of the forfeitable interest in the property after deducting the cost of satisfying any bona fide security interest to which the property is subject at the time of seizure; and in the case of sold property, after deducting the cost of sale, including reasonable fees or commissions paid to independent selling agents.

(b) The value of sold forfeited property is the sale price. The value of retained forfeited property is the fair market value of the property at the time of seizure, determined when possible by reference to an applicable commonly used index, such as the index used by the department of licensing for valuation of motor vehicles. A seizing agency may use, but need not use, an independent qualified appraiser to determine the value of retained property. If an appraiser is used, the value of the property appraised is net of the cost of the appraisal. The value of destroyed property and retained firearms or illegal property is zero.

(c) Retained property and net proceeds not required to be (~~paid~~) remitted to the state (~~(treasure)~~), or otherwise required to be spent under this section, shall be retained by the seizing law enforcement agency exclusively for the expansion and improvement of law enforcement activity. Money retained under this section may not be used to supplant preexisting funding sources.

Sec. 4. RCW 9.68A.120 and 2014 c 188 s 3 are each amended to read as follows:

FIFTY EIGHTH DAY, MARCH 8, 2022

unless it is seized or process is issued for its seizure within ten days of the owner's arrest.

(3) All personal property, moneys, negotiable instruments, securities, or other tangible or intangible property furnished or intended to be furnished by any person in exchange for visual or printed matter depicting a minor engaged in sexually explicit conduct, or constituting proceeds traceable to any violation of this chapter.

(4) Property subject to forfeiture under this chapter may be seized by any law enforcement officer of this state upon process issued by any superior court having jurisdiction over the property. Seizure without process may be made if:

(a) The seizure is incident to an arrest or a search under a search warrant or an inspection under an administrative inspection warrant;

(b) The property subject to seizure has been the subject of a prior judgment in favor of the state in a criminal injunction or forfeiture proceeding based upon this chapter;

(c) A law enforcement officer has probable cause to believe that the property is directly or indirectly dangerous to health or safety; or

(5) In the event of seizure under subsection (4) of this section, proceedings for forfeiture shall be deemed commenced by the seizure. The law enforcement agency under whose authority the seizure was made shall cause notice to be served within fifteen days following the seizure on the owner of the property seized and the person in charge thereof and any person having any known right or interest therein, of the seizure and intended forfeiture of the seized property. The notice may be served by any method authorized by law or court rule including but not limited to service by certified mail with return receipt requested. (7) If any person notifies the seizing law enforcement agency in writing of the person's claim of ownership or right to possession of seized items within forty-five days of the seizure, the person or persons shall be afforded a reasonable opportunity to be heard as to the claim or right. The hearing shall be before an administrative law judge appointed under chapter 34.12 RCW, except that any person asserting a claim or right may remove the matter to a court of competent jurisdiction if the aggregate value of the article or articles involved is more than five hundred dollars. The hearing before an administrative law judge and any appeal therefrom shall be under Title 34 RCW. In a court hearing between two or more claimants to the article or articles involved, the prevailing party shall be entitled to a judgment for costs and reasonable attorney's fees. The burden of producing evidence shall be upon the person claiming to be the lawful owner or the person claiming to have the lawful right to possession of the seized items. The seizing law enforcement agency shall promptly return the article or articles to the claimant upon a determination by the administrative law judge or court that the claimant is lawfully entitled to possession thereof of the seized items.

(8) If property is sought to be forfeited on the ground that it constitutes proceeds traceable to a violation of this chapter, the seizing law enforcement agency must prove by a preponderance of the evidence that the property constitutes proceeds traceable to a violation of this chapter.

(9) When property is forfeited under this chapter the seizing law enforcement agency may:

(a) Retain it for official use or upon application by any law enforcement agency of this state release the property to that agency for the exclusive use of enforcing this chapter or chapter 9A.88 RCW;

(b) Sell that which is not required to be destroyed by law and which is not harmful to the public; or

(c) Request the appropriate sheriff or director of public safety to take custody of the property and remove it for disposition in accordance with law.

(10)(a) By January 31st of each year, each seizing agency shall remit to the state (~~(treasurer)~~) an amount equal to ten percent of the net proceeds of any property forfeited during the preceding calendar year. Money remitted shall be deposited in the prostitution prevention and intervention account under RCW 43.63A.740.

(b) The net proceeds of forfeited property is the value of the forfeitable interest in the property after deducting the cost of satisfying any bona fide security interest to which the property is subject at the time of seizure; and in the case of sold property, after deducting the cost of sale, including reasonable fees or commissions paid to an independent selling agency.

(c) The value of sold forfeited property is the sale price. The value of retained forfeited property is the fair market value of the property at the time of seizure determined when possible by reference to an applicable commonly used index. A seizing agency may use, but need not use, an independent qualified appraiser to determine the value of retained property. If an appraiser is used, the value of the property appraised is net of the cost of the appraisal. The value of destroyed property and retained firearms or illegal property is zero.

(11) Forfeited property and net proceeds not required to be (~~(paid)~~) remitted to the state (~~(treasurer)~~) under this chapter shall be used for payment of all proper expenses of the investigation leading to the seizure, including any money delivered to the subject of the investigation by the law enforcement agency, and of the proceedings for forfeiture and sale, including expenses of seizure, maintenance of custody, advertising, actual costs of the prosecuting or city attorney, and court costs. Money remaining after payment of these expenses shall be retained by the seizing law enforcement agency for the exclusive use of enforcing the provisions of this chapter or chapter 9A.88 RCW.

Sec. 5. RCW 9A.88.150 and 2014 c 188 s 4 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The following are subject to seizure and forfeiture and no property right exists in them:

(a) Any property or other interest acquired or maintained in violation of RCW 9.68A.100, 9.68A.101, or 9A.88.070 to the extent of the investment of funds, and any appreciation or income attributable to the investment, from a violation of RCW 9.68A.100, 9.68A.101, or 9A.88.070;

(b) All conveyances, including aircraft, vehicles, or vessels, which are used, or intended for use, in any manner to facilitate a violation of RCW 9.68A.100, 9.68A.101, or 9A.88.070, except that:

(i) No conveyance used by any person as a common carrier in the transaction of business as a common carrier is subject to forfeiture under this section unless it appears that the owner or other person in charge of the conveyance is a consenting party or privy to a violation of RCW 9.68A.100, 9.68A.101, or 9A.88.070;

(ii) No conveyance is subject to forfeiture under this section by reason of any act or omission established by the owner thereof to have been committed or omitted without the owner's knowledge or consent;

(iii) A forfeiture of a conveyance encumbered by a bona fide security interest is subject to the interest of the secured party if the secured party neither had knowledge of nor consented to the act or omission; and

(iv) When the owner of a conveyance has been arrested for a violation of RCW 9.68A.100, 9.68A.101, or 9A.88.070, the conveyance in which the person is arrested may not be subject to forfeiture unless it is seized or process is issued for its seizure within ten days of the owner's arrest;

(c) Any property, contractual right, or claim against property used to influence any enterprise that a person has established, operated, controlled, conducted, or participated in the conduct of, in violation of RCW 9.68A.100, 9.68A.101, or 9A.88.070;

(d) All proceeds traceable to or derived from an offense defined in RCW 9.68A.100, 9.68A.101, or 9A.88.070 and all moneys, negotiable instruments, securities, and other things of value significantly used or intended to be used significantly to facilitate commission of the offense;

(e) All books, records, and research products and materials, including formulas, microfilm, tapes, and data which are used, or intended for use, in violation of RCW 9.68A.100, 9.68A.101, or 9A.88.070;

(f) All moneys, negotiable instruments, securities, or other tangible or intangible property of value furnished or intended to be furnished by any person in exchange for a violation of RCW 9.68A.100, 9.68A.101, or 9A.88.070, all tangible or intangible personal property, proceeds, or assets acquired in whole or in part with proceeds traceable to an exchange or series of exchanges in violation of RCW 9.68A.100, 9.68A.101, or 9A.88.070, and all moneys, negotiable instruments, and securities used or intended to be used to facilitate any violation of RCW 9.68A.100, 9.68A.101, or 9A.88.070. A forfeiture of money, negotiable instruments, securities, or other tangible or intangible property encumbered by a bona fide security interest is subject to the interest of the secured party if, at the time the security interest was created, the secured party neither had knowledge of nor consented to the act or omission. No personal property may be forfeited under this subsection (1)(f), to the extent of the interest of an owner, by reason of any act or omission, which that owner establishes was committed or omitted without the owner's knowledge or consent; and

(g) All real property, including any right, title, and interest in the whole of any lot or tract of land, and any appurtenances or improvements which are being used with the knowledge of the owner for a violation of RCW 9.68A.100, 9.68A.101, or 9A.88.070, or which have been acquired in whole or in part with proceeds traceable to an exchange or series of exchanges in violation of RCW 9.68A.100, 9.68A.101, or 9A.88.070, if a substantial nexus exists between the violation and the real property. However:

(i) No property may be forfeited pursuant to this subsection (1)(g), to the extent of the interest of an owner, by reason of any act or omission committed or omitted without the owner's knowledge or consent;

(ii) A forfeiture of real property encumbered by a bona fide security interest is subject to the interest of the secured party if the secured party, at the time the security interest was created, neither had knowledge of nor consented to the act or omission.

(2) Real or personal property subject to forfeiture under this section may be seized by any law enforcement officer of this state upon process issued by any superior court having jurisdiction over the property. Seizure of real property shall include the filing of a lis pendens by the seizing agency. Real property seized under this section shall not be transferred or otherwise conveyed until ninety days after seizure or until a judgment of forfeiture is entered, whichever is later: PROVIDED, That real property seized under this section may be transferred or conveyed to any person or entity who acquires title by foreclosure or deed in lieu of foreclosure of a security interest. Seizure of personal property without process may be made if:

(a) The seizure is incident to an arrest or a search under a search warrant;

(b) The property subject to seizure has been the subject of a prior judgment in favor of the state in a criminal injunction or forfeiture proceeding; or

(c) The law enforcement officer has probable cause to believe that the property was used or is intended to be used in violation of RCW 9.68A.100, 9.68A.101, or 9A.88.070.

(3) In the event of seizure pursuant to subsection (2) of this section, proceedings for forfeiture shall be deemed commenced by the seizure. The law enforcement agency under whose authority the seizure was made shall cause notice to be served within fifteen days following the seizure on the owner of the property seized and the person in charge thereof and any person having any known right or interest therein, including any community property interest, of the seizure and intended forfeiture of the seized property. Service of notice of seizure of real property shall be made according to the rules of civil procedure. However, the state may not obtain a default judgment with respect to real property against a party who is served by substituted service absent an affidavit stating that a good faith effort has been made to ascertain if the defaulted party is incarcerated within the state, and that there is no present basis to believe that the party is incarcerated within the state. Notice of seizure in the case of property subject to a security interest that has been perfected by filing a financing statement, or a certificate of title, shall be made by service upon the secured party or the secured party's assignee at the address shown on the financing statement or the certificate of title. The notice of seizure in other cases may be served by any method authorized by law or court rule including, but not limited to, service by certified mail with return receipt requested. Service by mail shall be deemed complete upon mailing within the fifteen day period following the seizure.

(4) If no person notifies the seizing law enforcement agency in writing of the person's claim of ownership or right to possession of items specified in subsection (1) of this section within forty-five days of the service of notice from the seizing agency in the case of personal property and ninety days in the case of real property, the item seized shall be deemed forfeited. The community property interest in real property of a person whose spouse or domestic partner committed a violation giving rise to seizure of the real property may not be forfeited if the person did not participate in the violation.

(5) If any person notifies the seizing law enforcement agency in writing of the person's claim of ownership or right to possession of items specified in subsection (1) of this section within forty-five days of the service of notice from the seizing agency in the case of personal property and ninety days in the case of real property, the person or persons shall be afforded a reasonable opportunity to be heard as to the claim or right. The notice of claim may be served by any method authorized by law or court rule including, but not limited to, service by first-class mail. Service by mail shall be deemed complete upon mailing within the forty-five day period following service of the notice of seizure in the case of personal property and within the ninety day period following service of the notice of seizure in the case of real property. The hearing shall be before the chief law enforcement officer of the seizing agency or the chief law enforcement officer's designee, except where the seizing agency is a state agency as defined in RCW 34.12.020(4), the hearing shall be before the chief law enforcement officer of the seizing agency or an administrative law judge appointed under chapter 34.12 RCW, except that any person asserting a claim or right may remove the matter to a court of competent jurisdiction. Removal of any matter involving personal property may only be accomplished according to the rules of civil procedure. The person seeking removal of the matter must serve process against the state, county, political subdivision, or municipality that operates the seizing agency, and any other party of interest, in accordance with RCW 4.28.080 or 4.92.020, within forty-five days after the person seeking removal has notified the seizing law enforcement agency of the person's claim of ownership or right to possession. The court to which the matter is to be removed shall be the district court when the aggregate value of personal property is within the jurisdictional limit set forth in RCW 3.66.020. A hearing before the seizing agency and any appeal therefrom shall be under Title 34 RCW. In all cases, the burden of proof is upon the law enforcement agency to establish, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the property is subject to forfeiture.

The seizing law enforcement agency shall promptly return the article or articles to the claimant upon a determination by the administrative law judge or court that the claimant is the present lawful owner or is lawfully entitled to possession thereof of items specified in subsection (1) of this section.

(6) In any proceeding to forfeit property under this title, where the claimant substantially prevails, the claimant is entitled to reasonable attorneys' fees reasonably incurred by the claimant. In addition, in a court hearing between two or more claimants to the article or articles involved, the prevailing party is entitled to a judgment for costs and reasonable attorneys' fees.

(7) When property is forfeited under this chapter, the seizing law enforcement agency may:

(a) Retain it for official use or upon application by any law enforcement agency of this state release the property to that agency for the exclusive use of enforcing this chapter or chapter 9.68A RCW;

(b) Sell that which is not required to be destroyed by law and which is not harmful to the public; or

(c) Request the appropriate sheriff or director of public safety to take custody of the property and remove it for disposition in accordance with law.

(8) When property is forfeited, the seizing agency shall keep a record indicating the identity of the prior owner, if known, a description of the property, the disposition of the property, the value of the property at the time of seizure, and the amount of proceeds realized from disposition of the property.

(b) Each seizing agency shall retain records of forfeited property for at least seven years.

(c) Each seizing agency shall file a report including a copy of the records of forfeited property with the state treasurer each calendar quarter.

(d) The quarterly report need not include a record of forfeited property that is still being held for use as evidence during the investigation or prosecution of a case or during the appeal from a conviction.

(9)(a) By January 31st of each year, each seizing agency shall remit to the state (~~(treasurer)~~) an amount equal to ten percent of the net proceeds of any property forfeited during the preceding calendar year. Money remitted shall be deposited in the prostitution prevention and intervention account under RCW 43.63A.740.

(b) The net proceeds of forfeited property is the value of the forfeitable interest in the property after deducting the cost of satisfying any bona fide security interest to which the property is subject at the time of seizure; and in the case of sold property, after deducting the cost of sale, including reasonable fees or commissions paid to independent selling agents, and the cost of any valid landlord's claim for damages under subsection (12) of this section.

(c) The value of sold forfeited property is the sale price. The value of destroyed property and retained firearms or illegal property is zero.

(10) Net proceeds not required to be (~~(paid)~~) remitted to the state (~~(treasurer)~~) shall be used for payment of all proper expenses of the investigation leading to the seizure, including any money delivered to the subject of the investigation by the law enforcement agency, and of the proceedings for forfeiture and sale, including expenses of seizure, maintenance of custody, advertising, actual costs of the prosecuting or city attorney, and court costs. Money remaining after payment of these expenses shall be retained by the seizing law enforcement agency for the exclusive use of enforcing the provisions of this chapter or chapter 9.68A RCW.

(11) Upon the entry of an order of forfeiture of real property, the court shall forward a copy of the order to the assessor of the county in which the property is located. Orders for the forfeiture of real property shall be entered by the superior court, subject to court rules. Such an order shall be filed by the seizing agency in the county auditor's records in the county in which the real property is located.

(12) A landlord may assert a claim against proceeds from the sale of assets seized and forfeited under subsection (9) of this section, only if:

(a) A law enforcement officer, while acting in his or her official capacity, directly caused damage to the complaining landlord's property while executing a search of a tenant's residence;

(b) The landlord has applied any funds remaining in the tenant's deposit, to which the landlord has a right under chapter 59.18 RCW, to cover the damage directly caused by a law enforcement officer prior to asserting a claim under the provisions of this section:

(i) Only if the funds applied under (b) of this subsection are insufficient to satisfy the damage directly caused by a law enforcement officer, may the landlord seek compensation for the damage by filing a claim against the governmental entity under whose authority the law enforcement agency operates within thirty days after the search;

(ii) Only if the governmental entity denies or fails to respond to the landlord's claim within sixty days of the date of filing, may the landlord collect damages under this subsection by filing within thirty days of denial or the expiration of the sixty day period, whichever occurs first, a claim with the seizing law enforcement agency. The seizing law enforcement agency must notify the landlord of the status of the claim by the end of the thirty day period. Nothing in this section requires the claim to be paid by the end of the sixty day or thirty day period; and

(c) For any claim filed under (b) of this subsection, the law enforcement agency shall pay the claim unless the agency provides substantial proof that the landlord either:

(i) Knew or consented to actions of the tenant in violation of RCW 9.68A.100, 9.68A.101, or 9A.88.070; or

(ii) Failed to respond to a notification of the illegal activity, provided by a law enforcement agency under RCW 59.18.075, within seven days of receipt of notification of the illegal activity.

(13) The landlord's claim for damages under subsection (12) of this section may not include a claim for loss of business and is limited to:

(a) Damage to tangible property and clean-up costs;

(b) The lesser of the cost of repair or fair market value of the damage directly caused by a law enforcement officer;

(c) The proceeds from the sale of the specific tenant's property seized and forfeited under subsection (9) of this section; and

(d) The proceeds available after the seizing law enforcement agency satisfies any bona fide security interest in the tenant's property and costs related to sale of the tenant's property as provided by subsection (12) of this section.

(14) Subsections (12) and (13) of this section do not limit any other rights a landlord may have against a tenant to collect for damages. However, if a law enforcement agency satisfies a landlord's claim under subsection (12) of this section, the rights the landlord has against the tenant for damages directly caused by a law enforcement officer under the terms of the landlord and tenant's contract are subrogated to the law enforcement agency.

Sec. 6. RCW 43.79A.040 and 2021 c 175 s 10 and 2021 c 108 s 5 are each reenacted and amended to read as follows:

(1) Money in the treasurer's trust fund may be deposited, invested, and reinvested by the state treasurer in accordance with RCW 43.84.080 in the same manner and to the same extent as if the money were in the state treasury, and may be commingled with moneys in the state treasury for cash management and cash balance purposes.

WHEREAS, Vickie devoted her entire career to L&I, holding numerous positions, including secretary, editorial assistant, claims adjudicator, supervisor, program manager, assistant director for legislative and governmental affairs, and assistant director for insurance services; and

WHEREAS, Vickie has often referred to herself as a "workers' compensation policy geek"; and

WHEREAS, Vickie was always known for recognizing others for their accomplishments, especially at Public Service Recognition Week events for her staff where she was famous for photobombing; and

WHEREAS, Vickie was known as the unofficial ringleader for L&I Seahawks fans, bringing hundreds together for group photos on Blue Fridays in the agency's rotunda; and

WHEREAS, Vickie will be remembered for signing staff birthday cards with personalized "Roses are Red" poems; and

WHEREAS, Vickie received the 2016 Governor's Award for Leadership in Management for helping injured workers return to meaningful work rather than a life of disability, which helped reduce the rate of long-term disability from workplace injuries by more than nearly 15 percent; and

WHEREAS, Vickie was awarded the 2017 Joe Dear Agent of Change Award presented by L&I Director Joel Sacks for her outstanding leadership, commitment to public service, and making a difference; and

WHEREAS, Vickie led a team that has helped more than one million injured workers during her time as assistant director; and

WHEREAS, Vickie is the single most trusted voice with L&I's leadership and staff across the agency, external stakeholders, and legislators on workers' compensation policy and approaches to improve Washington's system for employers and injured workers;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the Washington State Senate express its deepest gratitude for more than 50 years of service and sacrifice that Vickie Kennedy has given to both L&I and the State of Washington; and

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE

The House refuses to concur in the Senate amendment(s) to SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 1876 and asks the Senate for a conference thereon. The Speaker has appointed the following members as conferees; Representatives: Valdez, Gregerson, Volz and the same are herewith transmitted.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Hunt, the Senate granted the request of the House for a conference on Substitute House Bill No. 1876 and the Senate amendment(s) thereto by voice vote.

will be sorely missed here. He was a fine, fine gentleman. Thank you Mr. President.”

APPOINTMENT OF CONFERENCE COMMITTEE

Mr. Gerard Joseph "Jerry" Patten, February 19, 1941-February 3, 2022, former Senate Security staff.

The President appointed as members of the Conference Committee on Substitute House Bill No. 1876 and the House amendment(s) there to: Senators Hunt and Wilson, J.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

MOTION

On motion of Senator Hunt, the appointments to the conference committee were confirmed.

Senator Schoesler: “Thank you Mr. President. Just over thirty years ago today, or this year, I met Senator Sheldon for the first time with his colleague, Senator Hargrove, at an ALEC [American Legislative Exchange Council] meeting. And for the last thirty years, they’ve been two of the colleagues that I’ve always worked with, enjoyed the company of, and we’re having a celebration of sorts. I don’t think Tim knows about it but there’s going to be Olympic Ice Cream out in the rotunda when we break at noon, if the Floor Leader will be so gracious to make sure we are available before it melts, to celebrate the work of our colleague, Tim. For those of you that are newer, Tim has worked in tribal economic development, county economic development, public power, regional power, three-term county commissioner. More than one party as a county commissioner, one year, one term as an Independent. That was a little interesting process. I’ve had the privilege to spend a lot of happy afternoons in Tim’s district. Hanging out, learning tree farming the way I’ve taught him wheat farming. Lunch with our friends. He’s going to be sorely missed amongst this body for the institutional memory. Have a little card from a couple of us here because we’re really grateful Tim. With your departure, Senator Honeyford and I become the most senior members of the body, if not the entire Legislature. So, there is a little something in it for me and for Jim as you leave us in seniority. There’s a parking spot I want back. There is an office that looks pretty good right now. So, from all of us, for all the years, thank you very much for your service and your friendship. Thank you.”

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Sheldon: “Thank you Mr. President. I do, I want to thank everyone for wishing me a happy birthday. It’s been a, my mom said. ‘You know they don’t count if they don’t end in, uh, fi-, uh, ze-, uh. five and zero. When they occur, they count.’ So anyway, this one counts.”

President Heck: “You’re way past five zero. [Laughter] But Happy Birthday Senator Sheldon. You may now sit down.”

Senator Sheldon: “If I might just speak to another point of personal privilege.”

President Heck: “Tread carefully, please proceed.”

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Sheldon: “Kind of a sad subject, but I want to bring to our attention. Jerry Patten, who was a member of our security team here, passed away at Capital Medical Center in February. He was 81. He battled lymphoma. And he worked as security in the Flag Circle parking post. Now remember where that is, right outside, between here and the Temple of Justice. He was born in Seattle in 1941. He served in the U.S. Marine Corps as a Lance Corporal in the 1960s. He also served as a Deputy Sheriff in Douglas County and also near Santa Barbara. Now Jerry loved cars. He was car guy. He owned thirteen Corvettes during his lifetime. Now you get a little more picture about Jerry. He was past president of the Washington Air Stream Trailer Club. Everybody loved Air Streams, still do. So he went to many car shows and trailer events and he also was an enthusiastic member of the Sons of Italy. So, Senator Fortunato note that. So, there will be a service for Jerry on the twelfth of this month at Olympia-Lacey Church of God and he will be interred at the Tacoma National Cemetery. If you didn’t know Jerry, Jerry was a really a fun guy and imagine the job of directing traffic and organizing - and demonstrations. Two, three, four thousand people would show up out there. So, he did a wonderful job. And the last point I want to make for Jerry, and this was not given to me, but he had a board, and this was the time that everyone that came through that Circle to park. Jerry had the board and you could pick the date and the time, down to the minute that we were going to adjourn sine die, Mr. President. And when those gavels dropped and you put a dollar in the kitty you were the winner. Now it might have been sixty, seventy-five dollars but it went along for quite a few years and was a lot of fun until the word came down one day, he said from the head shed, that the lotto, the game, could not continue. So, that was a sad day when that was ended. So, Jerry

(1) ~~((The appropriation and reappropriations are subject to the provisions of section 1008, chapter 298, Laws of 2018.~~

(2)) The board may make rural broadband loans and grants to local governments and to federally recognized Indian tribes for the purposes of financing the cost to build infrastructure to provide high-speed, open-access broadband service, to rural and underserved communities, for the purposes of economic development or community development. However, no more than 50 percent of all financial assistance approved by the board in any biennium may consist of grants to local governments or federally recognized Indian tribes.

(2) Application for funding must be made in the form and manner as the board may prescribe. In making grants or loans the board must conform to the following requirements:

(a) The board may not provide financial assistance:

(i) For a project the primary purpose of which is to facilitate or promote a retail shopping development or expansion;

(ii) For any project that evidence exists would result in a development or expansion that would displace existing jobs in any other community in the state;

(iii) For a project the primary purpose of which is to facilitate or promote gambling;

(iv) For a project located outside the jurisdiction of the applicant local government or federally recognized Indian tribe; or

(v) For the deployment of publicly-owned telecommunication network infrastructure ("backbone") solely for the sake of creating competitive, publicly-owned telecommunication network infrastructure.

(b) The board may provide financial assistance only for projects located in a rural community as defined by the board, or located in a rural county, that encourage, foster, develop, and improve broadband within the state in order to:

(i) Drive job creation, promote innovation, and expand markets for local businesses;

(ii) Serve the ongoing and growing needs of local education systems, health care systems, public safety systems, industries and businesses, governmental operations, and citizens; and

(iii) Improve accessibility for underserved communities and populations.

(c) An application must be approved by the local government and supported by the local associate development organization or local workforce development council or approved by the governing body of the federally recognized Indian tribe.

(d) The board may allow de minimis general system improvements to be funded if they are critically linked to the viability of the project.

(e) When evaluating and prioritizing projects, the board must give consideration, at a minimum, to the following factors:

(i) The project's value to the community, including evidence of support from affected local businesses and government;

(ii) The project's feasibility, using standard economic principles;

(iii) Commitment of local matching resources and local participation;

(iv) The project's inclusion in a capital facilities plan, comprehensive plan, or local economic development plan consistent with applicable state planning requirements; and

(v) The project's readiness to proceed.

(3) A responsible official of the local government or the federally recognized Indian tribe must be present during community economic revitalization board deliberations and provide information that the board requests.

(4) Before any financial assistance application is approved, the local government or the federally recognized Indian tribe seeking the assistance must demonstrate to the community economic revitalization board that no other timely source of funding is available to it at costs reasonably similar to financing available from the board.

(5) The appropriations must be used for projects that use a technology-neutral approach in order to expand access at the lowest cost to the most unserved or underserved residents.

(6) For purposes of this section:

(a) "Broadband" means networks of deployed telecommunications equipment and technologies necessary to provide high-speed internet access and other advanced telecommunications services.

(b) "Local governments" means cities, towns, counties, municipal corporations, public port districts, quasi-municipal corporations, and special purpose districts.

FOR THE DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

2021-23 Clean Energy V - Investing in Washington's Clean Energy (40000148)

The appropriations in this section are subject to the following conditions and limitations:

(2) The department must establish a competitive process to solicit proposals for and prioritize projects whose primary objective is to assist libraries operated by governmental units, as defined in RCW 27.12.010, in acquiring, constructing, repairing, or rehabilitating facilities.

(3) The department must establish a committee to develop the grant program criteria and review proposals. The committee must be composed of five members as provided in this subsection. The committee must include: (a) A representative from the department of commerce; (b) a representative from the department of archaeology and historic preservation; (c) the state librarian; (d) a representative from a library district; and (e) a representative from a municipal library.

(4) The department must conduct a statewide solicitation of project applications. The department must evaluate and rank applications in consultation with the committee established in subsection (3) of this section, using objective criteria. The ranking of projects must prioritize library district facilities listed on a local, state, or federal register of historic places and those located in distressed or rural counties. The evaluation and ranking process must also include an examination of existing assets that applicants propose to apply to projects. Grant assistance under this section may not exceed 50 percent of the total cost of the project. The nonstate portion of the total project cost may include cash, the value of real property when acquired solely for the purpose of the project, and in-kind contributions.

(5) The department must submit a prioritized list of recommended projects to the governor and the legislature by October 1, 2022, for inclusion in the department of commerce's 2023-2025 biennial capital budget request. The list must include a description of each project, the amount of recommended state funding, and documentation of nonstate funds to be used for the project. Individual grants may not exceed $2,000,000. The total amount of recommended state funding for the projects on a biennial project list may not exceed $10,000,000.

(6) In contracts for grants authorized under this section, the department must include provisions that require that capital improvements be held by the grantee for a specified period of time appropriate to the amount of the grant and that facilities be used for the express purpose of the grant. If the grantee is found to be out of compliance with provisions of the contract, the grantee must repay to the state general fund the principal amount of the grant plus interest calculated at the rate of interest on state of Washington general obligation bonds issued on the date most close in time to the date of authorization of the grant.

(7) The department must assist grant recipients under this section to apply for applicable competitive federal grant funding and, upon receipt of any such funding, an equal amount of the

(1) The appropriations in this section are provided solely for projects that provide a benefit to the public through development, demonstration, and deployment of clean energy technologies that save energy and reduce energy costs, reduce harmful air emissions, or increase energy independence for the state. Priority must be given to projects that benefit vulnerable populations and overburdened communities, including tribes and communities with high environmental or energy burdens.

(2) The 2021 state energy strategy must guide the department in the design of programs under this section, using an equity and environmental justice lens for program structure and participation. To the extent practicable, the department must prioritize projects that build upon Washington's existing strengths in communities, aerospace, maritime, information and communications technology (particularly data center infrastructure, artificial intelligence and machine learning), grid modernization, advanced materials, and decarbonizing the built environment.

(3) Subject to the availability of funds, the department must reconvene an advisory committee to support involvement of a broad range of stakeholders in the design and implementation of programs implemented under this section to encourage collaboration, leverage partners, and engage communities and organizations in improving the equitable distribution of benefits from the program.

(4) In soliciting and evaluating proposals, awarding contracts, and monitoring projects under this section, the department must:

(a) Ensure that competitive processes, rather than sole source contracting processes, are used to select all projects, except as otherwise noted in this section; and

(b) Conduct due diligence activities associated with the use of public funds including, but not limited to, oversight of the project selection process, project monitoring, and ensuring that all applications and contracts fully comply with all applicable laws including disclosure and conflict of interest statutes.

(5) During project solicitation periods for grants funded with this appropriation, the department must maintain a list of applicants by grant program that scored competitively but did not receive a grant award due to lack of available funding. These applicants must be considered for funding during future grant award cycles. If the department submits a 2022 supplemental budget request for this program, the request must include a list of prioritized projects by grant type.

(6)(a) Pursuant to chapter 42.52 RCW, the ethics in public service act, the department must require a project applicant to identify in application materials any state of Washington employees or former state employees employed by the firm or on the firm's governing board during the past 24 months. Application materials must identify the individual by name, the agency previously or currently employing the individual, job title or position held, and separation date. If it is determined by the department that a conflict of interest exists, the applicant may be disqualified from further consideration for award of funding.

(b) If the department finds, after due notice and examination, that there is a violation of chapter 42.52 RCW, or any similar statute involving a grantee who received funding under this section, either in procuring or performing under the grant, the department in its sole discretion may terminate the funding grant by written notice. If the grant is terminated, the department must reserve its right to pursue all available remedies under law to address the violation.

In development of the application criteria, the department shall, to the extent possible, develop program guidelines that encourage smaller utilities or consortia of small utilities to apply for funding. Where suitable, this may include funding for projects consisting solely of planning, predesign and/or predevelopment activities.

(iv) Applications for grants must disclose all sources of public funds invested in a project.

(b) $3,550,000 of the appropriation in this section is provided solely for a grant to the Public Utility District No. 1 of Lewis county for land acquisition and construction of the Winlock Industrial Park and South County Substation and Transmission facility, located on North Military Road in Winlock.

The legislature further finds that reliable, current information about the unmet housing needs of this population will position Washington state to leverage community-based partnerships and funding to establish greater housing choice and increased community integration of individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities.

FOR THE DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

2021-23 Rapid Capital Housing Acquisition (40000222)

The appropriations in this section ~~((§))~~ are subject to the following conditions and limitations:

(1) Except as provided in subsections (7) through ~~((9))~~ (8) of this section, the appropriations in this section ~~((§))~~ are provided solely for the department to issue competitive financial assistance to eligible organizations under RCW 43.185A.040 to acquire or rent real property for a rapid conversion into enhanced emergency shelters, permanent supportive housing, transitional housing, permanent housing, youth housing, drop-in center, or shelter for extremely low-income people, as well as individuals, families, unaccompanied youth, and young people experiencing sheltered and unsheltered homelessness. Amounts provided in this section may be also used for renovation and building update costs associated with establishment of the acquired or rented facilities. For youth housing, drop-in centers, and shelter projects, renovation of existing properties is an allowable activity. The department may only approve funding for projects resulting in increased shelter or housing capacity. Amounts provided in this section may not be used for operating or maintenance costs associated with providing housing, supportive services, or debt service.

(2) Funds may also be used for permanent financing for real estate acquired using other short term acquisition sources. To expand availability of permanent housing, financing of acquisition of unoccupied multifamily housing is a priority. Funds must also be provided specifically for the city of Seattle to move people experiencing unsheltered homelessness into safe spaces, including, but not limited to, tiny homes, hotels, enhanced emergency shelters, or other rapid housing alternatives.

(3) While emphasizing the rapid deployment of the amounts appropriated under this section to alleviate the immediate crisis of homelessness throughout the state, the department shall establish criteria for the issuance of the grants, ~~((which may include provisions that require that capital improvements be held by the grantee for a specified period of time appropriate to the amount of the grant,))~~ during which time the property must be used for the express purpose of the grant. If the grantee is found to be out of compliance with provisions of the contract, the grantee shall repay to the state general fund the principal amount of the grant plus interest calculated at the rate of interest on state of Washington general obligation bonds issued on the date most close in time to the date of authorization of the grant. The criteria must include:

(a) The date upon which structural modifications or construction would begin and the anticipated date of completion of the project;

(b) A detailed estimate of the costs associated with the acquisition and any updates or improvements necessary to make the property habitable for its intended use;

(c) A detailed estimate of the costs associated with opening the beds or units; and

(d) A financial plan demonstrating the ability to maintain and operate the property and support its intended tenants throughout the end of the grant contract.

(4) The department must provide a progress report on its website by December 1, 2022. The report must include:

(a) The total number of applications and amount of funding requested; and

(b) A list and description of the projects approved for funding including state funding, total project cost, services anticipated to be provided, housing units, and anticipated completion date.

(5) The funding provided under this section is not subject to the 90-day application periods in RCW 43.185.070 or 43.185A.050. The department of commerce shall dispense funds to the city of Seattle and other qualifying applicants within 45 days of receipt of documentation from the applicant for qualifying uses and execution of any necessary contracts with the department in order to effect the purpose of rapid deployment of funds under this section.

(6) If the department receives simultaneous applications for funding under this program, proposals that reach the greatest public benefit, as defined by the department, must be prioritized. For purposes of this subsection (6), "greatest public benefit" must include, but is not limited to:

(a) The greatest number of accommodations or increased shelter capacity that will benefit extremely low-income people, as well as individuals, families, and youth experiencing homelessness.

(b) Whether the project has federally funded rental assistance tied to it;

(c) The scarcity of the affordable housing or shelter capacity applied for compared to the number of available affordable housing units or shelter capacity in the same geographic location; and

(d) The program's established funding priorities under RCW 43.185.070(5).

~~(7) (($900,000 of the state building construction account—state appropriation in this section is provided solely for the public building conversion pilot program. The pilot program must be implemented in Grays Harbor county in collaboration with Community House on Broadway, in partnership with CORE Health.~~

~~(a) The appropriation may be used only for costs related to rehabilitation, retrofitting, and conversion of the publicly owned building for use as housing for homeless persons.~~

~~(b) The appropriation may not be used for staffing or maintaining buildings converted to housing for homeless persons. Costs for staffing and maintenance must be borne by the county or the contractor.~~

~~(c) In the contract for the pilot program, the department shall include provisions that require that capital improvements be held by the grantee for a specified period of time appropriate to the amount of the grant and that facilities be used for the express purpose of the grant. If the grantee is found to be out of compliance with provisions of the contract, the grantee shall repay to the state general fund the principal amount of the grant plus interest calculated at the rate of interest on state of Washington general obligation bonds issued most closely to the date of authorization of the grant.~~

~~(d) The pilot program should help inform the development of a public building conversion grant program to encourage counties to convert unused, publicly owned buildings into housing for homeless persons. The department must report to the office of financial management and fiscal committees of the legislature by November 1, 2022, regarding the establishment of the pilot program and any recommendations related to implementation of a public building conversion grant program.~~

2022 Local & Community Projects (40000230)

The appropriation in this section is subject to the following conditions and limitations:

(1) The department may not expend the appropriation in this section unless and until the nonstate share of project costs have been either expended or firmly committed, or both, in an amount sufficient to complete the project or a distinct phase of the project that is useable to the public for the purpose intended by the legislature. This requirement does not apply to projects where a share of the appropriation is for design costs only.

(2) Prior to receiving funds, project recipients must demonstrate that the project site is under control for a minimum of 10 years, either through ownership or a long-term lease. FOR THE DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

The appropriations in this section are subject to the following conditions and limitations:

(1)(a) $207,628,000 of the capital community assistance account—state appropriation in this section is provided solely for the department to issue competitive financial assistance to eligible organizations under RCW 43.185A.040 to acquire real property for a rapid conversion into enhanced emergency shelters, permanent supportive housing, transitional housing, permanent housing, youth housing, or shelter for extremely low-income people, as well as individuals, families, unaccompanied youth, and young people experiencing sheltered and unsheltered homelessness. The department shall prioritize housing projects that will rapidly move people experiencing unsheltered homelessness into housing, including, but not limited to, individuals living in unsanctioned encampments, the public rights-of-way, or other public spaces. Amounts provided in this section may also be used for renovation and building update costs associated with establishment of the acquired facilities. The department may only approve funding for projects resulting in increased shelter or housing capacity. Amounts provided in this section may not be used for operating or maintenance costs associated with providing housing, supportive services, or debt service.

(b) $20,000,000 of the capital community assistance account—state appropriation in this section is provided solely for housing projects in rural areas as defined by the department under RCW 43.185.050 and underserved communities with the goal of maximizing the investment and increasing the number of supportive housing units in rural, underserved communities.

(c) $2,000,000 of the capital community assistance account—state appropriation in this section is provided solely for the Woodley Place by Bayside Housing and Services project in Port Hadlock.

(d) $172,000 of the capital community assistance account—state appropriation in this section is provided solely for Building Transitional Tiny Homes for the Homeless project in Seattle.

(e) $200,000 of the capital community assistance account—state appropriation in this section is provided solely for the department to contract and work with a professional real estate broker to identify opportunities for rapid acquisition or conversion of properties.

(f) $10,000,000 of the capital community assistance account—state appropriation in this section is provided solely for unexpected cost increases experienced by projects funded by prior rapid capital appropriations. The department must create a process by which providers that received prior rapid capital awards may request additional funding for unexpected costs of affordable housing projects that are under or ready for construction

(g) When selecting projects, the department shall balance the state's interest in quickly approving and financing projects, the degree to which the project will leverage other funds, the extent to which the project promotes racial equity, and the extent to which the project will promote priorities on a statewide basis, including in rural areas and in geographically diverse parts of the state.

(h) Amounts appropriated under this section may also be used for permanent financing for real estate acquired using other short-term acquisition sources. To expand availability of permanent housing, financing of acquisition of multifamily housing is a priority.

(i) While emphasizing the rapid deployment of the amounts appropriated under this section to alleviate the immediate crisis of homelessness throughout the state, the department shall use criteria for the issuance of funds that were developed to administer prior rapid capital appropriations, and which must include:

(i) The date upon which the units can be placed in service and occupied by the intended population, or the date any necessary structural modifications would begin and the anticipated date of completion of the project;

(ii) A detailed estimate of the costs associated with the acquisition and any updates or improvements necessary to make the property habitable for its intended use;

(iii) A detailed estimate of the costs associated with placing the beds or units in service; and

(iv) A financial plan demonstrating the ability to maintain and operate the property and support its intended tenants.

(j) If the recipient is found to be out of compliance with provisions of the contract, the recipient shall repay to the state general fund the principal amount of the award plus interest calculated at the rate of interest on state of Washington general obligation bonds issued on the date most close in time to the date of authorization of the award.

(k) The department must provide a progress report on its website by December 30, 2023. The report must include:

(i) The total number of applications and amount of funding requested; and

(ii) A list and description of the projects approved for funding including state funding, total project cost, services anticipated to be provided, housing units, and anticipated completion date.

(l) The funding provided under this section is not subject to the 90-day application periods in RCW 43.185.070 or 43.185A.050.

(m) The department shall prioritize proposals that reach the greatest public benefit, as defined by the department. For purposes of this subsection (1)(m), "greatest public benefit" must include, but is not limited to:

2022 REGULAR SESSION

- (i) The rapid transition of people living unsheltered or chronically homeless, into housing;
- (ii) The greatest number of accommodations or increased shelter capacity that will benefit extremely low-income people, as well as individuals, families, and youth experiencing homelessness;
- (iii) Whether the project has local funding commitments and rental assistance;
- (iv) The scarcity of the affordable housing or shelter capacity applied for compared to the number of available affordable housing units or shelter capacity in the same geographic location; and
- (v) The program's established funding priorities under RCW 43.185.070(5).

(n) The department must strive to allocate all of the amounts appropriated in this section within the 2021-2023 fiscal biennium in the manner prescribed in this section. However, if upon review of applications the department determines there are not adequate suitable projects in (a) of this subsection, the department may allocate funds to (f) of this subsection or to projects serving other low-income and special needs populations, provided those projects are located in an area with an identified need for the type of housing proposed.

(2) $60,000,000 of the apple health and homes account—state appropriation in this section is provided solely for the rapid permanent supportive housing program created under chapter . . . , Laws of 2022 (Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 1866) and the creation of a housing dashboard providing permanent supportive housing need and current capacity data. Of the amounts in this subsection, $1,500,000 is provided solely for the St. Agnes Haven project in Spokane. If Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 1866 is not enacted by June 30, 2022, the amount provided in this subsection shall lapse.

Eligible grantees are limited to nonprofit or for-profit businesses, public entities, and tribes, that are also community hospitals or other community-based behavioral health providers. (b) The department shall work with the department of health, health care authority, and other relevant agencies to ensure that there is equitable distribution of these projects across the state, relative to need, and shall work affirmatively with all behavioral health administrative services organizations regions, with the goal that all areas of the state are adequately served.

(c) The department shall ascertain the areas of Washington state with the most acute behavioral health crisis needs using emergency department data and other data available including existing and forthcoming committed capacity and shall ensure that these areas receive grants to help facilitate placement and construction of facilities in an expeditious manner.

(2) Amounts provided in this section may be used for construction and equipment costs associated with establishment of the facilities. The department may approve funding for the acquisition of a facility if the project will result in increased crisis triage and stabilization capacity. Amounts provided in this section may not be used for operating costs associated with the treatment of patients using these services.

(3) $12,000,000 of the appropriation in this section is provided solely for the department to issue grants for at least two residential crisis triage and stabilization facilities for youth. These facilities must increase behavioral health services and capacity for children and minor youth including, but not limited to, services for substance use disorder treatment, sexual assault and traumatic stress, anxiety, depression, suicidality, and interventions for children exhibiting aggressive or depressive behaviors.

Up to four percent of the funding in this subsection may be used by the department of children, youth, and families to provide technical assistance to early learning providers interested in applying for the early learning facility grant or loan program.

(3)(a) $7,500,000 of the Ruth Lecocq Kagi early learning facilities revolving account—state appropriation in this section is provided solely for the Washington early learning loan fund. Up to four percent of the funding in this appropriation may be used by the contractor to provide technical assistance to early learning providers interested in applying for the early learning facility grant or loan program.

(b) In addition to the reporting requirements in RCW 43.31.573(5), the department must require the contractor to include the following information in the annual reports due to the department:

(i) Audited financial statements or reports independently verified by an accountant showing operating costs, including a clear delineation of the operating costs incurred due to administering grants and loans under this subsection (3);

The plan must include scenarios based upon a range of state investment in the fund.

(4) The department of children, youth, and families must develop methodology to identify, at the school district boundary level, the geographic locations of where early childhood education and assistance program slots are needed to meet the entitlement specified in RCW 43.216.556. This methodology must be linked to the caseload forecast produced by the caseload forecast council and must include estimates of the number of slots needed at each school district. This methodology must inform any early learning facilities needs assessment conducted by the department and the department of children, youth, and families. This methodology must be included as part of the budget submittal documentation required by RCW 43.88.030.

(5) When prioritizing areas with the highest unmet need for early childhood education and assistance program slots, the committee of early learning experts convened by the department pursuant to RCW 43.31.581 must first consider those areas at risk of not meeting the entitlement specified in RCW 43.216.556.

(9) For early learning facilities collocated with affordable or supportive housing developments, the department may remit state funding on a reimbursement basis for 100 percent of eligible project costs, regardless of the project's match amount, once the nonstate share of project costs have been either expended or firmly committed in an amount sufficient to complete the entire project or a distinct phase of the project that is useable to the public as an early learning facility. (viii) Fills an unmet need for community services;

(ix) Will achieve its stated objectives; and

(x) Is a community priority as shown through tangible commitments of existing or future assets made to the project by community residents, leaders, businesses, and government partners.

(2) The work group shall identify and recommend carbon reduction strategies and environmental product declaration principles to successfully apply in state construction projects and:

(4)(a) The legislature continues to prioritize Washington state's sustainability goals and reaffirms its determination that recyclable construction aggregate and recycled concrete materials are too valuable to be wasted and landfilled. The legislature further finds that the reuse of construction aggregate and recycled concrete materials into construction projects is known to:

(i) Reduce the need for consumption of new construction aggregate materials and conserves existing aggregate resources;

(ii) Encourages reuse and recycling, reduces waste, and discourages landfilling of readily available natural resources;

(iii) Reduces truck trips and related transportation emissions; and

(iv) Reduces greenhouse gases related to the construction of state funded construction projects, reduce embodied energy, and improve and advance the sustainable principles and practices of Washington state.

(b) These recyclable materials have well established markets, are substantially a primary or secondary product of necessary construction processes and production, as a commodity substantially meets widely recognized international, national, and local standards and specifications, and are managed as an item of commercial value.

March 7, 2022

MR. PRESIDENT:

The House passed SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5910 with the following amendment(s): 5910-S AMH ENGR H2899.E

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. INTENT AND FINDINGS. (1) The legislature finds that while hydrogen fuel has been used in a variety of applications in the state, the source of hydrogen has been derived from fossil fuel feedstocks, such as natural gas. Hydrogen is an essential building block and energy carrier molecule that is necessary in the production of conventional and renewable fuels and a valuable decarbonization tool when used in sectors such as marine, aviation, steel, aluminum, and cement, as well as surface transportation including heavy-duty vehicles, such as transit, trucking, and drayage equipment. Hydrogen can be a carbon-free fuel with an energy per unit mass that is three to four times greater than jet fuel, whose energy can be extracted either through thermochemical (combustion) or electrochemical (fuel cell) processes. In both cases, the only by-product is water, instead of the greenhouse gases and other conventional and toxic pollutants that are emitted from using fossil fuels.

(2) The legislature further finds that the use of renewable hydrogen and hydrogen produced from carbon-free feedstocks through electrolysis is an essential tool to a clean energy ecosystem and emissions reduction for challenging infrastructure needs. Clean hydrogen fuel can be produced or "charged" closer to the generation of the electricity when the electrical supply grid has surplus energy, at times of low electricity use, such as evenings, then made available at times of higher need and convenient locations, such as fueling stations, avoiding the need to build or upgrade larger electrical infrastructure, including distribution systems, to meet higher peak demand for electricity.

(3) Therefore, the legislature intends by this act to establish policies and a framework for the state to become a national and global leader in the production and use of these hydrogen fuels. This act will create an office of renewable fuels to: Promote partnerships among industrial, transportation, agriculture, and commercial interests as well as fuel producers, the technology research sector, and public sector agencies; identify barriers to and opportunities for market development; provide greater clarity and certainty in regulatory and siting standards; provide incentives and financial assistance in the deployment of hydrogen fuel infrastructure; support a clean and just energy transition; help create good quality, clean energy jobs; and improve air quality in degraded areas, particularly in communities that have borne disproportionate levels of air pollution from the combustion of fossil fuels.

Revenues to the account consist of appropriations made by the legislature, federal funds, gifts or grants from the private sector or foundations, and other sources deposited in the account. Moneys in the account may be spent only after appropriation. Expenditures from the account may be used only for purposes designated in sections 102, 103, and 201 of this act. Only the director or the director's designee may authorize expenditures from the account.

Part 2 FEDERAL FUNDING

NEW SECTION. Sec. 201. (1)(a) The legislature finds that the federal infrastructure investment and jobs act, P.L. 117-58, provides $8,000,000,000 over five years to support the development of regional clean hydrogen hubs. The federal infrastructure investment and jobs act requires the United States secretary of energy to establish a program to fund at least four regional hubs to aid in achieving a hydrogen fuel production carbon intensity standard provided in that legislation; to demonstrate the production, processing, delivery, storage, and end use of hydrogen; and that can be developed into a national network to facilitate a clean hydrogen economy. The federal infrastructure investment and jobs act requires the secretary of energy to select regional hubs that demonstrate a diversity of feedstocks, a diversity of end uses, and a diversity of geographic regions of the country. The federal infrastructure investment and jobs act requires the secretary of energy to solicit proposals for regional hubs by May 15, 2022, and to make selections of the hubs within one year after the deadline for submission of proposals.

(b) The legislature further finds that Washington state is strongly positioned to develop a regional clean energy hub meeting the criteria of the federal infrastructure investment and jobs act because the state:

(i) Has adopted a state energy strategy that recognizes hydrogen as an integral part of the state's decarbonization pathway;

(ii) Has an abundance of low cost, low carbon, reliable electricity as the primary energy resource for production of clean hydrogen;

(iii) Already has under construction the nation's first renewable hydrogen electrolyzer and has several hydrogen fueling facilities as well as production facilities in planning and design phases;

(iv) Has multiple manufacturers designing, engineering, and manufacturing fuel cell electric engines and zero-emission vehicles, vessels, and airplanes;

(v) Has numerous industrial, maritime, and freight shipping concerns that are moving toward cleaner fuels and that would help provide demand for hydrogen, as well as state and local governments currently considering hydrogen uses;

(vi) Has a demonstrated track record of building partnerships across the public and private sector to advance clean energy technologies;

(vii) Has policies in place supporting and engaging overburdened communities, including the healthy environment for all act, which will facilitate alignment with the justice40 initiative; and

(viii) Has policies, including tax incentives, that support high labor standards in clean energy production.

(c) The legislature further finds that the state may help to promote and strengthen applications for regional hydrogen hub federal funding through state funding assistance to support a timely and competitive application to the United States department of energy by a public-private partnership entity that leverages private sector leadership and is composed of multiple interests, including public and private project developers, manufacturers and end users, research institutions, academia, government, and communities around the state.

(2) Subject to amounts appropriated for this specific purpose, the director of the department of commerce must provide support to a public-private partnership entity as described in subsection (1)(c) of this section, which may include department staff support and direct funding. The entity should:

(a) Agree to prepare a timely and responsive application for federal funding to develop a regional clean hydrogen hub in Washington state, consistent with the requirements of the federal application process and the policies and strategy of the state of Washington;

(b) Demonstrate meaningful engagement with a range of entities across the state, including federally recognized tribes, labor unions, and communities around the state including overburdened communities, in the development of a hydrogen hub;

(c) Include entities that provide training and expand employment opportunities for the hydrogen workforce, including labor organizations, institutions of higher education, community and technical colleges, and vocational institutions; and

(d) Include specific commitments, as required by the federal application, from industries, transportation agencies, utilities, and other public and private sector entities to assist in funding the application and to develop plans to either construct infrastructure for or to incorporate, or both, the production, distribution, and end use of renewable hydrogen and green electrolytic hydrogen fuels into their transition to cleaner energy.

(3) In addition to the assistance in applying for federal funding provided through subsection (2) of this section, the legislature intends that the state fully support a regional clean energy hub in the state, including further direct financial assistance in developing the hub and the acquisition of hydrogen fuels for state agency and local government uses.

VALUATION OF PROPERTY RELATED TO RENEWABLE ENERGY

NEW SECTION. Sec. 301. A new section is added to chapter 84.40 RCW to read as follows:

(1) It is the policy of this state to promote the development of renewable energy projects to support the state's renewable energy goals.

(2) The department must publish guidance, in cooperation with industry stakeholders, to advise county assessors when appraising renewable energy facilities for determining true and fair value, in accordance with RCW 84.40.030. This guidance must include a cost-based appraisal method, and the development of industry-specific valuation tables for the following types of renewable energy property:

(a) A cost-based appraisal method and industry-specific valuation tables for equipment used to generate solar power must be published by January 1, 2023, for property taxes levied for collection in calendar year 2024;

(b) A cost-based appraisal method and industry-specific valuation tables for equipment used to generate wind power must be published by January 1, 2023, for property taxes levied for collection in calendar year 2024; and

(c) A cost-based appraisal method and industry-specific valuation tables for equipment used to store electricity must be published by January 1, 2024, for property taxes levied for collection in calendar year 2025.

(3) County assessors must refer to this guidance, including cost-based appraisal method and industry-specific valuation tables, when valuing renewable energy property but may also consider one or more additional valuation methods in determining the true and fair value of a property when there is a compelling reason to do so.

(4) For the purposes of this section, "renewable energy property" means property that uses solar or wind energy as the sole fuel source for the generation of at least one megawatt of nameplate capacity, alternating current, and all other equipment and materials that comprise the property, including equipment used to store electricity from the property to be released at a later time. "Renewable energy property" does not include any equipment or materials attached to a single-family residential building.

Concerning extending collective bargaining to legislative employees.

The measure was read the second time.

MOTION

Senator Mullet moved that the following committee striking amendment by the Committee on Ways & Means be adopted:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature intends to create the office of state legislative labor relations for the purposes of considering and managing the unique issues raised by legislative collective bargaining. By examining issues set forth in section 2 of this act, the office will provide the legislature with a fuller understanding of how the legislature as an employer can best implement legislation for collective bargaining for legislative employees, which would be administered by the public employment relations commission.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. (1) The office of state legislative labor relations is created to assist the house of representatives, the senate, and legislative agencies in implementing and managing the process of collective bargaining for employees of the legislative branch of state government.

(2)(a) Subject to (b) of this subsection, the secretary of the senate and the chief clerk of the house of representatives shall employ a director of the office. The director serves at the pleasure of the secretary of the senate and the chief clerk of the house of representatives, who shall fix the director's salary.

(b) The secretary of the senate and the chief clerk of the house of representatives shall, before employing a director, consult with legislative employees, the senate facilities and operations committee, the house executive rules committee, and the human resources officers of the house of representatives, the senate, and legislative agencies.

(c) The director serves as the executive and administrative head of the office and may employ additional employees to assist in carrying out the duties of the office. The duties of the office include, but are not limited to, conducting negotiations on behalf of the employer.

(d) The director shall contract with an external consultant for the purposes of gathering input from legislative employees, taking into consideration RCW 42.52.020 and rules of the house of representatives and the senate. The gathering of input must be in the form of, at a minimum, surveys.

(3) The director, in consultation with the secretary of the senate, the chief clerk of the house of representatives, and the administrative heads of legislative agencies shall:

(a) Examine issues related to collective bargaining for employees of the house of representatives, the senate, and legislative agencies; and

(b) After consultation with the external consultant, develop best practices and options for the legislature to consider in implementing and administering collective bargaining for employees of the house of representatives, the senate, and legislative agencies.

(4)(a) By December 1, 2022, the director shall submit a preliminary report to the appropriate committees of the legislature that provides a progress report on the director's considerations.

(b) By October 1, 2023, the director shall submit a final report to the appropriate committees of the legislature. At a minimum, the final report must address considerations on the following issues:

(i) Which employees of the house of representatives, the senate, and legislative agencies for whom collective bargaining may be appropriate;

(ii) Mandatory, permissive, and prohibited subjects of bargaining;

(iii) Who would negotiate on behalf of the house of representatives, the senate, and legislative agencies, and which entity or entities would be considered the employer for purposes of bargaining;

(iv) Definitions for relevant terms;

(v) Common public employee collective bargaining agreement frameworks related to grievance procedures and processes for disciplinary actions;

(vi) Procedures related to the commission certifying exclusive bargaining representatives, determining bargaining units, adjudicating unfair labor practices, determining representation questions, and coalition bargaining;

(vii) The efficiency and feasibility of coalition bargaining;

(viii) Procedures for approving negotiated collective bargaining agreements;

(ix) Procedures for submitting requests for funding to the appropriate legislative committees if appropriations are necessary to implement provisions of the collective bargaining agreements; and

(x) Approaches taken by other state legislatures that have authorized collective bargaining for legislative employees.

(5) The report must include a summary of any statutory changes needed to address the considerations listed in subsection

(4) of this section related to the collective bargaining process for legislative employees.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. The definitions in this section apply throughout this chapter unless the context clearly requires otherwise.

(1) "Commission" means the public employment relations commission.

(2) "Director" means the director of the office of state legislative labor relations.

(3) "Employee organization" means any organization, union, or association in which employees participate and that exists for the purpose, in whole or in part, of collective bargaining with employers.

(4) "Exclusive bargaining representative" means any employee organization that has been certified under this chapter as the representative of the employees in an appropriate bargaining unit.

(5) "Legislative agencies" means the joint legislative audit and review committee, the statute law committee, the legislative ethics board, the legislative evaluation and accountability program committee, the office of the state actuary, the legislative service center, the office of legislative support services, the joint transportation committee, and the redistricting commission.

(1) Except as may be specifically limited by this chapter, legislative employees shall have the right to self-organization, to form, join, or assist employee organizations, and to bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing for the purpose of collective bargaining free from interference, restraint, or coercion. Legislative employees shall also have the right to refrain from any or all such activities.

(2) Except as may be specifically limited by this chapter, the commission shall determine all questions pertaining to ascertaining exclusive bargaining representatives for legislative employees and collectively bargaining under this chapter. However, no employee organization shall be recognized or certified as the exclusive bargaining representative of a bargaining unit of employees of the legislative branch unless it receives the votes of a majority of employees in the petitioned for bargaining unit voting in a secret election by mail ballot administered by the commission. The commission's process must allow for an employee, group of employees, employee organizations, employer, or their agents to have the right to petition on any question concerning representation.

(3) The employer and the exclusive bargaining representative of a bargaining unit of legislative employees may not enter into a collective bargaining agreement that requires the employer to deduct, from the salary or wages of an employee, contributions for payments for political action committees sponsored by employee organizations with legislative employees as members.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. During a legislative session or committee assembly days, nothing contained in this chapter permits or grants to any legislative employee the right to strike, participate in a work stoppage, or refuse to perform their official duties.

(2) The duration of any collective bargaining agreement shall not exceed one fiscal biennium.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 8. (1) It is an unfair labor practice for an employer in the legislative branch of state government:

(a) To interfere with, restrain, or coerce employees in the exercise of the rights guaranteed by this chapter;

(b) To dominate or interfere with the formation or administration of any employee organization or contribute financial or other support to it: PROVIDED, That subject to rules adopted by the commission, an employer shall not be prohibited from permitting employees to confer with it or its representatives or agents during working hours without loss of time or pay;

(e) To refuse to bargain collectively with the exclusive bargaining representatives of its employees.

(2) It is an unfair labor practice for an employee organization:

(a) To restrain or coerce an employee in the exercise of the rights guaranteed by this chapter: PROVIDED, That this subsection shall not impair the right of an employee organization to prescribe its own rules with respect to the acquisition or retention of membership in the employee organization or to an employer in the selection of its representatives for the purpose of bargaining or the adjustment of grievances;

(b) To cause or attempt to cause an employer to discriminate against an employee in violation of subsection (1)(c) of this section;

(c) To discriminate against an employee because that employee has filed charges or given testimony under this chapter;

(d) To refuse to bargain collectively with an employer.

(3) The expressing of any views, arguments, or opinion, or the dissemination thereof to the public, whether in written, printed, graphic, or visual form, shall not constitute or be evidence of an unfair labor practice under this chapter, if such expression contains no threat of reprisal or force or promise of benefit.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 9. (1) The employer shall not bargain over rights of management which, in addition to all powers, duties, and rights established by constitutional provision or statute, shall include, but not be limited to, the following:

(a) The functions and programs of the employer, the use of technology, and the structure of the organization, including the size and composition of standing committees;

(b) The employer's budget and the size of the employer's workforce, including determining the financial basis for layoffs;

(c) The right to direct and supervise employees;

(d) The hours of work during legislative session and the cutoff calendar for a legislative session; and

(e) Retirement plans and retirement benefits, health care benefits, or other employee insurance benefits.

(2) Except for an applicable code of conduct policy adopted by a chamber of the legislature or a legislative agency, if a conflict exists between policies adopted by the legislature relating to wages, hours, and terms and conditions of employment and a provision of a collective bargaining agreement negotiated under this chapter, the collective bargaining agreement shall prevail. A provision of a collective bargaining agreement that conflicts with a statute or an applicable term of a code of conduct policy adopted by a chamber of the legislature or a legislative agency is invalid and unenforceable.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Pedersen, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 2124 as amended by the Senate was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third and the bill was placed on final passage.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Braun: "I rise to a point of order that Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 2124 violates Senate Rule No. 25, which requires the subject the bill to be expressed in the title."

President Heck: "Proceed."

Senator Braun: "Thank you Mr. President. So, as you know, Mr. President, Senate Rule No. 25 requires the subject of the bill to be expressed in its title. In recent years, we've all seen this trend with ever more prescriptive and byzantine titles being employed. This bill before us today is an excellent example. It has 125 words in its title. Mr. President, as stated in a 2020 ruling from your office, which is supported by long standing case law, if I may read Mr. President?"

President Heck: "Proceed."

Senator Braun: "The President will caution members that selecting a narrow title or narrow in specific bill title is not without risk. Where a title is very specific, the language of the bill must follow the title very specifically, and the President will enforce the standards of Rule 25.' Now Mr. President, the language in Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 2124 fails to comply with the senate rules as it does not follow the title very specifically and there are several instances in the bill where it deviates from this extremely specific title, and I'd just like to mention two of them.

First of all, the title asserts that collective bargaining is being extended to legislative employees by creating the Office of State Legislative Labor Relations. But the bill's contents do not extend collective bargaining to legislative employees by the creation of the office. This is factually false Mr. President.

The provisions extending collective bargaining are elsewhere in the bill. Specifically, section 4, 5 and 7. If these sections were omitted from the bill there would be no collective bargaining in spite of the fact that the Office of Legislative Labor Relations would still exist. And of course, vice versa is also true. If you were to omit the sections that had the Office of Legislative Labor Relations, but the other sections remained, you would have collective bargaining.

The second example, Mr. President, is that the bills title has a narrower focus on the Office of State Legislative Labor Relations, describing fifteen specific issues in which the office must consider. Yet, after you get past sections 1 and sections 2 the remainder of the bill is outside the scope of that very narrow and carefully crafted title.

These issues, Mr. President, frankly, would not be present if they used a broad bill title, such as the title used in the original bill on this topic, House Bill No. 1806. Just for the information the body the title on that bill was, if I may read?"

President Heck: "Proceed."

Senator Braun: "An act related to extending collective bargaining rights to employees of the legislature, legislative branch of the state government.' If that had been proposed, we wouldn't have an issue, but that is not the title before us today, Mr. President. And as the language of this bill does not follow this very near narrow title, I ask that you rule that Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 2124 violates Senate Rule No. 25. Thank you Mr. President."

Senator Pedersen: "Well, thank you very much Mr. President. Although I appreciate very much the careful legal analysis by the gentleman from the Twentieth District, I guess I want to suggest an alternate grammatical understanding of the title of this bill.

There are several gerunds that are used in words. And so, I'm going to suggest that the way that the title proposes extending collective bargaining agreements to legislative employees is by creating the office, by determining bargaining units, by adjudicating unfair labor practices, determining representation questions, considering approaches taken by other legislatures, specifying unfair labor practices, but without mandating what the collective bargaining agreement must provide.

So Mr. President, I think that what you see in the striking amendment and in the bill, is reflective of the title that that is to say, a broad, a broad approach for setting up a framework and a process for figuring out how the State would make, the State Legislature would make this momentous shift toward having, toward having the ability of the, of our employees to do collective bargaining with their employers in the legislative branch."

MOTION

On motion of Senator Pedersen, the Senate deferred further consideration of Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 2124 and the bill held its place on the third reading calendar.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Brown: “Thank you Mr. President. My almost decade of service has been truly a wild ride. And there are so very many people to thank. First and foremost, I thank my parents who have endured my many frantic phone calls and have talked me through so many varied issues, teaching me to really listen to what people say. ‘Don’t get caught up in the emotion but listen to what they are trying to explain to you.’ Second, to my girls who have supported this journey, ... despite its disruption to their lives. Finally, ... I thought I could hold it, but ... To my colleagues and staff and constituents: Thank you for engaging in such lively dialogue. I really wish the public understood the meaningful conversations that we have. Whether it’s over coffee, or over dinner, or sometimes being pulled aside in a committee room, that’s where truly great policy has been made for this state. Mr. President, do I have permission to read one of my dad’s favorite poems? ... It’s a short one.”

President Heck: “Please proceed.”

Senator Brown: “Thanks. It’s by Robert Frost, and it’s called The Road Not Taken.”

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood,
And sorry I could not travel both
And be one traveler, long I stood
And looked down one as far as I could
To where it bent in the undergrowth;
Then took the other, as just as fair,
And having perhaps the better claim,
Because it was grassy and wanted wear;
Though as for that the passing there
Had worn them really about the same,
And both that morning equally lay
In leaves no step had trodden black.
Oh, I kept the first for another day!

Yet knowing how way leads on to way,
I doubted if I should ever come back.
I shall be telling this with a sigh
Somewhere ages and ages hence:
Two roads diverged in a wood, and I—
I took the one less traveled by,
And that has made all the difference.’

No matter what road you embrace, please just embrace the journey. Approach your colleagues with open minds and civil discourse, and that, Mr. President, will make all the difference.”

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Hunt: “Thank you Mr. President. The silence is a bit overwhelming ... but silence for a really good person. Well, as I said, it’s been very special serving with Senator Brown. Had the opportunity, what was it, six or seven years ago? To go with a delegation to the People’s Republic of China where we walked on the great wall; we ate good food; we went to the panda bear reserve; and went to Hong Kong; and learned a lot about a foreign government; and saw some of the most amazing scenery. And, unfortunately some of the most amazing pollution that we’ve seen but, there again, one of the advantages of the trip was that the people on that trip really got to socialize and know each other and learn a little bit about them outside the legislative realm, which I think is very important. And another special thing, as some of you know, is that I spent seven years in the Tri-Cities, taught at Pasco High School so I have sort of an affinity for the Tri-Cities, as almost a second home to me, or maybe a third home. But I want to thank Senator Brown for all the work she’s done. It’s been a joy working with you and best adventures as you go about your fairly new job - and keep Carol Moser straight too. Thank you.”

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Warnick: “I also rise to honor my good friend, [choked up] woah! I didn’t see this coming right now, so I wasn’t prepared. ... but I have really gotten to know Senator Brown in the time that she’s been here. Really appreciated her knowledge of the law. We worked together, in district, on issues. She is kind of small in stature but mighty in nature. Her passion for her district is just incredible. Her knowledge of what that district means to the state of Washington is incredible. And her passion for the next generation is incredible to me. She invited myself, my daughter, and my grandson to visit her district. And he’s going to be like, some kind of, a scientist or something now because, he was only ten when we went down there but, he still remembers that visit to the facility that we visited in her district. She took the time to make sure that that was set up. Took the time to be available for young people who want to get into the work and it’s very technical work in her district. But more so, I have enjoyed over the years kind of sitting in this little cluster when we are all here. That was just so much fun to work on the state’s business, laugh a little bit, cry a little bit, and work together across the aisle. So really going to miss you. Don’t stay a stranger. We are going to keep in touch but thank you for your service and thank you for all you’ve done for the state of Washington and your district.”

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Wellman: “It has been an honor and a pleasure to have worked with Senator Sharon Brown over these few years. I wish there were more. Sometimes when you get someplace, you think ‘Let everything stay the way it is, I love it.’ And I’ve enjoyed everybody. Then there are changes but those changes come and go, and I do appreciate that. There aren't too many fellow geeks in the Senate, Mr. President, and I consider Sharon Brown one of those favorite geeks of mine, where we can whale away on blockchain technology and other things of the future and see the significance that they can be to bring to the state. She has been a strong supporter of the future of nuclear energy and exploring that with her has been fascinating. We got to travel together. I guess Senator Brown has traveled a lot of places because we traveled to Denmark and Sweden learning about their production and their sustainability. I will never forget what was, I think about a three-hour train ride we took. Where we off in one section of the train and we just talked and found out so many things in common., so many points of connection with her family and my family. Her love for her daughters, me for mine. She will really be missed and hopefully our connection will remain long after this time. But just to appreciate her work here in the Senate, has been a privilege and a pleasure. Thank you."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Short: "Thank you Mr. President. Sharon, I have so loved serving with you. You know, when she got – came to the Legislature, I love energy issues. She was in the Senate. She loves energy issues. And we had the greatest conversations on all types of focused work to that end with her work in the Tri-Cities. But the thing that's impressed me about you, Sharon, is just the detailed work you do. Every nuance that you would learn and come to know to represent your district and your people to the fullest that you could. You amaze me with all of the work that you've done for college students. You know, struggling with depression and suicide. The increased suicide rates, with your work bringing training to nurses so we can bring nurses to our schools. You gave so many people in your district a voice. And the work that she does for everything that she can do, and the relationships that you have built, have just made you a champion. I love being your friend, and I am going to miss you. Best of luck, and don't forget us."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Rivers: "Thank you so much Mr. President. Well, Senator Brown, it has been one heck of a ride. There are so many things that I think of, and will always think of, when it comes to you. Your character is second to none. You have been such an inspiration to me. Though many have taken a swipe at you, you have never swiped back which I think is simply remarkable. It really speaks about who you are. And your perseverance: But for you, where would we be – where would industrial symbiosis be? But it's not just that. It's that you're a person of your word. Anyone can take you to the bank because if you give your word, then we know that you will work your fingers to the bone to honor that word. And that is also something that we have benefited from. You've been like my sister for ten years. I don't think your leaving the Senate will change that one bit. So please know, whenever I think of you, I will think of the remarkable character traits that you have, and how you have made this Senate a better place. Thank you so much."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Wilson, L.: "Thank you. Well, I knew this was coming, but I wasn't thinking this was going to be today. So I haven't thought of everything I was going to say, and I'm not going to look at her while I am talking. ... So, I have known Sharon for six years now and, pretty much the whole time I've been here in the Senate, we've been roommates as well. I've had a really good opportunity to get to know her and get to know how close the relationship has become. How I appreciate your knowledge, and your expertise, and your counsel, and your guidance and how you, many times, have challenged my thinking. We would have - sit there until midnight sometimes, maybe longer - talking about things and challenged the way I'm thinking about some particular issue because we would have a lot of conversations about that. She has an, and her character is above reproach. I really appreciate how she sincerely cares for everyone. She has a good thing to say, something to say about pretty much everybody, regardless. And I appreciate the, how much she devotes to her girls. She goes to great lengths to do the right thing and make them happy and, and ... so I just want to thank her for being here, and for being my friend and everything she has done for the state of Washington. I wish you well in your next endeavors, but this won't be the last you see of me. So I will miss you here but thank you for being here."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Braun: "Thank you Mr. President. First, Mr. President, if you just pass my thanks to Senator Hunt for, for getting after that long awkward silence we had right at the beginning of this discussion. And pass my surprise onto Senator Brown, who did legitimately surprise us with that speech. But I welcome the opportunity to talk briefly about Senator Brown's work here in the Senate over the last ten years – we both came to the Senate the same year, 2013. We're both new, you know, – for Senator Brown it was particularly interesting because her predecessor, Jerome Delvin, was here for – I'd just shown up, I had met him. I worked with him for like three days and then, all of a sudden, he was gone, and Sharon Brown was there. And she came in, in beginning of session, zero time to ramp up, and she got right into it. Really impressive. Almost immediately a contributing member of the caucus and I was always impressed by that. Still am impressed by that. The other thing that has always impressed me is her ability to find a topic that was particularly important either to her district or she saw it, kind of looked head, and saw it as a topic that was important to our state. And we've heard about her work on nuclear power, on suicide prevention. She has worked specifically on Meals-on-Wheels. It is a small program but an important program in our state. But other things more recently, like Bitcoin, and blockchain, and digital currency. I can't count the number of conversations I've had with Senator Brown that started like, 'I'd like to tell you something about ...' Pick one of the topics I just mentioned. And she is very focused. She really wants to both, understand it deeply herself, and help us understand it. I think that deepens the substance of our discussion. Makes us better prepared to look at policy and look at things that will make our state more competitive in these areas in the future. So, I want to thank her for that. The other thing I want to mention is because, again from, when I came to the Legislature, I - I realized now of course - I didn't have a good appreciation for all the parts of our wonderful state. I certainly didn't fully understand everything that exists in the Tri-Cities. Sharon has been an undying advocate for all the things – we think about, sometimes us less knowledgeable folks, we think about eastern Washington and, of course, all the agriculture, and all the traditional strengths, but we sometimes don't realize the deep research and technical abilities that exists in places like the Tri-Cities. Sharon Brown would not let our ignorance stand. She had to tell us about all the great things up there. The world-leading research that happens right here in the northeast corner, or roughly northeast, corner of our state. I want to thank her for that. It has been a great pleasure to serve with her these last ten years. We will certainly miss her but she shouldn't think she gets off the hook just by leaving here."

FIFTY NINTH DAY, MARCH 9, 2022

2022 REGULAR SESSION

We will be back to work with her and ask for her help in the future. Thank you, Mr. President.”

The Senate rose in appreciation and acknowledgment of The Honorable Sharon Brown, Senator, Eighth Legislative District, and her years of service to the Senate and the State. Senator Brown had been selected to be Executive Director of Greater Columbia Accountable Community of Health in Kennewick.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Carlyle: “Thank you Mr. President. It is my great honor to join my good friend, Senator Brown, in taking a moment to express my gratitude of being her partner in service, as well as all of my colleagues, as well as you, Mr. President. I feel a deep sense of fulfillment and completion and accomplishment in joining you, Mr. President, today as we prepare to end our legislative session. I’ve had the great honor for fourteen years being a partner in service on so many challenging issues. And I’d like to take just a moment; I know that it doesn’t need to be said but, on occasion, it probably should, that the people of America’s Thirty-sixth District are just the most entrepreneurial, passionate, engaged, spirited, and gracious, well-dressed, and humble people in this state. Just fabulous, fabulous community that I love so much. When I first ran for office my four wonderful and amazing children: Nava, Zev, Liat, and Adi, were 1, 3, uh, 7, er, 5, 7, and 9, and, now they’re 15, 20, 22, and 24. And it’s been the honor of my life, of course, along with my amazing wife, Wendy, to - the love of my life, and the spirit and soul that drives me - to raise my children during this time of service. At the same time, I’ve worked full time, like many of you, like many of my colleagues. It’s a real challenge. You know, like everyone, my journey here has not been easy. I was raised as the only child of a hippie, single mother who struggled with mental illness for many years. And was the only woman welder in a shipyard of 250 men and went through all those challenges. But my big break, actually, came when I walked into this capital building as a fourteen-year-old Page and walked into the House of Representatives and saw the name 'Whatcom County' up there, where I was from. I really just had an amazing, amazing experience. From there, I got to go for an amazing journey of my life to Washington D.C. where I served as a U.S. Congressional page for Senator Warren Magnuson, Senator Scoop Jackson, and, for a brief time, Speaker of the House Tip O’Neil. And what I learned from those legislative giants is something that I have thought about every day - and I’ve learned from so many of my colleagues, which is: the spirit of bipartisanship, and compromise, and negotiations, and smart incrementalism is the essence of representative democracy in this constitutional republic. It is powerful. It is what moves us forward. It’s what keeps us safe and moving forward at the same time. I reject rigid, ideological purity. I really admire the deeper connections that we make in terms of relationships, trust, authenticity, and in very serious policy challenges. I have enjoyed, over the course of my time, working on some of the most challenging issues. I’ve been so honored to be a leader in so many of the toughest, toughest issues we’ve faced. I’ve learned a lot, I’ve failed a lot, and succeeded a bit. I’m very proud that we have the strongest 100 percent clean energy bill in the nation. I would say that that 100 percent clean energy bill in the nation, which is the toughest, is the only major clean energy bill in the nation that the utility industry supported. They supported it because they felt heard and seen. And so, we designed policies that actually worked. I’m proud of that. I’m proud that we have an economy-wide carbon pricing that is historic. I’m proud of so much of the climate work that sets us on the path towards Paris Agreement level emission reductions while growing our economy and protecting and growing jobs. I’m proud, Mr. President, of the fact that the value of a tax preference is now public information with accountability and measurements and metrics which didn’t exist before. I’m proud and grateful for the support of my colleagues, that when I first entered the Legislature, the graduation rate of high school for foster youth in this state was in the mid-twenties and it’s now in the mid-fifties. We’ve doubled it through investments in Treehouse and so many other investments that I hope my colleagues will for years to come. When I go to Magnolia, in my district, it’s so exciting to see the kids line up and go to school. I played an instrumental role in re-opening that school. And it’s just one of the small little things that you know you made a difference in the world. I’ve done my best, Mr. President, to leave it all on the field and to run through the tape and to try to serve with grace and authenticity. So much of my accomplishments and success came from an unbelievable staff that we have in this institution, of the Legislature, and also my legislative aides and so many others. I just am so grateful for the essence of a citizen legislature. I think it’s powerful. Where it’s real people, living real lives, and bringing our full selves to this work. I’m also, I think, known, in some ways, for what I failed to accomplish. I think that matters as well. I just want to take just a brief moment to thank Senator Warnick and others who stood with me on the issue of the death penalty when it was difficult and challenging and hard. But I know that bipartisan vote for multi-year, over the years, brought out something deep in that time of reflection. I feel so very strongly about that issue. I want to thank my colleagues for their support. I believe deeply in the issue of privacy, that we have a fundamental moral right to our own independence and freedom and not to be tracked every step of the way in our lives. I’m sorry to have not been successful at that. But ultimately, I think it’s just such a fabulous institution. I have been so honored to work on really meaningful, historic issues and to accomplish some on behalf of my community and to build relationships that are very meaningful to me. I am very grateful to my constituents, my family, my community, my friends, and to all of you. I also appreciate that when we are gone, we’re gone. There is just a robust energy that continues with new people and new spirit and new drive and new passion for issues and that’s what makes our quality of life is so special. It’s hard to be a prophet in your own land, and we know that as a state, for all of us, we have a beautiful quality of life. We have a strong robust quality of infrastructure, of educated workforce, of education, of jobs and economic opportunity, and natural resources. I just hope and pray that we continue to value it and do that work with meaning and purpose. So, with that Mr. President, I could not be more grateful for the honor of having been your and all of my colleagues’ partner in service. Thank you.”

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Billig: “Thank you Mr. President. Well, I want to thank my colleague, Senator Carlyle. I want to thank him for his service to our state and for his friendship. I’ve had the pleasure of working with him for twelve years, of having been to his home and met his family, shared meals with him. I’m going to miss him as a colleague here. I am also going to miss him because of the policy work he that he does. He is somebody that gets in the weeds and does the hard work of moving forward important policy for the people of this state. He is known, of course, for his leadership in climate and environmental policy, tax preference transparency, but he mentioned two other areas that I also think are important: his leadership on the death penalty, and the one that stands out to me actually the most, because I think he has made such a fundamental difference, is about foster care and supporting the foster children of this state. Foster children are our responsibility. They are our kids. They're the state's kids and Senator Carlyle has taken that to heart. The work that he has done, not just for education for foster children, but also for extended foster care, has made a difference for kids in this state and will continue to do so for generations to come. The good and gracious and good-looking people of the 36th District are going to miss Senator Carlyle as their senator, and we will certainly miss him as well."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Pedersen: "Thank you Mr. President. It has been my great pleasure for the last fourteen years to serve with the gentleman from the Thirty-sixth District. We sat together on the House floor, we sat together in the Ways and Means committee, we have commuted down to Olympia together from time to time, and, Mr. President, you know it's – there are a lot of people for whom one has great respect and develops great appreciation in this process but it is relatively rare to have someone who is a friend whom you would want to spend time with outside of the process and whom you feel you can really trust. And it has been a huge gift to me for these fourteen years to have that in Senator Carlyle. Mr. President, I want to tease him a little bit because I remember, vividly, coming out of one of our committees on committee processes a few years ago and delivering him the news that he was going to be asked to be the ranking member on what was then called Energy, Environment and Technology. He just scorned that. It wasn't enough of a human, a committee that would help human beings, he thought. He wanted, he was interested in something different. I talked him off the ledge. I said that I thought he could do some good things. And, Mr. President, how glad we all are for his service in that way. Our state has really led the country and, in some ways, is a leader in the entire world because of the incredible thought and energy that Senator Carlyle has put into that work, into try and figure out how we, as a state, can do not just our part but more than our part to lead on climate issues and to combat carbon emissions. Mr. President, it has been a great pleasure to work with Senator Carlyle on the death penalty and on a whole series of other issues. But what I appreciate more than anything else about him is the spirit of trying to get to an agreement that can help everyone, that can find sort of a middle path, that isn't a 25-vote strategy but that's a 40-vote strategy. I think it's not an accident, Mr. President, that Senator Carlyle's bills on privacy have gone out of the Senate nearly unanimously. I deeply regret that we have not been able to convince our colleagues across the way that significant progress would have been made with the passage of those bills, that we should not let the 'perfect' be the enemy of the good. I think that, for those of us that have been around enough, long enough to watch Scoop Jackson and Warren Magnuson, you can see that Senator Carlyle took really important lessons from those titans who represented our state and has, to great effect, applied them in the legislative process. We have all been the richer for that. So, Mr. President, it is for both professional loss and personal loss for me but as he's looking forward to an empty nest and thinking about how he is going to spend his final days, I know, Mr. President, that Senator Carlyle is going to continue to be an incredible public servant and will continue to leave the state better than he found it. I just want to join my colleagues in thanking him for having given us fourteen of these years."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Short: "Thank you Mr. President. You know, I was given an opportunity of the session that was born out of tragedy when we lost Doug Ericksen this year. Having served on the Energy Committee as a member, this year particularly, gave me the opportunity to serve side by side with Senator Carlyle. I tell you, we've had some spirited discussions. We love the energy issues and all of the things that go with it and the passion of moving forward while we're protecting, you know, ratepayer interests. I can tell you that I so appreciate his openness, his willingness to make sure I knew, as ranking member, what was going on in the Committee. He never hesitated to text or pick up the phone and say, 'Hey, things may be changing,' or, 'Hey would, would you do ...?' whatever we needed to do in that Committee. We did an awful lot of work. It was a little frustrating at times but the thing that was never frustrating was being able to work with Reuven and just to have that open line of communication and that friendship. Just the collegiality of, even though we come from different points of view, the ability to work together and figure if there are ways we could do things together. I can tell you, the thing that touched me most this year was, you know, the comments that he made ... about Doug ... after he passed.... It just shows the true man that he is and the true spirit of just what we all strive for. I'm going to miss the, the plaid suits that walk across the rotu-, that walk across the floor. But just mostly his personality, his perseverance, his ability to think on a dime and say many, many things that we all wish we could, in jest. But I am truly honored to have served with Represent-, 'Representative,' yeah, with Senator Carlyle in the Senate and just wish him the best in his future endeavors. Thank you, Mr. President."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Hunt: "Thank you. It is my honor to honor a long time and great friend of mine, Senator Reuven Carlyle. Reuven and I go back probably further than anybody else in this chamber because ... No? I'm not sure, anyway..."

President Heck: "Were you here when he was a Page at age fourteen? Because I was."

Senator Hunt: "I was there what he was a snotty nose Page in the United States Senate, so it's close."

President Heck: "Which came later."

Senator Hunt: "Ok, I lose. Anyway, I was what we call, and he and I are the last two, by the way, standing, 'bumblebees.' The bumblebees were Senator Warren Magnuson's staff members. We got that name because, if you go around the U.S. Senate, you see a senator with all the staff members, you know, hanging around as they walked down the hall. Senator Magnuson's wife said, 'You're not going to be bumblebees if you're going to work for, for this guy.' So, we were very careful not to crowd around him in the hall and let him sprint up and down the hall as he would. But you know, so, I knew Reuven then. And we kept that friendship going for a number of years. We got out here and I got elected to the House and Reuven got elected to the House. And then we both came over here. So, we've had a very long relationship and I just want to talk about friendship and a guy who is true blue, loyal and hardworking. And, you know, it's been really great to work and he's not going away. I may still sneak up to his house down there, if they have fireworks or something on Elliot Bay. But you know, it's been really great. And I want to tell you, Senator Carlyle, we're going to uncover those. We're going to get the skylights open. And thank you for your service and leadership on that and so many other issues.”

FIFTY NINTH DAY, MARCH 9, 2022

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator King: “Well, thank you Mr. President. I didn’t, I guess it is called a privilege to have been on a committee with Senator Carlyle, so I didn’t get to deal with him on that level but I have a great deal of respect for the gentleman. I like his coats. You know, I told him a few days ago we need to put up about three mannequins somewhere around here and hang his coats on them. You know, we’ll think he never left. But I do, I do really respect the gentleman and all that he’s accomplished even though I probably don’t agree with half of it. But it’s the way that he’s done it. It’s the style that he uses. I watched him and Senator Ericksen go back and forth. And, and yet, when I heard his words when he was referencing Senator Ericksen, it was very moving. He’s just that kind of guy. He’s done a lot for our environment, um, but I want to tell him that his accomplishments won’t be complete on environmental issues until I see a windmill in his district. [Laughter] Thank you, Mr. President.”

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Mullet: “Thank you Mr. President, I, I first met Senator Carlyle in 2011. I had reached out because he had had a very tight House race in 2008 and I knew I had a tight Senate race coming up in 2012. So, I met him for lunch, I think the Dahlia Lounge downtown, for some advice and that was very helpful. He emphasized to me that, you know, legislative campaigns, the beauty of the numbers is you have enough time to go meet a lot of people face to face and you should spend your time doing, predominantly, just that. I thought it was really good campaign advice from somebody who had been through a very difficult race in 2008. But I’m going to echo the sentiments we heard from Senator King just a second ago because my routine is, every summer I buy one brand new suit. And when I leave the house to go buy that suit, I am sick and tired of my wife giving one piece of advice and that is to buy something that looks like Senator Carlyle’s suits. And I have to say, Senator Carlyle, your suit today is actually quite boring. I mean, I would have thought in his farewell, you know, his day, where he’s going to make his farewell remarks, we would have seen the best he had to offer from his wardrobe. So, we’ll see. Maybe tomorrow. There’s one more day in the session. We’ll see what shows up. Thank you very much.”

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Warnick: “Thank you Mr. President. And you know, we all teach each other here, whether we know it or not. I also was inspired by Scoop Jackson, believe it or not, to actually consider a political career but way, way, way - long time ago, but I, the first time I really understood what Senator Carlyle was about, and it may have happened in the House because, er, the other body, because we served together too but he used the term, ‘good and gracious lady.’ And when he stood up to talk about my amendment, ‘Well, the good and gracious lady has’ and I thought, ‘Oh, he’s going to take my amendment.’ He never did [Laughter] but he made me feel really good for a moment. So, he taught me the value of agreeing to disagree. We, especially with the EFSEC situations, I had a different experience than he did with that. Never got the opportunity, I don’t believe, to serve on a committee with him, especially the Energy and Environment Committee. That was something I didn’t want to do. But - but he taught me the value of stating your case, doing the debate, participating in the debate. And I also want to mention his kind and warm remarks about former Senator Doug Ericksen. I didn’t realize they had such a good personal relationship, and it was just, taught me an awful lot. Wish I’d known that we were going to be talking about you today because we planned to wear plaid. I agree with Senator Mullet that he’s pretty sedate today but I, we will miss that good and gracious gentleman from the Thirty-sixth District. So, thank you Mr. President.”

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Frockt: “Thank you. As I started to say, I, I’m sorry I can’t be on the floor at this hour to congratulate and to commend my, my friend from the Thirty-sixth. My neighboring district. I only want to say that it has been a pleasure to serve, publicly, that has been a pleasure to serve with you. I am so glad that when you came to the Senate, we became, I think, very close friends and good friends. And we confided in each other on many occasions, usually in agreement, not always, but always with great respect for each other. You are a phenomenal legislator and a good friend. I wish you all the best as you move forward and I look forward to hanging out with you more as, as the days go on. Thank you for your service.”

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Hawkins: “Thank you Mr. President. I too would like to congratulate Senator Carlyle on his many years of very successful service to the state. Like so many of the colleagues have shared, I’ve really enjoyed my time serving with him. In particular, I really appreciate, and I just want him to know, Mr. President, that I will never forget how he has sort of dedicated a little portion of his great capacity for legislative actions on, on my efforts over the years. So, I think it was back in 2017, I had an issue in the city of Leavenworth related to them disposing of brush and yard waste related to this recently designated and redrawn apple maggot quarantine line. Sounds pretty, you know, probably in the weeds, literally, but you know, he really helped me on that, and I won’t forget it. Then a couple years later, in 2019, when I worked on the PUD and renewable hydrogen authority, he had really, really big things that he was working on. But he was always sort of attentive to the smaller bills that I was working on and, also, that, the hydrogen vehicle bill in 2021. He was very helpful in that. Those bills, all those bills, came through his committee. He was there to co-sponsor those bills and hear from my stakeholders. I just want him to know, which is probably the case with so many of us, it’s like we won’t forget, we won’t forget that. And it was impressive because he, I’ve always seen him as kind of like this big home run hitter. He was working on these grand slam progressive policies for the state. I was kind of like the Ichiro, trying to get my base hits, but he was doing these huge things but to, but never kind of forgot about me. And I appreciate that. I have this idea about his suit jacket. You know, if he has an extra one, maybe he can loan it to the Senate. Obviously, we’ll get it dry cleaned but maybe then some of us who fit into it can kind of wear it over the years. I think that’d be kind of a cool thing. But yeah, I’ll miss his floor speeches. He just had this, obviously this remarkable gift of communication that like what hear in his privacy speech and some of these things in years past, I just, when I was on the floor, I just would sit there and just sort of marvel at just how well he could clearly articulate what he wanted to say. And I personally, I struggle with things like that, but just wanted to tell him thank you, Mr. President, for his support of me and his dedicated service to state all these years and I wish him the best and all his future endeavors. Thank you.”

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Braun: “Thank you Mr. President. So, I to rise to honor the service of our, our colleague. I just want to share a couple historical facts. So again, I’ll go back to when I first came to the Senate. 2013. I was fortunate enough to, we were fortunate to be in the majority that year but the penance for me, for being in the majority, is they sent me over to negotiate with the tax bogeyman from the other chamber, then-Representative Carlyle on the Bracken decision. If anybody remembers the Bracken decision, that essentially threw out our estate tax in the state. You know that we had, you know, opposite majorities in the two chambers and this was a very contentious issue. And here I was, a freshman, and I was sent to, to work this out with then-Representative Carlyle. That was tough. What I learned pretty quickly was he, we obviously had different political philosophies, that was plain, but it was also clear that he, he was thoughtful, that he was, recognized facts and logic, and that we could find places that we could agree. So that was a tough negotiation but, and I would not claim that I got the better end, but we did do some good things. He recognized some work we could do to help. So generational transfers for small businesses, we made it, you know, took off some of the soft edges on the estate tax. I think really did make it better for the citizens of the state of Washington and ultimately got the job done. And we both voted for the bill. I didn’t want to vote for the bill, but I did. In return for that good work that we did in 2013, they teamed us up again in 2014 on cannabis. So that was right as, you know, it’s 2012 and the initiative, it passed and, and if anybody remembers the initiative, there was a lot of complexity there. And, and of course we all had little, green crosses springing up in our neighborhoods because of the crossover between recreational marijuana - cannabis, excuse me, [Laughter] recreational cannabis and medical cannabis. So, we, we got to, we were asked to sit down and kind of work through that in a way that all, both of the chambers, could agree to. And that year in particular, I remember because they sent Representative Cody with him. That was a little bit intimidating but again, again, you know, willing to listen to the facts, willing to listen to logic. Even though we disagreed on certain issues, we were able to come to a solution that I’m, I’m very proud stayed in place actually until this year. We made some slight changes to this year but really got our state on a better path for regulating the, the sale of recreational cannabis. I hear those stories just to kind of highlight the kind of work I think that Senator Carlyle has always been involved in. He likes these large projects, things that are very detail oriented, really have to dig into and think through. He’s not afraid of disagreement. In fact, sometimes, I think he enjoys disagreement. He likes to get in and work through and, if you embrace that, if you’re willing to work in good faith, be clear about what you can do and can’t do and find a path in between, you can get to a good, long-lasting, bipartisan solution. I think that will be, as much as anything, his legacy that he has left some, some challenging topics, challenging policy, that he’s worked through with many people in our, in both chambers that will last for years, sometimes decade, perhaps, decades. And on, of course, on top of that, he is unfailingly courteous. He, you know, he never, if one adjective or adverb is good than two or three or four is better. [Laughter] And it just his, his approach to our work here, in spite of our differences, has always been, for me, enjoyable and I will very much miss serving with him here in this in this body. So, thank you Mr. President.”

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Rolfes: “Thank you Mr. President. I rise to honor two people. I’d like to begin with Senator Brown briefly because I missed the opportunity to speak on the floor earlier. I don’t know if Senator Brown has ever heard this but recently, I was speaking at a statewide conference, and they asked for a few introductory, they asked me a few introductory questions just to, as an ice breaker. And one of the questions was, ‘If you had to be tied to somebody for the entire day in the State Senate, who would you pick?’ I thought about it really seriously and I said, ‘Sharon Brown.’ I, that is because you can’t find a more pleasant, level-headed, friendly, kind human. I wanted Senator Brown to know that. And, furthermore, we both who graduated from high school in adjacent towns in New Jersey so, occasionally, we refer to each other as, ‘Hey Jersey girl.’ And so, Mr. President, I just would like to be on record as saying how much I’m going to miss working with Senator Brown and that I hope we can remain friends.

Now, on to Senator Carlyle. Senator Carlyle is also one of my favorite people in the Senate and, no, I would never attach myself to him for the day [Laughter] but I want to address some of the comments that have been made today because I knew Senator Carlyle in the House when he was first elected. We cannot forget that he used to use the term ‘rural socialism’ with such force on the House floor that the Republicans would jump up and object. So, he has learned over the years how to become a gracious and diplomatic member of the Legislature, but he was a firebrand when he was first elected. Now, Mr. President, I would also like to say that we know Senator Carlyle because he works on big picture ideas. I don’t even remember his term for it but like, ‘We need to look at systemic change,’ you know, big picture stuff, but, at the same time, he never forgets the details of his district. Whether that’s the elementary school that he referenced earlier or the Pacific Science Center. He is big picture and he’s small detail. That kind of statesperson is rare to find. So, Mr. President, before I conclude, I just also want to say on the record that in my opinion Senator Carlyle is such a good man. He’s so honest. He’s humble. He’s transparent. He’s authentic. He’s passionate. He can stand and make a speech with such grace and thoughtfulness that, even if you disagree with him, you say, ‘Wow, he really believes that.’ He means what he says, and he wouldn’t stand up and say it if he didn’t. And finally, Mr. President, in conclusion, only Senator Carlyle would stand up and talk about the disappointments he’s had and kind of quietly urge us to be better and to go along with what he thinks are important to do but I stand here to say, Mr. President, that I hope that we pass the death penalty bill before we open the skylights.”

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Sheldon: “Well, thank you Mr. President. You know, there’s a lot of wonderful things said about our colleague today on the floor. I’ve had some great experiences with him, to visit the great Thirty-sixth District. Senator Carlyle put me in the passenger seat of his convertible. You know, he’s a big car guy, big car guy. And drove me on a beautiful, sunny day around downtown Seattle pointing to the tall buildings, the tech world, all the great things that he was so excited about. I enjoyed that tremendously that day. Drove me back down to the ferry and, of course, we have adjacent districts. We’re just separated by a body of water. I learned very, very soon here in the Legislature that you want to help your friends. I was a big supporter of the tunnel because I thought that was a wonderful addition to our state. When I visit the Pike Place Market today, which I think is not in your district, but when I visit the Pike Place Market today, I look out over the Elliot Bay and there’s no noise. There’s no dust. It’s such a beautiful, beautiful place. He was so kind to visit my district as well. I think we went out to the track and saw cars and did all kinds of fun things. He is a big car guy if you guys didn't know that but visiting the tree farm was very special for me to have you come out. One thing I want to mention about the Senator Carlyle that maybe hasn't been mentioned yet, is that he is a man of deep, deep faith. He's very involved in his synagogue. I think that's a quality that you can see. He doesn't talk about it, but you see it with Senator Carlyle. And had the great experience I talk about my friend Arnold Zweig who was an Auschwitz survivor. ... What a moving experience it was to bring him to the chamber here and to meet the, especially, the members of Jewish faith. That was a great experience for me. I just want to let you know he's doing fine. Ninety-four years old and he's still doing fine. And thank you, Senator Carlyle for your service. One, one last comment, I came down here to the Legislature and it wasn't in Territorial days, we were state then [Laughter] - and I testified before a committee in the Senate before I was a member, and I was not treated very well. The chair was not, Chairperson was not attentive to the person speaking, the members on the, on the dais were talking to each other and discussing things but, I want to say, that never happened in Senator Carlyle's committee. You always made everyone, everyone, feel welcome and I appreciate that very much. We'll miss you. Thank you."

The Senate rose in appreciation and acknowledgment of The Honorable Reuven Carlyle, Senator, Thirty-sixth Legislative District, and his years of service to the Senate and the State.

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

President Heck: “The President prior to issuing this ruling, has some preliminary comments on the choice of bill titles. The President would agree with Sen Braun that there has been a trend in recent years of evermore prescriptive and byzantine titles being selected. The President takes this opportunity to warn members about the selection of such titles. There is risk involved in this. Be forewarned.

In ruling on this point of order by Senator Braun objecting that the title of Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 2124 does not match the body of the bill in violation of Senate Rule 25, the President finds and rules as follows:

Senate Rule 25 provides that 'no bill shall embrace more than one subject and that shall be expressed in the title.'

Here, the bill is about extending collective bargaining to legislative employees. The bill creates a state agency – the Labor Relations Office - tasked with several duties. The director of this agency is tasked with conducting negotiations on behalf of the employer. The bill also lists a number of other duties of the office, including examining issues relating to collective bargaining for legislative employees, developing best practices and options for implementation, and submitting a report to the Legislature.

The bill goes on to provide direction to the state agency as it prepares its considerations to the Legislature. The remaining sections provide the guideposts of the collective bargaining framework to the Labor Relations Office.

The President finds that the title of the bill appropriately gives notice that the bill is about extending collective bargaining rights to legislative employees. For this reason, the President finds that the bill meets the requirements of Senate Rule 25. The point of order is not well taken.”

Senators Keiser, Saldaña, Conway, Stanford, Trudeau, Randall, Hasegawa and Rolfes spoke in favor of passage of the bill.

Senators Braun, Padden, Fortunato, Wagoner and Holy spoke against passage of the bill.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the final passage of Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 2124.

THIRD SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 1359, by House Committee on Commerce & Gaming (originally sponsored by Stonier, MacEwen, Robertson, Shewmake, Ormsby and Macri)

Reducing liquor license fees temporarily. Revised for 3rd Substitute: Temporarily reducing liquor license fees.

The measure was read the second time.

MOTION

Senator Robinson moved that the following committee striking amendment by the Committee on Ways & Means be adopted:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature finds that operations of businesses in the hospitality industry have been significantly disrupted since the beginning of the COVID-19 pandemic. Many of these businesses, including restaurants, hotels, theaters, caterers, and nightclubs maintain state liquor licenses in order to offer their customers beer, wine, or spirits as products or amenities as authorized under the terms of their licenses. However, many licensees' businesses were completely or partially closed for much of 2020 and continue to be closed or substantially disrupted in 2021 and 2022. Recognizing many licensees' inability to fully operate and use their license, and the financial hardships faced by many licensees, the legislature intends to provide relief to the hospitality industry by reducing certain liquor license fees in 2022 and 2023.

Sec. 2. RCW 66.24.420 and 2021 c 6 s 9 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The spirits, beer, and wine restaurant license shall be issued in accordance with the following schedule of annual fees:

(a) The annual fee for a spirits, beer, and wine restaurant license shall be graduated according to the dedicated dining area and type of service provided as follows:

-------------------------------------	--

Service bar only	(($1,000)) $500

(b) The annual fee for the license when issued to any other spirits, beer, and wine restaurant licensee outside of incorporated cities and towns shall be prorated according to the calendar quarters, or portion thereof, during which the licensee is open for business, except in case of suspension or revocation of the license.

(c) Where the license shall be issued to any corporation, association or person operating a bona fide restaurant in an airport terminal facility providing service to transient passengers with more than one place where liquor is to be dispensed and sold, such license shall be issued upon the payment of the annual fee, which shall be a master license and shall permit such sale within and from one such place. Such license may be extended to additional places on the premises at the discretion of the board and a duplicate license may be issued for each such additional place. The holder of a master license for a restaurant in an airport terminal facility must maintain in a substantial manner at least one place on the premises for preparing, cooking, and serving of complete meals, and such food service shall be available on request in other licensed places on the premises. An additional license fee of twenty-five percent of the annual master license fee shall be required for such duplicate licenses.

(d) Where the license shall be issued to any corporation, association, or person operating dining places at a publicly or privately owned civic or convention center with facilities for sports, entertainment, or conventions, or a combination thereof, with more than one place where liquor is to be dispensed and sold, such license shall be issued upon the payment of the annual fee, which shall be a master license and shall permit such sale within and from one such place. Such license may be extended to additional places on the premises at the discretion of the board and a duplicate license may be issued for each such additional place. The holder of a master license for a dining place at such a publicly or privately owned civic or convention center must maintain in a substantial manner at least one place on the premises for preparing, cooking, and serving of complete meals, and food service shall be available on request in other licensed places on the premises. An additional license fee of ten dollars shall be required for such duplicate licenses.

(e) The annual fees in this subsection (1) are waived during the 12-month period beginning with the second calendar month after February 28, 2021, for:

(i) Licenses that expire during the 12-month waiver period under this subsection (1)(e); and

(ii) Licenses issued to persons previously licensed under this section at any time during the 12-month period prior to the 12-month waiver period under this subsection (1)(e).

(f) The waivers in (e) of this subsection do not apply to any licensee that:

(i) Had their license suspended by the board for health and safety violations of state COVID-19 guidelines; or

(ii) Received an order of immediate restraint or citation from the department of labor and industries for allowing an employee to perform work where business activity was prohibited in violation of an emergency proclamation of the governor under RCW 43.06.220.

(g) Upon request of the department of revenue, the board and the department of labor and industries must both provide a list of persons that they have determined to be ineligible for a fee waiver under (e) of this subsection for the reasons described in (f) of this subsection. Unless otherwise agreed, any list must be received by the department of revenue no later than 15 calendar days after the request is made.

(2) The board, so far as in its judgment is reasonably possible, shall confine spirits, beer, and wine restaurant licenses to the business districts of cities and towns and other communities, and not grant such licenses in residential districts, nor within the immediate vicinity of schools, without being limited in the administration of this subsection to any specific distance requirements.

(3) The board shall have discretion to issue spirits, beer, and wine restaurant licenses outside of cities and towns in the state of Washington. The purpose of this subsection is to enable the board, in its discretion, to license in areas outside of cities and towns and other communities, establishments which are operated and maintained primarily for the benefit of tourists, vacationers and travelers, and also golf and country clubs, and common carriers operating dining, club and buffet cars, or boats.

(4) The combined total number of spirits, beer, and wine nightclub licenses, and spirits, beer, and wine restaurant licenses issued in the state of Washington by the board, not including spirits, beer, and wine private club licenses, shall not in the aggregate at any time exceed one license for each one thousand two hundred of population in the state, determined according to the yearly population determination developed by the office of financial management pursuant to RCW 43.62.030.

(5) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (4) of this section, the board shall refuse a spirits, beer, and wine restaurant license to any applicant if in the opinion of the board the spirits, beer, and wine restaurant licenses already granted for the particular locality are adequate for the reasonable needs of the community.

(6)(a) The board may issue a caterer's endorsement to this license to allow the licensee to remove the liquor stocks at the licensed premises, for use as liquor for sale and service at event locations at a specified date and, except as provided in subsection (7) of this section, place not currently licensed by the board. A domestic winery may not arrange for any such common carrier shipments to licensed retailers of wine not of its own production. Except as provided in this section, any winery operating as a distributor and/or retailer under this subsection must comply with the applicable laws and rules relating to distributors and/or retailers, except that a winery operating as a distributor may maintain a warehouse off the premises of the winery for the distribution of wine of its own production provided that: (a) The warehouse has been approved by the board under RCW 66.24.010; and (b) the number of warehouses off the premises of the winery does not exceed one.

(4)(a) A domestic winery licensed under this section, at locations separate from any of its production or manufacturing sites, may serve samples of its own products, with or without charge, may sell wine of its own production at retail, and may sell for off-premises consumption wines of its own production in kegs or sanitary containers meeting the applicable requirements of federal law brought to the premises by the purchaser or furnished by the licensee and filled at the tap at the time of sale, provided that: (i) Each additional location has been approved by the board under RCW 66.24.010; (ii) the total number of additional locations does not exceed four; (iii) a winery may not act as a distributor at any such additional location; and (iv) any person selling or serving wine at an additional location for on-premises consumption must obtain a class 12 or class 13 alcohol server permit. Each additional location is deemed to be part of the winery license for the purpose of this title. At additional locations operated by multiple wineries under this section, if the board cannot connect a violation of RCW 66.44.200 or 66.44.270 to a single licensee, the board may hold all licensees operating the additional location jointly liable. Nothing in this subsection may be construed to prevent a domestic winery from holding multiple domestic winery licenses.

(b) A customer of a domestic winery may remove from the premises of the domestic winery or from a tasting room location approved under (a) of this subsection, recorked or recapped in its original container, any portion of wine purchased for on-premises consumption.

The annual fee for this endorsement is seventy-five dollars. An endorsement issued pursuant to this subsection does not count toward the four additional retail locations limit specified in this section.

(b) For each month during which a domestic winery will sell wine at a qualifying farmers market, the winery must provide the board or its designee a list of the dates, times, and locations at which bottled wine may be offered for sale. (c) The wine sold at qualifying farmers markets must be made entirely from grapes grown in a recognized Washington appellation or from other agricultural products grown in this state.

(d) Each approved location in a qualifying farmers market is deemed to be part of the winery license for the purpose of this title. The winery may not store wine at a farmers market beyond the hours that the winery offers bottled wine for sale. The winery may not act as a distributor from a farmers market location.

(e) Before a winery may sell bottled wine at a qualifying farmers market, the farmers market must apply to the board for authorization for any winery with an endorsement approved under this subsection to sell bottled wine at retail at the farmers market. This application shall include, at a minimum: (i) A map of the farmers market showing all booths, stalls, or other designated locations at which an approved winery may sell bottled wine; and (ii) the name and contact information for the on-site market managers who may be contacted by the board or its designee to verify the locations at which bottled wine may be sold. Before authorizing a qualifying farmers market to allow an approved winery to sell bottled wine at retail at its farmers market location, the board must notify the persons or entities of such application for authorization pursuant to RCW 66.24.010 (8) and (9). An authorization granted under this subsection (5)(e) may be withdrawn by the board for any violation of this title or any rules adopted under this title.

(f) The board may adopt rules establishing the application and approval process under this section and such additional rules as may be necessary to implement this section.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. A new section is added to chapter 82.16 RCW to read as follows:

(1) Beginning July 1, 2022, through June 30, 2033, an administrator of a community solar project meeting the eligibility requirements described in this section and RCW 82.16.170(3) may submit an application to the Washington State University extension energy program to receive a precertification for a community solar project. Projects with precertification applications approved by the Washington State University extension energy program have two years to complete their projects and apply for certification. Projects that have not completed certification within two years may apply to the Washington State University extension energy program for an extension of their precertification status for an additional 180 days if they can demonstrate significant progress during the time they were in precertification status. By certifying qualified projects pursuant to the requirements of this section and RCW 82.16.170(3), the Washington State University extension energy program authorizes the utility serving the site of a community solar project in the state of Washington to remit a one-time low-income community solar incentive payment to the community solar project administrator, who accepts the payment on behalf of, and for the purpose of providing direct benefits to, the project's qualifying subscribers.

(2) A one-time low-income community solar incentive payment remitted to a community solar project administrator for a project certified under this section equals the sum of the following:

(a) An amount, not to exceed $20,000 per community solar project, equal to the community solar project's administrative costs related to the administrative start-up of the project for qualifying subscribers; and

(b) An amount that does not exceed 100 percent of the proportional cost of the installed cost of the share of the community solar project that provides direct benefits to qualifying subscribers, taking into account any federal tax credits or other federal or nonfederal grants or incentives that the program is benefiting from.

SIXTIETH DAY, MARCH 10, 2022

2022 REGULAR SESSION

(3) No new certification may be issued under this section for a community solar project that was certified under RCW 82.16.120 or 82.16.165, or for a community solar project served by a utility that has elected not to participate in the incentive program provided in this section.

(4) Community solar projects that are under precertification status under RCW 82.16.165 as of June 30, 2020, may not apply for precertification of that same project for the one-time low-income community solar incentive payment provided in this section.

(5)(a) In addition to the one-time low-income community solar incentive payment under subsection (2) of this section, a participating utility must also provide the following compensation for the generation of electricity from the certified project:

(i) For a community solar project that has an alternating current nameplate capacity no greater than 100 kilowatts, and that is connected behind the electric service meter, compensation must be determined in accordance with RCW 80.60.020 and provided to the retail electric customer receiving service at the situs of the meter.

(ii) For all other community solar projects for which the administrator is not a utility, compensation paid to the interconnection customer must be determined in a written agreement between the interconnection customer and the utility.

(iii) For all other community solar projects for which the administrator is a utility, compensation must be provided directly to subscribers in accordance with subsection (8)(a)(i) of this section.

(iv)(A) When the administrator of a community solar project receives compensation for the generation of electricity from a participating utility, interconnection customer, or from the retail electric customer that is the host for the community solar project, the administrator must provide all of that compensation as a direct benefit to the project subscribers, except as described in (iv)(B) of this subsection.

(B) An administrator may deduct ongoing administrative and maintenance costs from compensation they provide to subscribers from power generation, provided those costs are identified in the subscription agreement or justified to the Washington State University extension energy program. The Washington State University extension energy program shall review any such administrative and maintenance costs justifications for reasonableness and approve, reject, or negotiate changes to the proposal. An administrator may request a change in the deduction for administrative and maintenance costs to the Washington State University extension energy program only if the subscription agreement includes language notifying the subscriber that administrative and maintenance fees are subject to change.

(b) For 10 years after certification, and by March 1st of each year following certification, the administrator must provide the Washington State University extension energy program with signed statements of the following for the preceding year:

(i) The energy production for the period for which compensation is to be provided;

(ii) Each subscriber's units of the project;

(iii) The amount disbursed to each subscriber for the period; and

(iv) The date and amount disbursed to each subscriber.

(6) A utility's participation in the incentive program provided in this section is voluntary.

(a) The utility may terminate its voluntary participation in the program by providing notice in writing to the Washington State University extension energy program to cease accepting new applications for precertification for community solar projects that would be served by that utility. Such notice of termination of participation is effective after 15 days, at which point the Washington State University extension energy program may not accept new applications for precertification for community solar projects that would be served by that utility.

(b) Upon receiving a utility's notice of termination of participation in the incentive program, the Washington State University extension energy program must report on its website that community solar project customers of that utility are no longer eligible to receive new certifications under the program.

(c) A utility that has terminated participation in the program may resume participation upon filing a notice with the Washington State University extension energy program.

(7)(a) The Washington State University extension energy program may issue certifications authorizing incentive payments under this section in a total statewide amount not to exceed $100,000,000, and subject to the following biennial dollar limits:

(i) For fiscal year 2023, $300,000; and

(ii) For each biennium beginning on or after July 1, 2023, $25,000,000.

(b) The Washington State University extension energy program must attempt to equitably distribute incentive funds throughout the state. Considerations for equitable fund distribution, based on precertification applications received from administrators served by utilities voluntarily participating in the program, may include measures to reserve or allocate available funds based on the proportion of public utility taxes collected, the proportion of the state's low-income customers served by each utility based on low-income home energy assistance program data at the department of commerce, measures to achieve an equitable geographic distribution of community solar installations and a diversity of administrative models for community solar projects, and the amount of energy burden reduction for qualifying subscribers relative to the project's cost. If an equitable distribution of funds is not feasible due to a lack of precertification applications, the Washington State University extension energy program may allocate funds based on (a) of this subsection on a first-come, first-served basis.

(c) The Washington State University extension energy program must ensure that at least $2,000,000 of the statewide total for the entire program is used to support nonprofit organizations' innovative approaches to allocating benefits to subscribers, defining and valuing benefits to be provided to subscribers or other aspects of the subscriber, administrator, system host, and utility relationship.

(d) The Washington State University extension energy program must also ensure that at least $2,000,000 of the statewide total for the entire program is available to tribal governments and their designated subdivisions and agencies.

(e) The Washington State University extension energy program shall regularly publish and update guidelines for how it manages the allocation of available funding, based on the evaluation of applications and the factors specified in (b) of this subsection.

(f) Beginning in fiscal year 2026, the Washington State University extension energy program may waive the requirements in (c) or (d) of this subsection if it fails to receive applications that meet the criteria of (c) or (d) of this subsection sufficient to result in the full allocation of incentives.

(8)(a) Prior to obtaining certification under this section, the administrator of a community solar project must apply for precertification against the funds available for incentive payments under subsection (7) of this section in order to be guaranteed an incentive payment under this section. The application for precertification must include, at a minimum:

(i) A demonstration of how the project will deliver continuing direct benefits to low-income subscribers. A direct benefit can include credit for the power generation for the community solar project or other mechanisms that lower the energy burden of a low-income subscriber; and

(ii) Any other information the Washington State University extension energy program deems necessary in determining eligibility for precertification.

(b) The administrator of a community solar project must complete an application for certification in accordance with the requirements of subsection (9) of this section within less than two years of being approved for precertification status. The administrator must submit a project update to the Washington State University extension energy program after one year in precertification status.

(9) To obtain certification for the one-time community solar incentive payment provided under this section, a project administrator must submit to the Washington State University extension energy program an application, including, at a minimum:

(a) A signed statement that the applicant has not previously received a notice of eligibility from the department under RCW 82.16.120 or the Washington State University extension energy program under RCW 82.16.165 entitling the applicant to receive annual incentive payments for electricity generated by the community solar project at the same meter location;

(b) A signed statement of the costs paid by the administrator related to administering the project for qualifying subscribers;

(c) A signed statement of the total project costs, including the proportional cost of the share of the community solar project that provides direct benefits to qualifying subscribers;

(d) A signed statement describing the amount of the upfront incentive and the timing, method, and distribution of estimated benefits to qualifying subscribers. The statement must describe any estimated energy burden reduction associated with the direct benefits;

(e) Available system operation data, such as global positioning system coordinates, tilt, estimated shading, and azimuth;

(f) Any other information the Washington State University extension energy program deems necessary in determining eligibility and incentive levels or administering the program;

(g)(i) Except as provided in (g)(ii) of this subsection (9), the date that the community solar project received its final electrical inspection from the applicable local jurisdiction, as well as a copy of the permit or, if the permit is available online, the permit number or other documentation deemed acceptable by the Washington State University extension energy program;

(ii) The Washington State University extension energy program may waive the requirement in (g)(i) of this subsection (9), accepting an application and granting provisional certification prior to proof of final electrical inspection. Provisional certification expires 180 days after issuance, unless the applicant submits proof of the final electrical inspection from the applicable local jurisdiction or the Washington State University extension energy program extends certification, for a term or terms of 30 days, due to extenuating circumstances;

(h) Confirmation of the number of qualifying subscribers;

(i) A copy of the executed agreement describing how benefits will be determined and distributed from the retail electric customer or interconnection customer to the administrator if the administrator and the retail electric customer or interconnection customer are not the same. The Washington State University extension energy program must review the executed agreement to determine that benefits are being fairly determined and that there is an adequate plan for distributing the benefits; and

(j) Any other information the Washington State University extension energy program deems necessary in determining eligibility and incentive levels or administering the program.

(10) No incentive payments may be authorized or accrued until the final electrical inspection and executed interconnection agreement are submitted to the Washington State University extension energy program.

(11)(a) The Washington State University extension energy program must review each project for which an application for certification is submitted in accordance with subsection (8) of this section for reasonable cost and financial structure, with a targeted installed cost for the solar energy system of $2 per watt direct current for systems over 200 kilowatts and $2.25 per watt direct current for systems equal to or under 200 kilowatts. For solar energy systems that include storage systems, the targeted installed cost of the storage system is $600 per kilowatt-hour of storage capacity.

(b) The Washington State University extension energy program may approve an application for a project that costs more or less than the targeted installed costs under (a) of this subsection based on a review of the project, documents submitted by the project applicant, and available data. Project cost evaluations may include costs associated with energy storage systems and electrical system improvements to permit grid-independent operation. Applicants may petition the Washington State University extension energy program to approve a higher cost per watt or per kilowatt-hour for unusual circumstances.

(c) The Washington State University extension energy program may review the cost per watt target under (a) of this subsection prior to each fiscal biennium and is authorized to determine a new cost per watt target.

(12)(a) Within 30 days of receipt of an application for certification, the Washington State University extension energy program must notify the applicant and, except when a utility is the applicant, the utility serving the site of the community solar project, by mail or electronically, whether certification has been granted. The certification notice must state the total dollar amount of the low-income community solar incentive payment for which the applicant is eligible under this section.

(b) Within 60 days of receipt of a notification under (a) of this subsection, the utility serving the site of the community solar project must remit the applicable one-time low-income community solar incentive payment to the project administrator, who accepts the payment on behalf of, and for the purpose of providing direct benefits to, the project's qualifying subscribers.

(13)(a) Certification follows the community solar project if the following conditions are met using procedures established by the Washington State University extension energy program:

(i) The community solar project is transferred to a new owner who notifies the Washington State University extension energy program of the transfer;

(ii) The new owner provides an executed interconnection agreement with the utility serving the site of the community solar project; and

(iii) The new owner agrees to provide equivalent ongoing benefits to qualifying subscribers as the current owner.

(b) In the event that a qualifying subscriber terminates their participation in a community solar project during the first 120 months after project certification, the system certification follows the project and participation must be transferred to a new qualifying subscriber.

(14) Beginning January 1, 2023, the Washington State University extension energy program must post on its website and update at least monthly a report, by utility, of:

(a) The number of certifications issued for community solar projects; and

2022 REGULAR SESSION

(b) An estimate of the amount of credit that has not yet been allocated for low-income community solar incentive payments and that remains available for new community solar project certifications in the state.

(15) Persons receiving incentive payments under this section must keep and preserve, for a period of five years for the duration of the consumer contract, suitable records as may be necessary to determine the amount of incentive payments applied for and received.

(16) The nonpower attributes of the community solar project must be retired on behalf of the subscribers unless, in the case of a utility-owned community solar project, a contract between the subscriber that benefits the subscriber clearly states that the attributes will be retained and retired by the utility.

(17) All lists, technical specifications, determinations, and guidelines developed under this section must be made publicly available online by the Washington State University extension energy program.

(18) The Washington State University extension energy program may, through a public process, develop program requirements, policies, and processes necessary for the administration or implementation of this section.

(19) Applications, certifications, requests for incentive payments under this section, and the information contained therein are not deemed tax information under RCW 82.32.330 and are subject to disclosure.

(20) No certification may be issued under this section by the Washington State University extension energy program for a community solar project after June 30, 2035.

(21) Community solar projects certified under this section must be sited on preferred sites to protect natural and working lands as determined by the Washington State University extension energy program.

(22) This section expires June 30, 2038.

If the providing entity incurs costs to verify a subscriber's income status, the administrator must provide reimbursement of those costs;

(e) Except for community solar projects authorized under subsection (10) of this section, each subscriber must be a customer of the utility providing service at the site of the community solar project;

(f) In the event that a low-income subscriber in a community solar project certified under section 5 of this act moves within 120 months of system certification from the household premises of the subscriber's current subscription to another, the subscriber may continue the subscription, provided that the new household premises is served by the utility providing service at the site of the community solar project. In the event that a subscriber is no longer served by that utility or the subscriber terminates participation in a community solar project certified under section 5 of this act, the certification follows the system and participation must be transferred by the administrator to a new qualifying subscriber as specified in section 5 of this act;

(g) The administrator must include in the application for precertification a project prospectus that demonstrates how the administrator intends to provide direct benefits to qualifying subscribers for the duration of their subscription to the community solar project; and

MOTION

Senator Wellman moved that the following committee striking amendment by the Committee on Ways & Means be adopted:

"Sec. 1. RCW 43.365.005 and 2006 c 247 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

The legislature recognizes the motion picture industry in Washington as a valuable commodity contributing greatly to the economic vitality of the state and the cultural integrity of our communities. The legislature further recognizes the production of in-state motion pictures, television programs, and television commercials creates a marked increase in tourism, family-wage jobs, and the sale of local goods and services generating revenue for the state. Furthermore, with captive national and international audiences, the world is introduced to the state's pristine scenic venues and reminded that the Pacific Northwest is a great place to live and raise a family. The legislature also recognizes the inherent educational value of promoting arts and culture as well as the benefits of training young motion picture professionals who will build a fruitful industry for years to come.

The legislature finds in recent years that the state has realized a drastic decline in motion picture production that precludes economic expansion and threatens the state's reputation as a production destination. With the emergence of tax incentives in ~~(thirty))~~ other states nationwide, in-state producers are taking their projects to more competitive economic climates, such as Oregon and Vancouver, British Columbia, where compelling tax incentive packages and subsidies are already in effect.

The legislature also finds that in recent years increasingly workers in Washington state are without health insurance coverage and retirement income protections, causing hardships on workers and their families and higher costs to the state.

The legislature also recognizes that there are significant barriers to entry for those from marginalized communities to enter the motion picture workforce. This results in lost opportunity for people to tell stories in film that reflect a breadth of diversity in experience across race, gender, ability, sexual orientation, and place of origin.

The legislature also finds that more investment in the film industry will increase revenue with Washington state businesses and create family-wage jobs that pay health and retirement benefits for Washington workers. Moreover, targeted investments in rural and marginalized communities will create opportunities to build an equitable workforce and film industry.

Therefore, it is the intent of the legislature to recognize both national and international competition in the motion picture production marketplace. The legislature is committed to leveling the competitive playing field and promoting an equitable film industry and is interested in a partnership with the private sector to regain Washington's place as a premier destination to make motion pictures, television, and television commercials. While at the same time the legislature is committed to ensuring that workers in the motion picture and television industry are covered under health insurance and retirement income plans and that motion picture production sets and stories reflect the diversity of Washington residents.

If this limitation is reached, the department must notify all Washington motion picture competitiveness programs that the annual statewide limit has been met. In addition, the department must provide written notice to any person who has claimed tax credits in excess of the limitation in this subsection. The notice must indicate the amount of tax due and provide that the tax be paid within thirty days from the date of the notice. The survey is due by March 31st of the year following any calendar year in which funding assistance under RCW 43.365.020 is taken. (3) The Washington motion picture competitiveness program established in RCW 43.365.030, in collaboration with the department and the department of revenue, and in consultation with the joint legislative audit and review committee, must develop a survey form and instructions that accompany the survey form by November 1, 2012. (4) The department may request additional information necessary to measure the results of the funding assistance ~~((program))~~, to be submitted at the same time as the survey.

(5) If a person fails to submit an annual survey under subsection (2) of this section by the due date of the report or any extension the department must declare the amount of funding assistance for the previous calendar year to be immediately due and payable. The department must assess interest, but not penalties, on the amounts due under this section. The interest is assessed at the rate provided for delinquent taxes under chapter 82.32 RCW, retroactively to the date the funding assistance was received, and accrues until the funding assistance is repaid.

(6) The department must use the information from this section to prepare summary descriptive statistics. The department must report these statistics to the legislature each even-numbered year by September 1st. The department must provide the complete annual surveys to the joint legislative audit and review committee, which shall perform a review as required under RCW 43.365.050.

REPORT OF THE CONFERENCE COMMITTEE
Substitute House Bill No. 1876
March 9, 2022

MR. PRESIDENT:

MME. SPEAKER:

We of your conference committee, to whom was referred Substitute House Bill No. 1876, have had the same under consideration and recommend that all previous amendments not be adopted and that the following striking amendment be adopted:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature recognizes that the people have reserved for themselves the power to enact or reject legislation through the initiative and referendum process, as provided in Article II, section 1 of the state Constitution. The legislature finds that when exercising this right, the people are entitled to know the fiscal impact that their vote will have on public investments at the time they cast their ballots. The legislature further finds that when a ballot measure will affect funding for public investments, a neutral, nonprejudicial disclosure of the public investments affected will provide greater transparency and necessary information for voters.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. A new section is added to chapter 29A.72 RCW to read as follows:

(1) The attorney general must prepare a public investment impact disclosure for any ballot measure that:

(a) Repeals, levies, or modifies any tax or fee, including changing the scope or application of an existing tax or fee; and

(b) Has a fiscal impact statement, as provided by RCW 29A.72.025, that shows that adoption of the measure would cause a net change in state revenue.

(2) The public investment impact disclosure must include a description of the investments that will be affected if the measure is adopted. The description must be sufficiently broad to reflect the subject of the investments that will be impacted by the change in revenue that will result from adoption of the measure, but also sufficiently precise to give notice of the subject matter of the investments that will be impacted by the change in revenue that will result from adoption of the measure. The description may not exceed 10 words, unless the fiscal impact is primarily to the state general fund, in which case the description must list the top three categories of state services funded by the general fund in the current state budget and may not exceed 15 words. The attorney general may consult with the office of financial management or any other state or local agencies as necessary to procure accurate information to draft the description.

(3) The format of the public investment impact disclosure, as it appears on the ballot, is:

"This measure would (increase or decrease) funding for (description of services)."

(4) In drafting the public investment impact disclosure, the attorney general must use neutral language that cannot reasonably be expected to create prejudice for or against the measure. The language of the disclosure is not subject to appeal, except as provided in this act.

(5) The attorney general must file the public investment impact disclosure with the secretary of state no later than July 23rd.

(6) The secretary of state must certify the public investment impact disclosure and timely transmit it to each county auditor for its inclusion on the ballot.

(7) Public investment impact disclosures are not considered part of the ballot title under this chapter and are not subject to any of the legal requirements for ballot titles.

Sec. 3. RCW 29A.72.050 and 2003 c 111 s 1806 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The ballot title for an initiative to the people, an initiative to the legislature, a referendum bill, or a referendum measure consists of: (a) A statement of the subject of the measure; (b) a concise description of the measure; and (c) a question in the form prescribed in this section for the ballot measure in question. The statement of the subject of a measure must be sufficiently broad to reflect the subject of the measure, sufficiently precise to give notice of the measure's subject matter, and not exceed ten words. The concise description must contain no more than thirty words, be a true and impartial description of the measure's essential contents, clearly identify the proposition to be voted on, and not, to the extent reasonably possible, create prejudice either for or against the measure.

(2) If a public investment impact disclosure is required under section 2 of this act, the disclosure must appear in the middle of the ballot title, after the concise description and before the question. The disclosure is not, however, considered part of the ballot title and is not subject to any of the legal requirements for ballot titles under this chapter.

(3) For an initiative to the people, or for an initiative to the legislature for which the legislature has not proposed an alternative, the ballot title and public investment impact disclosure, if applicable, must be displayed on the ballot substantially as follows:

"Initiative Measure No. . . . concerns (statement of subject). This measure would (concise description). (Public investment impact disclosure, if applicable). Should this measure be enacted into law?

- Yes
- No

((3)) (4) For an initiative to the legislature for which the legislature has proposed an alternative, the ballot title and public investment impact disclosure, if applicable, must be displayed on the ballot substantially as follows:

- Yes
- No

2. Regardless of whether you voted yes or no above, if one of these measures is enacted, which one should it be?

"The legislature has passed Bill No. . . . concerning (statement of subject). This bill would (concise description). (Public investment impact disclosure, if applicable). Should this bill be:

- Approved
- Rejected

((5)) (6) For a referendum measure by state voters on a bill the legislature has passed, the ballot issue and public investment impact disclosure, if applicable, must be displayed on the ballot substantially as follows:

"The legislature passed . . . Bill No. . . . concerning (statement of subject) and voters have filed a sufficient referendum petition on this bill. This bill would (concise description). (Public investment impact disclosure, if applicable). Should this bill be:

- Approved
- Rejected

((6)) (7) The legislature may specify the statement of subject or concise description, or both, in a referendum bill that it refers to the people. The legislature may specify the concise description for an alternative it submits for an initiative to the legislature. If the legislature fails to specify these matters, the attorney general shall prepare the material that was not specified. The statement of subject and concise description as so provided must be included as part of the ballot title unless changed on appeal.

The attorney general shall specify the statement of subject and concise description for an initiative to the people, an initiative to the legislature, and a referendum measure. The statement of subject and concise description as so provided must be included as part of the ballot title unless changed on appeal.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Frockt: "Thank you Mr. President. I thank the Floor Leader for giving me this time to, I guess give my last speech, I guess this means I won't be able to speak for the rest of the day. Which is probably good, you're probably all tired of hearing from me. Mr. President, this is my last day as a voting senator. As I keep telling people, I'm actually, I still, I'm still senator until the end of the year but, unless we have a special session, this will be the last time I get to come to the floor of the Senate and vote. And I want to just, if I could, start and I always forget to do this, so I'm going to do this at the beginning and then I'll maybe do a little reflection at the end. I want to thank the people of my district, the people of the Forty-sixth District, who have elected me four times to serve them in this body. First to the House and then when I joined here in 2011 after one year in the House, it was in the wake of a really terrible tragedy. Many of you may remember my predecessor, Scott White, who passed away tragically, and it was a very difficult time to come in. And I, I think about this, I empathize quite a bit with Senator Sefzik, knowing that when you come and replace somebody who was well-liked, well-respected, it can be hard because you've got to figure out that you're not that person. You have to make your own, your own way, because I obviously hadn't intended, hadn't expected to be here. And I had incredible support. In particular from Scott's wife, Allison Carl White, who many of you may know, lobbies on many wonderful things here of late and she's a wonderful person. She gave me great support. I'm incredibly grateful for having had the opportunity serve the people of Seattle, North Seattle, Kenmore and Lake Forest Park. I just want to thank them profusely for the chance to have done so. It's truly been the honor of my life. It's what I always wanted to do. I want to thank my staff I've had, over the years. I've had wonderful people who've worked with me. I can be very, kind of, fastidious about the way I like to write and the way I like people to communicate my, letters and my emails and my newsletters and all of those things. They have all rolled with the punches with me. I'm so grateful to Samantha, Ann, John, Crystal, and now, Jessica, who's here in the wings with us. And all of my session aides and interns who are too numerous to name. Our caucus staff. As I've gotten more seniority and – in this body – and I had more responsibility, they have been incredible to work with: Noha, Samir, Steven Ellis and, of course, Heather, who I served, many of you may not know because you weren't here, I actually was the Majority Floor Leader for about six hours in 2013 and then somebody called a press conference and I was no longer the Majority Floor Leader. I became the Minority Floor Leader for one year. Wasn't particularly good at it but Heather did an incredible job helping me not screw up as much as I could have otherwise. And, of course, my new, my colleague who was actually the Capital Budget staff lead my first year when I started doing that. When I was the ranking member, [the caucus staff lead] was Yasmin, who is now, I mean, it's incredible to, to, to see her and her rise in politics. She's a brilliant woman and is going to do great things around here. I'm so grateful to have her as a colleague at the end of my term. Some of the people at SCS [Senate Committee Services], I just want to mention and the committees I've worked on: Greg, LeighBeth, Evan Klein, Kevin Black, Wendy, Michael, Richard Ramsey, Sarian, Corbin and Sandy Stith. Those are just a few not everybody, by any stretch. And of course, my communications group that worked with me over the years: Rick, Amelia, Ken, and Aaron Wasser. Fabulous people. We are so blessed to have all of these people working with us and I'm completely blessed. I consider all of you friends. Hopefully friends for life even when we've had political disagreements. In particular, I just want to say a couple thank yous to some people I'm particularly close with, sort of my era: Christine, Jamie, Reuven and Andy and Mark Mullet. I am so grateful to have served with all of you. I thank you. You've been great friends, great confidants. Even when we've had disagreements, they've always been as friends – as they should be – and then we move on and we try to do the people's business. It's just been incredible. You're all incredible legislators. Incredible people. This, if I could just, can I give you just a sense of how I'm feeling about things at this moment? I kind of feel like a certain part of my life is coming to an end because it really started for me thirty years ago when I came out of college in 1991. I went, one week after graduation, I went down and took a job, opening the mail in the congressional office of my representative from where I'm originally from, Louisville, Kentucky. It was a man, a man named Rom Mazzoli. [The Honorable Romano Mazzoli, U.S. Representative, KY-3rd Congressional District] – actually, served with Governor Inslee for a couple of years at the beginning of the 90s – and that's a great experience to get to do that. Worked for him for about three years and he imparted something to me that I've always thought about, I've tried to, to live by in my public life, which is: never do anything you can't defend on the front page of the paper. And I think, overall, I think I've done that, with maybe a couple of exceptions of late but I've tried my best. At that time, I met my wife, Rebecca. Thirty years ago, probably will be 30 years ago. Yeah, this fall will be 30 years ago, 1992. I don't think she knew when she met me, and you know, after we were together for a while, that I would end up kind of doing this for the good part of my career and all that it entails. As all of us know the, you know, the burden of this can place on your families. So, I want to just tell her thank you and how much I love her and our family. She's supported me throughout this journey. At the times when I was stressed and anxious about a decision or a vote or because I took this job seriously. Sometimes I would take a vote and it would still stay with me and I know many of you probably had that experience that you wonder, 'Did you do the right thing?' Did you do the wrong thing? Why did you do the thing that you did? Did you not hold up to your own standards? But I just can't thank her enough for what she did and, of course, many of the times when I was here, she was taking care of our kids. She was trying to work as well. My twins, Sam and Annabel, who, when I started, were six years old and they're now eighteen years old, in college and travelling around the world together. It's just amazing. I can say that I wanted to do something significant in my professional career. I became a lawyer. I practiced law for thirteen years but, to be perfectly honest, it was not particularly satisfying to me. I'd had the experience in D.C. I was a political junkie and I said to myself, 'I want to give this one shot. I'm going to run for office and see what happens.' And I, and things kind of broke my way. An interesting story: Some of you may remember Dwight Pelz, who was the state party Democratic Chair? So the Democrats may remember. He tried to convince me to run for the Seattle City Council. The best decision I ever made...not to do that. [Laughter] No offense. Great public servants. It's a great job. Totally different kind of job because what we do here and the reason I love it, is we deal with the issues I saw in Washington, D.C., that got me so excited and so energized but we do them at the state level. We do them at the local level. We deal with health care and education and everything in between - taxes, tax policy. And, but you know, candidly, I think we do so much more in the short session. We people here really work so hard to make a difference for people and I'm so, I think it's just an amazing experience. I wish I could kind of convey that to people. If you haven't done it or been around it, it's hard to actually understand how much we do in a short time. I wanted to do a few simple things when I came here. I didn't want people to go bankrupt from paying health care bills. That's been the reason I've spent so much time on health care. Very simple. I had an experience when I went to college that I needed a lot of financial aid because of some things my family was going through at the time. I can say with confidence that the decision that somebody made to increase the help that my family needed at that time led me to this spot today and I've tried to pay it forward as much as I could. That's one of the reasons I've been so involved in College Bound; DreamAhead, which I'm so proud to have worked on many of you with many of you on; the College Grant, all of those things; extreme risk protection orders. I know we have severe disagreements about gun policy in this state, in this chamber, but I think we can all agree that ensuring that people who shouldn't have access to these weapons when they're in distress, when they're suicidal, when they may do harm to somebody, that we ought to have some process. The voters validated that. I was proud to author the first bill on that. That was very, very important to me, back in 2014 and I know to a moral certainty that that bill that it was passed by the voters eventually, it saved lives somewhere. We may not know exactly where but I know for a fact that it has. And lastly, I've really done a lot of work and tried to do a lot of work on access to behavioral health for children. Not just for those kids who need it because we want them to grow up and be healthy adults. We obviously have a gap and we're lacking in some ways here in this state, but I've seen what it can do to families. I can see how hard it is on families. I was just with some people just last weekend who were dealing with, have a very challenging situation with their child. You can just tell how hard it is on the parents who are trying to do their best for their child and if people don't have access to the help they need, and these are people with resources and people who don't have them may not know where to turn. I tried my best to pay that forward because I've had the opportunities to take care of people that were important to me. I think there's an art to being a good lawmaker. I think there's a skill to it. I think it means finding common ground whenever you can but also being willing to stand on principle whenever you must. It means being creative and it means being willing to listen hard and responding when opponents may have a point that you hadn't considered and trying to incorporate that into what you're trying to do. I think sometimes that means don't always believe all of your own ... – I won't say it on the for the Senate – all the time. I think you've got to be humble in that regard. And I think it means try not to take things personally, even when you may be wickedly ticked off – and I can be pretty sensitive – but let it go. Move on. Understand that you maybe didn't win this one but, you know, if you work it out, something good will happen in the future. I think also remember it means remembering small things that your colleagues do for you. I've told the story, I don't know if I ever told it directly this person, but I will say it here. In 2014 or 2015, we were in the deep minority on this side of the aisle. The Transportation Chair was Senator King. I came to him and said, 'I have a bill that I need to pass for my city to deal with transit.' He probably doesn't even remember this because he doesn't like buses that much. So, he probably didn't ... [Laughter] didn't really, didn't really remember it. He let the bill come up, spoke for it on the floor as I tried to move it. He caught such grief from a couple of members, Senator Zarelli and Senator Benton. I remember this personally, he stuck with me and voted, voted with the Democrats on that bill and I have never forgotten that. I just want people to know, if you're new here, sometimes you never know when someone is going to help you out. And you can help them out. I just think, like eight years later, I gave him a pool in Yakima. So, it works out. [Laughter] Buses versus pools, I thought it was pretty good trade there. This is a really noble profession. I get tired of – yes, we deserve a lot of criticism from time to time – but I also know what's in people's hearts here who do this work, who commit to doing it, try to, to making things better. Sometimes we get it right, sometimes we get it wrong, but never apologize for what you, what you've done and what you tried to do. Always make sure that we do our best and continue to try to keep what divides us in check so that we can allow this great experiment to continue to be what our country is supposed to be. I see the best of that here so many times. Mr. President I'll just conclude by saying this: Every session for twelve, except for this last Covid session, I would always come down to the Capital the night before aw we're getting ready, getting excited for the first day. I would take a walk around or drive up, take a picture of the Capital at night, beautiful dome lit up, and just think about how lucky I was to have had the chance to serve; to do something I always wanted to do; that I thought was important; to give the work in my life meaning which, I think, this has. I'm so blessed to have had that opportunity. I hope that that inspiration, that looking at the dome at night, the inspiration it gave me, I hope it will continue to be inspiring to all of you and all who come after all of us. Thank you very much."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Billig: "Thank you Mr. President. Rising to say a few words about my friend, Senator David Frockt. It's hard to follow such eloquent and thoughtful words that he just spoke but I do have a few things I'd like to share. First is that, thank you. Thank you to him for being a friend over the last thirteen years. We've served for twelve years, but I've known him for thirteen years and I'll get to that in just a moment. Thank you for the work that he has done on behalf of his constituents, on behalf of everybody in Washington State. So, I came, when I was early in my first campaign, there was a Labor Council meeting in Seattle. I hadn't been very involved with Labor and somebody, one of the advisors I was working with, said 'I know you've got to go to this meeting in Seattle.' So, I go over and I stay the night in Seattle with my cousin, Nancy. I'm going out the next morning and had my daughter Bella with me and she was going to spend the day with Nancy. So, I'm getting ready to leave in the morning to go to the Labor Council meeting and Nancy said, 'Oh, by the way, if you happen to run into a guy named David Frockt, tell him that I said hello and you should get to know him a little bit.' I was like, 'Well, who's he?' 'Oh, my college roommate, my best friend, it's her husband.' So, I was like, well that's pretty close. That's pretty cool but what are the chances I'll even meet him? So, I go down there and walk in and sure enough I bump right into David Frockt. We make the connection and we've been friends ever since, and colleagues, for most of that time. As much, I mean, I value David so much as a friend but I also value him for his work as a Senator. He sometimes, I sometimes say that here we work on ten thousand different issues but most people are only an expert in two or three or four. It's hard to be an expert. You want to really get into the weeds, and you serve on a committee, and you really get to know – that's how this place really works well, because we need people who are experts in all different areas. But David actually has an incredible diversity of expertise here in the Legislature. He was a leader in K-12, a leader in higher ed, leader in behavioral health and health care. He's been the Vice Chair of the operating budget and the lead on the capital budget. He was the floor leader. And it's hard to be an expert on all of those things. To be so good, to be so thoughtful, and so quick. I mean this year we had some changes happen in our caucus and we needed somebody to be the Chair of the Behavioral Health Committee. Of course, David stepped right up and did an amazing job. One of the things that doesn't get a lot of attention is his work, I mean is work on capital budget certainly is well known and appreciated but a few years ago he worked on the MOTCA [Model Toxic Control Account] program. And this is a really important program about cleaning up toxic pollution in our state. And he reformed the way that we do MOTCA. That's really in the weeds. To say, 'I'm going to get down there. I'm going to spend a lot of time and energy to change the way we do MOTCA.' And our state is cleaner and better because of it. And I sometimes joke, but I may actually have a bill on this next year, that we shouldn't call it 'MOTCA,' we should call it 'FROCKTA,' in honor of him. So, I don't know what David is going to do next but I know it will be meaningful and I know that I'll be following him and staying in touch with him. And I appreciate him so much. Thank you, Mr. President."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Wagoner: "I've been somewhat mesmerized by what I've been hearing in the last few minutes. I hope it's okay to have favorites in the body that doesn't caucus with me because I do. Senator Frockt is at the top of that list. I remember when I first came to this body, some of our first interactions, when David was kind of trying to figure out where I stood, and came and asked me how I would feel about, I think it was the magazine capacity bill, several sessions back. We didn't agree on that and we have not agreed on lots of things over the years but Senator Frockt is a consummate gentleman. He never held a grudge. There were issues where he could have easily held a grudge, police pursuit one, you know, with his personal experience with his grandparents but I always remembered and I'm on the other side of that issue. He could have easily held a grudge. But the truth is, when you're in the minority, you don't get much done that's meaningful unless you can connect with folks on the other side who have the big levers. Senator Frockt never held a grudge and when I needed a lever pulled, and it was important to me, he always came through. I have to admit that I have more success for my district based on actions that Senator Frockt took for me than I have from, from this side of the aisle. And I will never forget that."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Pedersen: "Thank you very much. Mr. President, it's, boy, it's hard to lose both my neighbor to the west and my neighbor to the north in two days. It's, it really is going to be a less rich place. So, twelve years ago, Mr. President, young Representative Frockt showed up to serve with me in the House Judiciary Committee. I was so privileged to get to know and start to work with him there. We have been able to collaborate on some of the things that, I think, when I'm finished, I will have been most proud of. One of those was that the two of us and Speaker Jenkins organized a challenge to a series of ballot initiatives that purported to require two-thirds majorities for raising taxes. David and Laurie and I and the former Speaker sort of orchestrated the whole thing and then and then set off the case where that had not previously been successful. They went to the state Supreme Court and restored majority rule in our state on tax policy which I think is really historic. David was absolutely integral to that effort. I think, also, Mr. President, about a day in the immediate aftermath of the Sandy Hook shooting when David and Speaker Chopp came to my office at McKinstry and met with the folks who ultimately went on to organize the Alliance for Gun Responsibility and have run a series of initiatives, including extreme risk protection order initiative, that Senator Frockt mentioned. Right from the beginning of that effort, with both big picture moral clarity and very detailed and strategic ideas about how that effort should proceed, Senator Frockt was in the middle of those decisions. Adding to the list of things that Senator Billig referenced, that Senator Frockt has really been instrumental in a lot of the significant progress that we have made over time. When I think of one question, and it's interesting that it's a question that I probably associate with Senator Frockt more than anything else, it's, 'Well, what do you think?' Because I think more than anybody else that I've served with in the years that I've been doing this, I think almost every conversation that I've ever had with him, he's truly, deeply, interested in what my opinion is on whatever we're talking about. I think that that's probably a process that has been repeated with most of the people that he talks with because he really is. He's curious; he's thoughtful; he's considerate. And as long as we're going through points of the scout law, I guess I want to mention, Mr. President, that some months ago I was, I had my younger boys were working on their First Class rank. Part of that is that they have to speak with a lawyer or an elected official about the rights and duties and obligations of American citizens. So, I was thinking, you know, 'Gosh, who could I get them to speak with?' I asked Senator Frockt if he'd be willing to talk with them, thinking that we would probably set up a Zoom call or something and they could ask him a few questions. Instead, he invited them over to pizza and bought Pagliacci and we had a lovely evening at his house and just a fabulous, wide-ranging conversation. He was a consummate host and a great teacher for them. Mr. President, the only consolation in terms of losing Senator Frockt as a colleague, is that I get to gain him as a constituent given the changes in the boundary lines. And I am very much looking forward to continuing our friendship after he leaves this body. Thank you."

INTRODUCTION OF SPECIAL GUESTS

The President welcomed and introduced His Excellency, Governor Jay Inslee, who was present in the wings of the and recognized by the Senate.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Braun: "Thank you. So, I rise just to say a few words about my friend and colleague David Frockt. We, I arrived shortly after he did in the Senate, so he had already figured everything out. So, naturally, I look to him for advice ... but we, as a result, when I was early in the Senate, we got to work on some really important issues, I think. And it's one just one part of the breadth of the work that David has done over the years, but but we had to work together on the tuition reduction. That went on for a while but we've worked through the details and David was always a positive force trying to identify problem, not just identifying challenges we'd have, but helping find solutions. How do we get this to work and work for all of Washington? And then, thanks in part because of that we had the next year, we came back and we had an opportunity with the GET [Guaranteed Education Tuition] program. Those of you familiar with the GET program, at that time, it was sort of underwater. The tuition helped that but also gave us some opportunity to work and turn that into a 529. I worked with both Senator Frockt and Senator Mullet when they were in the minority at the time, but they had to run that bill. That turned out to be, if you happen to have your children signed up for GET or for the 529 program, one of the best bills I think we've seen here. I mean, really did good work for people who are trying to save and get their children through college. That, you know, it's gone on and on. I think the net of it is, when you look at our system, both in terms of the cost intuition, the ability to get help if you need help, and from your College Bound or whatever. We have, I would argue, and you've heard me say this before, one of the best systems in the country. I think that is in large part due to the work of David Frockt. So, thousands of children in our state have a great opportunity to participate in higher education. I think David should be very proud of the work that he did to make that possible in our state. Later on we had the chance to work together mostly on budget issues. At the time David did some operating budget issues, and we worked together there but what I really want to highlight is his work on the Capital Budget. Even though I've never worked with him directly as a negotiator on the Capital Budget, I have always been impressed with two things: One, it's just, inherently, the way he operates is fair. It's equitable. It's really trying to find the best solution for everybody regardless of your district. The other part of it is he was truly interested in every project. It didn't matter if it was in the Twentieth District, or somewhere on the east side of the state or the north, northwest part of the state or in downtown Seattle. He's genuinely interested in saying, 'How do we make this work for everybody in the state?' That doesn't just doesn't happen all the time. Arguably, and without giving offense to anyone else who's done the Capital Budget, I think David has done an exceptional job balancing that and really working even in what are sometimes controversial, political with political tensions. He has driven a very bipartisan, very thoughtful process and I've always admired that. You know, and then of course, we have a shared, because, partly because it is in this district and partly because I'm an alumni, we have a shared interest in the University of Washington that I've always enjoyed. We've had the opportunity to work on a number of efforts to help them be more successful and deliver higher education to our children. You know much has been said about David and I just want to share my thoughts. No surprise: He's honorable. You can trust. If he says, 'this is going to happen,' it's going to happen. And the other way too. If he says, nope, that can't work, he will be honest and tell you that that's just not going to work. It's not going to be that way. And I, anybody that's worked in this job very long, comes to really appreciate that. Even if we disagree, if you know they're telling you exactly how it is, and you know you can trust that, that's valuable. He is, of course, an eloquent speaker as we heard earlier but the thing I always like about when David speaks – and he doesn't rise to speak on everything, he's very selective on what he talks about – but when he rises, you know, if you're going to hear about a very complex subject distilled down into the very essence of what matters. That gives you very good clarity. Now, when you get down to that nut of, you know, if you decide, 'Is this a good idea or a bad idea?' We don't always agree but what I know is he is going to be able to take that complex situation and get to the most important part. I always deeply appreciate that. He's very deliberate. He thinks about, I mean what, what he does as well as, you always know is, if it's a David Frockt bill, it's a serious bill. It doesn't do unserious things. He's here to make things better. He's not here to just have a bill so he can check a box. He wants to make things better, often on very complex topics. Then the last thing I'd say, Mr. President, I think this, to me is maybe the most important, he is just very genuine. You feel that as soon as you have a conversation with him. You know he's listening to you. You know he cares about what you say and it's going to make a difference in how he thinks about a topic. It doesn't mean it would change his mind but he genuinely considers what you have to say as he deliberates. I just want to thank David for the work here in the Senate. I had the good fortune, my wife and I, to meet his wife, Rebecca, just a month or two, I guess it's been three months ago. I wish them both much, much joy as they move on to the next stage of their lives. Thank you, Mr. President."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Trudeau: "Thank you Mr. President. As I mentioned in an earlier speech, I had the opportunity to staff the Senate Democratic Caucus and then went on to staff the Attorney General in the Attorney General's Office where I actually really saw myself as an extension of staff members to folks on both sides of the aisle. Any time a member needed something I would do my best to get it but I have to say that staffing Senator Frockt was actually a huge highlight in my professional career. As staff, you rarely get, well, you get an intimate look into the behavior of an individual when nobody else is around. I think, of all the folks that I've had a chance to work directly with and directly for, I can honestly say that Senator Frockt didn't just appreciate me or staff when the work was done but would take a pause and ask questions about how we felt – which sometimes is really uncomfortable as a staff person to be that to be asked the question, 'Well what do you think?' But he did ask those questions and he would lift me up in that at moments of discomfort and say, 'No, I really want to know. You have a little bit of knowledge on this. Yasmin, what do you think?' And when I joined the body in this new capacity, it was a difficult transition to think about how to put forward my own ideas, and my own values. And it was Senator Frockt who said, 'Yasmin, you're here. You're here because you earned it and this is the moment for you to express what you feel.' I can't tell you what that meant to me, Mr. President. I don't know that I actually ever told Senator Frockt what it meant to me but it will always stay in my heart. I think that, you know, having that perspective of him is so deep and so meaningful. When we talk about in here, all the floor speeches, about how genuine of a human being he truly really is, I just wanted to stand up and say that I can confirm that Senator David Frockt is a good man. It's a huge loss to this body but, whatever he does next, I know will be amazing, and anybody that gets to work for him and with him will be blessed in that opportunity. Thank you, Mr. President."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Brown: "Thank you Mr. President. Well, I also have a story about David. I don't know if he will remember this or not but similar to the Senator King story, several years ago, when the balance of power was a little bit different around here, David came to me and asked me for some assistance on a program called the PAL Program. And I thought, 'What the heck is his PAL Program?' And so, I went out to my office and did a little bit of research and found out that it was called the Partnership Access Line and it was for Children's Hospital. I thought, 'Holy cow, this is a fantastic program.' So, I went to bat with my caucus to get that program additionally funded and got a lot of push-back, initially, because they said, 'Well, Senator Brown, you know, that's not in your district'. I said 'It doesn't matter. It's for the benefit of the entire state at some point, and it's for behavioral health. We've got a support this.' And so ultimately, we did. Then, lo and behold, the balance of power changes. A few years go by and I approach David and I said, 'David, you know, I've got this project in my district. It's the Juvenile Justice Center. If you could find it in, you know, in the budget that'd be great for a little bit of additional help.' He said, 'You know, I'll see what I can do.' And, lo and behold, when the budgets landed, there was the funding for the Benton Franklin Juvenile Justice Center. I don't say the story because I am talking about quid pro quo situations. I'm saying it because it exemplifies what we all come here to do. What's the benefit for everyone in this state? And David certainly has exemplified that."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Mullet: "Thank you Mr. President. I guess for the entire ten years I've been here, Senator Frockt is probably one of my closest friends ... in the Senate. I think we saw in his speech tonight or today, I guess it's not evening yet, the reason why that is. He's very eloquent. He's very smart. I think of the core of why you so likable, if it was a TV series, he'd be the guy in the TV series you're always cheering for it to win. It's because he's like the king of self-deprecating humor. I mean for somebody who's so wicked smart on a variety of topics. He is extremely humble. I think that is one of the core reasons why he is so likeable in this chamber across both sides of the aisle. Since this is, you know, he has been involved all three my campaigns, '12, '16 and '20. He would come out to the district. He would joke, 'Don't tell people in Seattle I'm here to help you.' That was a serious joke in 2020. Yeah. hat says a lot, I think about he does. He would devote his own personal time in the interim to help me get reelected. I was always very appreciative of that. Since this is a chance – I know Senator Frockt hates embarrassing stories about himself. This is what happens. It is your last day here. I get to share an embarrassing story about David Frockt. We were here and we were going out to dinner. We had to travel in our two separate cars, a grand total of about four blocks. In that four blocks Senator Frockt managed to hit a teenager who was driving. Nobody got hurt. The teenager opened the car, was kind of like a scene out of Fast Times at Ridgemont High. I think he was clearly smoking something, but it was the State Senator Frockt. He's very honest. He admitted it was his fault. Hit the teenager, and his car is all messed up and he let Rebecca know and it's one of those conversations where you can hear Rebecca on the line clearly not very happy that Senator Frockt has been a car accident in Olympia. I was staying in the prestigious establishment, The Governor Hotel. I had two rooms in my, you know, two beds. I said, 'Hey, you can crash in my bed tonight. Your car doesn't look like it is going to make it back to Seattle.' And this is the best part of the story. Senator Frockt took that other bed. Left his laptop in his bag and stuff in the car which, in the parking lot of The Governor Hotel, proceeded to get stolen that night. That was David Frockt's, one of his worst twelve hours, I think, in Olympia. I was there to witness it. I just thought everyone would enjoy that." [Laughter]

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Heck: "The moral of the story is: Don't go to dinner with Senator Mullet." [Laughter]

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Padden: "Thank you Mr. President. Well, David seems far too young to be leaving the Senate. He had such a distinguished legal career. I very much enjoyed, during the time I got to chair the Law & Justice Committee, having David as a member. We worked on a number of issues together. I'll mention a couple of those but when I think of David, I mean, the one word that really comes out to me is decency. You know, it was, it was traumatic almost, for me, when David left the Committee to make other pursuits, and be a big guy on Ways and Means with the Capital Budget but, you know, when he, I'm sure it was a very difficult decision, to decide not to run again, I remember one election he got 80% of the vote. He kind of alluded to Ecclesiastics when he announced his retirement, you know, that there's a time for everything, and a season for every activity under heaven, a time to be born and a time to die. So, he's got another time ahead of him and I'm sure he'll make an impact. I did very much enjoy, not only when we did our major investigation into the Department of Corrections and actually got subpoena power from F & O, and had FBI, former FBI attorneys, doing investigations but I really appreciated his support on the efforts to strengthen the driving impaired legislation. He had a really serious accident, actually not an accident. It was a vehicular homicide up in his district, up in Wedgewood, and that impacted him so much. We always chatted because, I mean, I grew up in an area of what is now the Forty-sixth District. And so, we would talk about that. We'd talk about his time as a congressional aide to a congressman from Kentucky and his growing up in the Louisville area. I remember when he went back home when his father died and talked about that. I will miss him greatly as one of the true, really a decent gentleman of the Senate and wish him the absolute best. Thank you, Mr. President."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Saldaña: "Well, I would like to first, before I speak directly to Senator Frockt, to just acknowledge that it seems like we are having a major transition in this body and is so great. I love listening to people's stories and to acknowledge like what happened about thirteen, twelve years ago. For so many of you when you came in, also having small children, like many of us that are here today and to know that. How successful and how meaningful it was for the people of Washington State to have your service here. Senator Brown, Senator Sheldon, Senator Carlyle, and Senator Frockt and to know your children in little bits, the stories that you've told but, in particular, in Senator Frockt's and also Senator Carlyle's time, being able to meet your children as Pages here. When I first came, there was always people watching us above and I was texted by one of the lobbyists about how expressive my face was when certain people were speaking. It made me more conscious about what do I want to display, but I always knew I was in great company because one of my greatest joys is being able to look at Senator Frockt. He has a very expressive face. You don't get to really enjoy it fully with these masks but when there's something that said that he finds, you know, quite below him, there's just a whole-body expression that he does of a rolling of his eyes. When his son was here, it was such a joy to look over and see both of them have that same expression. So, I am so happy that Senator Frockt will be able to spend more time with his young people in his life. I know they bring him such joy and I know they are so proud of him as well. And really, I think the other piece that I want to mention is so many of the things just ditto of what other people said about Senator Frockt but I think the piece that I will take from him is that he, I think, has that graciousness and has that humility. Because he, as much as he has done this work for so many years, he has not lost hope. He always sees the best in the person that he's speaking with. He always holds on hope that they are going to come around and, and I find that so energizing. As someone that often feels very frustrated that I, I see the pain, and the sorrow and the urgency in so many issues that come before us and that we are facing as a state. But I do so appreciate and find such solace and encouragement by the way that he approaches things. Again, I just want to also thank him for being so thoughtful about how he thinks about our resources and of how we can invest our capital dollars back into our state. I have appreciated the fact of how he has seen MOTCA as a way that we can cultivate the kind of economic development that my, my town needs so much. My neighborhoods need so much. The healthy housing pilot that has turned into an investment that can now be seen and replicated across our state was because of his vision and his commitment to making that happen. So just want to thank him for being as caring about every constituent in every part of our state. I hope that we can continue his legacy. Thank you."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Hawkins: "Well, I am so glad I came back for this final week. You know, I've been stuck in Zoom, Zoom-land, but it's so special to be a part of this and to hear some of these discussions. So, this will be the second kind thing I'll say about a Seattle Democrat in the past two days, but the State Senate will not be the same without Senator David Frockt. I have so greatly appreciated my communications with him over the years and our great working relation iship. He's always been there for me, to listen. Being a good listener, something people have described him as. And he's always been so steady in his temperament. Every time I've approached him on something, and some of the things are always a little sticky too, they haven't always been easy things, but he might remember some of these. So, the Wenatchee Landing sewer extension. I thank him for that Mr. President. Our community center renovations, he was a key part of that. The community center; the community forest project in Lake Wenatchee, you know, I had talked to him about that many times. He actually went to bat for my district. multiple times. Really put himself out there, sort of like what Senator Brown was saying, he puts himself out there for other people's districts. That's something that is so generous and so special and something we should all be willing to take with us and try to model and emulate that behavior. And most recently, the city pool repairs. The way he's been described, I think for Senator Pedersen and Senator Braun, I just wanted to totally agree with. He's honest. He's kind. He's trustworthy. He's thorough. He has that steady temperament no matter what. Even if it's not on the inside, that that's how he's projecting on the outside. And that's so important for this job. He's humble. And he's an excellent listener, as some people have said. So I'm just going to try to internalize these things and try to emulate that behavior in the coming years and think of Senator Frockt. Also, you know, people have said, 'You know, he cares so much about the whole state.' And that is true because a couple years ago he drove to my district to meet with my land trust constituents. Honestly, I think most of them were Democrats, so they really were excited to see someone like him, with his prominence and stuff, but they were, they're great people and he, we met with them for an hour. He was so genuine in his discussions and really cared about the projects. Then, in the same day, he drove back home across a mountain pass to get home. So, you know, he does really care about this entire state. We will miss him. I will miss him, and I wish him in his family, the very best."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Carlyle: "Thank you. Mr. President. My good friend David is a servant-leader and his kindness and his gentleness and his thoughtfulness and so many other adjectives are real and authentic but what I appreciate, I think, the most is that he just has a personal grace. I think his ethics and his values and his intellectual rigor in this work is what I've aspired to try to achieve and find it virtually impossible. He brings so much ability, intellectually and emotionally and spiritually, to this work that I cannot overstate my admiration. It was very painful for me, initially, to build a strong relationship with him because Scott White was a very close friend of mine as well. It was painful because it seemed to be about disequilibrium with Scott's early passing at age forty-one and it just seemed like the universe was akilt. And yet in so many ways, I think his thoughtfulness in honoring the work of his community, the work of constituents, but the work of quiet, humble attention to the issues that really touch our quality of life was such an inspiration. So, there's the policy level and then there's the personal level. And I just find and have found this wonderful rich tapestry of balance between them, which is a gift. I want to mention, just very briefly, that David's passion for pediatric behavioral health is so important. So many families are really suffering and desperately need the kind of services that David has gravitated toward providing in his work. And I find myself appreciating that we've gone from really near the bottom in the country to really journey toward a high-quality system. And that is an incredible legacy. It's just so meaningful for so many families who are really hurting. And those families, as he mentioned, are the lowest income, the middle income, top income. It's not about that really. It's about access. It's about availability. It's about workforce. It's about training. It's about institutions. It's about community services. He has been more than a leader. He's been a thought-leader in making that happen. It's just an honorable and a noble and righteous legacy. I would express how much joy I used to get out of when David and I, as two Jewish guys, would struggle with an issue on the one hand, on the other hand, and then you add, on top of that, that he's a lawyer ... so on the one hand; on the other hand; on the one hand; on the other hand; goes on for a month. We walk up to Jamie and talk to him privately and say, 'What do you think?' And he'd give us that straight dead-panned, Lutheran answer, 'Well, here's the situation.' And the two of us would look at each other and say, 'Okay, I think that makes sense.' So, he was sort of the arbiter. I just, I so admire my friend David and I just appreciate the honor of being his partner in this work. I'm grateful to all of you for the support that you've provided to him because, through that unyielding support, we have done some amazing work in the policy and the political areas that he has chosen. It's a great legacy and it's a great honor to be your partner in service. Thank you, Mr. President."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator King: "Thank you. Well, David, I don't remember that story that you told. If it happened the way you reported it, I'm grateful but, I honestly have to tell you, I think you've done way more for me than I ever did for you. I want to go back a couple, well, several years, because his predecessor, Scott White, Senator White, was, I had worked with him for a couple of years on a couple of bills that at in my stature then was really important to me, and I got to know Senator White and before he passed away. I think all of us recognized him as a rising star in the Senate. Whether you, either side of the aisle, he was, he was just a rising star. I remember thinking after he passed away, who in the world are they going to get to try and replace Scott White? Well, guess who showed up? Let me tell you, you more than filled those shoes. We're going to miss you, pal. Wish you well."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Honeyford: "Thank you Mr. President. Well, I've been concerned about the direction the Legislature's going and sometimes think that we rival Washington, D.C., in our partisanship but there is a light in the wilderness and that is Senator David Frockt. He believed in a bipartisan solution to the Capital Budget. He involved us all in that solution. It worked very well. I thank him for that. And I know he didn't hold a grudge against me because I remember when I was in charge, he needed something and I said, 'I just can't do that'. And he said, 'Jim, you're killing me.' But he didn't hold that against me. I don't even remember what the issue was, but thank you, David. It's been a pleasure working on a bipartisan manner with you. I hope we can do more of that in this Legislature. Thank you, Mr. President."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Cleveland: "Thank you Mr. President. While I have served with Senator Frockt here in the Senate for the past ten years and Senator Frockt has served on the Health & Long Term Care Committee that entire time. In the last two years he served as Vice Chair and provided invaluable support to me as a chair in accomplishing the work of our committee. He has been just a tremendous champion, particularly in increasing access to affordable health care coverage. David, when I think of words to describe him, I would say he's thorough to a fault. He's reasoned and as has already been said, he is deliberate. You know the people of our state are better off for his hard work. Senator Frockt has shepherded so many strong policies to final passage that it's impossible to try to list them all today but I have to at least highlight, specific to health care, that they include: the copay accumulator, that's aimed at helping patients lower their health care costs; premium subsidy program in our state, to help individuals afford health care insurance premiums; and a public option health care plan, the first in our country that offers more affordable health care insurance to individuals and families. So, in addition, as has already been said, to his health care work, he's ably led our caucus in assembling the Capital Budget for many years. Through that work, he has impacted truly every single corner of this state, including in my community. Through that work his legacy will be felt, I think, across our state for generations. I hope David, that, that work if nothing else today, you take that word legacy with you as you leave. I think there's nothing more that any of us legislators can hope to achieve here in the Legislature than to leave a legacy as broad as yours. As you leave David, I want to say, I will miss you. I will miss your dry humor. I will miss your tendency to worry, a lot, and I want you to know your example of leadership, I've learned so much from. I thank you for your steady leadership, for your friendship, and all that you've done to improve the lives of Washingtonians and just wish you all the success as you go on to take on new challenges. Thank you."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Schoesler: "Well, brevity may help now after many speeches, but rising to speak on my colleague. He has no reason to tolerate me. I shortened his career as majority floor leader – had something to do with that. I've been unkind to lawyers, his chosen profession. I own a variety of firearms, much to his chagrin. Our districts are diametrically opposite but we have still been able, for about a decade, to have frank, honest discussions, irregardless of which one of us was in the majority. Whether we were leader or servant, we could always have frank, private discussions and, amazingly, he tolerates me. Thank you for your service David."

The Senate rose in appreciation and acknowledgment of The Honorable David Frockt, Senator, Forty-sixth Legislative District, and his years of service to the Senate and the State..

MOTION

On motion of Senator Pedersen, the Senate advanced to the seventh order of business.

MOTION

Senator Braun moved that the Senate immediately consider Engrossed Senate Bill No. 5919, concerning the standard for law enforcement authority to detain or pursue persons.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Pedersen: "Mr. President, a motion to immediately consider something that is on a concurrence calendar is not in order when we are on the seventh order of business."

President Heck: "Senator Braun?"

Senator Braun: "Mr. President, I move that we revert to the fourth order."

Senator Pedersen objected to the motion by Senator Braun to revert to the fourth order of business.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the motion by Senator Braun that the Senate revert to the fourth order of business.

Engrossed Second Substitute House Bill No. 1099.

March 9, 2022

MR. PRESIDENT:

MR. SPEAKER:

We of your conference committee, to whom was referred Engrossed Second Substitute House Bill No. 1099, have had the same under consideration and recommend that all previous amendments not be adopted and that the following striking amendment be adopted:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"Sec. 1. RCW 36.70A.020 and 2021 c 254 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

The following goals are adopted to guide the development and adoption of comprehensive plans and development regulations of those counties and cities that are required or choose to plan under RCW 36.70A.040 and, where specified, also guide the development of regional policies, plans, and strategies adopted under RCW 36.70A.210 and chapter 47.80 RCW. The following goals are not listed in order of priority and shall be used exclusively for the purpose of guiding the development of comprehensive plans ~~((and))~~, development regulations, and, where specified, regional plans, policies, and strategies:

(1) Urban growth. Encourage development in urban areas where adequate public facilities and services exist or can be provided in an efficient manner.

(2) Reduce sprawl. Reduce the inappropriate conversion of undeveloped land into sprawling, low-density development.

(3) Transportation. Encourage efficient multimodal transportation systems that will reduce greenhouse gas emissions and per capita vehicle miles traveled, and are based on regional priorities and coordinated with county and city comprehensive plans.

(4) Housing. Plan for and accommodate housing affordable to all economic segments of the population of this state, promote a variety of residential densities and housing types, and encourage preservation of existing housing stock.

(5) Economic development. Encourage economic development throughout the state that is consistent with adopted comprehensive plans, promote economic opportunity for all citizens of this state, especially for unemployed and for disadvantaged persons, promote the retention and expansion of existing businesses and recruitment of new businesses, recognize regional differences impacting economic development opportunities, and encourage growth in areas experiencing insufficient economic growth, all within the capacities of the state's natural resources, public services, and public facilities.

(6) Property rights. Private property shall not be taken for public use without just compensation having been made. The property rights of landowners shall be protected from arbitrary and discriminatory actions.

(7) Permits. Applications for both state and local government permits should be processed in a timely and fair manner to ensure predictability.

(8) Natural resource industries. Maintain and enhance natural resource-based industries, including productive timber, agricultural, and fisheries industries. Encourage the conservation of productive forestlands and productive agricultural lands, and discourage incompatible uses.

(9) Open space and recreation. Retain open space and greenspace, enhance recreational opportunities, ~~((conserve))~~ enhance fish and wildlife habitat, increase access to natural resource lands and water, and develop parks and recreation facilities.

(10) Environment. Protect and enhance the environment and enhance the state's high quality of life, including air and water quality, and the availability of water.

(11) Citizen participation and coordination. Encourage the involvement of citizens in the planning process, including the participation of vulnerable populations and overburdened communities, and ensure coordination between communities and jurisdictions to reconcile conflicts.

(12) Public facilities and services. Ensure that those public facilities and services necessary to support development shall be adequate to serve the development at the time the development is available for occupancy and use without decreasing current service levels below locally established minimum standards.

(13) Historic preservation. Identify and encourage the preservation of lands, sites, and structures, that have historical or archaeological significance.

(14) Climate change and resiliency. Ensure that comprehensive plans, development regulations, and regional policies, plans, and strategies under RCW 36.70A.210 and chapter 47.80 RCW adapt to and mitigate the effects of a changing climate, support reductions in greenhouse gas emissions and per capita vehicle miles traveled, prepare for climate impact scenarios, foster resiliency to climate impacts and natural hazards, protect and enhance environmental, economic, and human health and safety, and advance environmental justice.

Sec. 2. RCW 36.70A.480 and 2010 c 107 s 2 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) For shorelines of the state, the goals and policies of the shoreline management act as set forth in RCW 90.58.020 are added as one of the goals of this chapter as set forth in RCW 36.70A.020 without creating an order of priority among the ~~((fourteen))~~ 15 goals. The goals and policies of a shoreline master program for a county or city approved under chapter 90.58 RCW shall be considered an element of the county or city's comprehensive plan. All other portions of the shoreline master program for a county or city adopted under chapter 90.58 RCW, including use regulations, shall be considered a part of the county or city's development regulations.

SIXTIETH DAY, MARCH 10, 2022

(2) The shoreline master program shall be adopted pursuant to the procedures of chapter 90.58 RCW rather than the goals, policies, and procedures set forth in this chapter for the adoption of a comprehensive plan or development regulations.

(3)(a) The policies, goals, and provisions of chapter 90.58 RCW and applicable guidelines shall be the sole basis for determining compliance of a shoreline master program with this chapter except as the shoreline master program is required to comply with the internal consistency provisions of RCW 36.70A.070, 36.70A.040(4), 35.63.125, and 35A.63.105.

(b) Except as otherwise provided in (c) of this subsection, development regulations adopted under this chapter to protect critical areas within shorelines of the state apply within shorelines of the state until the department of ecology approves one of the following: A comprehensive master program update, as defined in RCW 90.58.030; a segment of a master program relating to critical areas, as provided in RCW 90.58.090; or a new or amended master program approved by the department of ecology on or after March 1, 2002, as provided in RCW 90.58.080. The adoption or update of development regulations to protect critical areas under this chapter prior to department of ecology approval of a master program update as provided in this subsection is not a comprehensive or segment update to the master program.

(c)(i) Until the department of ecology approves a master program or segment of a master program as provided in (b) of this subsection, a use or structure legally located within shorelines of the state that was established or vested on or before the effective date of the local government's development regulations to protect critical areas may continue as a conforming use and may be redeveloped or modified if: (A) The redevelopment or modification is consistent with the local government's master program; and (B) the local government determines that the proposed redevelopment or modification will result in no net loss of shoreline ecological functions. The local government may waive this requirement if the redevelopment or modification is consistent with the master program and the local government's development regulations to protect critical areas.

(ii) For purposes of this subsection (3)(c), an agricultural activity that does not expand the area being used for the agricultural activity is not a redevelopment or modification. "Agricultural activity," as used in this subsection (3)(c), has the same meaning as defined in RCW 90.58.065.

(d) Upon department of ecology approval of a shoreline master program or critical area segment of a shoreline master program, critical areas within shorelines of the state are protected under chapter 90.58 RCW and are not subject to the procedural and substantive requirements of this chapter, except as provided in subsection (6) of this section. Nothing in chapter 321, Laws of 2003 or chapter 107, Laws of 2010 is intended to affect whether or to what extent agricultural activities, as defined in RCW 90.58.065, are subject to chapter 36.70A RCW.

(e) The provisions of RCW 36.70A.172 shall not apply to the adoption or subsequent amendment of a local government's shoreline master program and shall not be used to determine compliance of a local government's shoreline master program with chapter 90.58 RCW and applicable guidelines. Nothing in this section, however, is intended to limit or change the quality of information to be applied in protecting critical areas within shorelines of the state, as required by chapter 90.58 RCW and applicable guidelines.

(4) Shoreline master programs shall provide a level of protection to critical areas located within shorelines of the state that assures no net loss of shoreline ecological functions necessary to sustain shoreline natural resources as defined by department of ecology guidelines adopted pursuant to RCW 90.58.060.

(5) Shorelines of the state shall not be considered critical areas under this chapter except to the extent that specific areas located within shorelines of the state qualify for critical area designation based on the definition of critical areas provided by RCW 36.70A.030(~~((§))~~) (6) and have been designated as such by a local government pursuant to RCW 36.70A.060(2).

(6) If a local jurisdiction's master program does not include land necessary for buffers for critical areas that occur within shorelines of the state, as authorized by RCW 90.58.030(2)(~~((§))~~) (d), then the local jurisdiction shall continue to regulate those critical areas and their required buffers pursuant to RCW 36.70A.060(2).

Sec. 3. RCW 36.70A.070 and 2021 c 254 s 2 are each amended to read as follows:

The comprehensive plan of a county or city that is required or chooses to plan under RCW 36.70A.040 shall consist of a map or maps, and descriptive text covering objectives, principles, and standards used to develop the comprehensive plan. The plan shall be an internally consistent document and all elements shall be consistent with the future land use map. A comprehensive plan shall be adopted and amended with public participation as provided in RCW 36.70A.140. Each comprehensive plan shall include a plan, scheme, or design for each of the following:

(1) A land use element designating the proposed general distribution and general location and extent of the uses of land, where appropriate, for agriculture, timber production, housing, commerce, industry, recreation, open spaces and greenspaces, general aviation airports, public utilities, public facilities, and other land uses. The land use element shall include population densities, building intensities, and estimates of future population growth. The land use element shall provide for protection of the quality and quantity of groundwater used for public water supplies. The land use element must give special consideration to achieving environmental justice in its goals and policies, including efforts to avoid creating or worsening environmental health disparities. Wherever possible, the land use element should consider utilizing urban planning approaches that promote physical activity and reduce per capita vehicle miles traveled within the jurisdiction, but without increasing greenhouse gas emissions elsewhere in the state. Where applicable, the land use element shall review drainage, flooding, and stormwater runoff in the area and nearby jurisdictions and provide guidance for corrective actions to mitigate or cleanse those discharges that pollute waters of the state, including Puget Sound or waters entering Puget Sound. The land use element must reduce and mitigate the risk to lives and property posed by wildfires by using land use planning tools, which may include, but are not limited to, reducing residential development pressure in the wildland urban interface area, creating open space buffers between human development and wildfire-prone landscapes, and protecting existing residential development through community wildfire preparedness and fire adaptation measures.

(2) A housing element ensuring the vitality and character of established residential neighborhoods that:

(a) Includes an inventory and analysis of existing and projected housing needs that identifies the number of housing units necessary to manage projected growth, as provided by the department of commerce, including:

(i) Units for moderate, low, very low, and extremely low-income households; and

(ii) Emergency housing, emergency shelters, and permanent supportive housing;

(b) Includes a statement of goals, policies, objectives, and mandatory provisions for the preservation, improvement, and development of housing, including single-family residences, and within an urban growth area boundary, moderate density housing options including ~~((f))~~, but not limited to, duplexes, triplexes, and townhomes;

(c) Identifies sufficient capacity of land for housing including, but not limited to, government-assisted housing, housing for moderate, low, very low, and extremely low-income households, manufactured housing, multifamily housing, group homes, foster care facilities, emergency housing, emergency shelters, permanent supportive housing, and within an urban growth area boundary, consideration of duplexes, triplexes, and townhomes;

(d) Makes adequate provisions for existing and projected needs of all economic segments of the community, including:

(i) Incorporating consideration for low, very low, extremely low, and moderate-income households;

(ii) Documenting programs and actions needed to achieve housing availability including gaps in local funding, barriers such as development regulations, and other limitations;

(iii) Consideration of housing locations in relation to employment location; and

(iv) Consideration of the role of accessory dwelling units in meeting housing needs;

(e) Identifies local policies and regulations that result in racially disparate impacts, displacement, and exclusion in housing, including:

(i) Zoning that may have a discriminatory effect;

(ii) Disinvestment; and

(iii) Infrastructure availability;

(f) Identifies and implements policies and regulations to address and begin to undo racially disparate impacts, displacement, and exclusion in housing caused by local policies, plans, and actions;

(g) Identifies areas that may be at higher risk of displacement from market forces that occur with changes to zoning development regulations and capital investments; and

(h) Establishes antidisplacement policies, with consideration given to the preservation of historical and cultural communities as well as investments in low, very low, extremely low, and moderate-income housing; equitable development initiatives; inclusionary zoning; community planning requirements; tenant protections; land disposition policies; and consideration of land that may be used for affordable housing.

In counties and cities subject to the review and evaluation requirements of RCW 36.70A.215, any revision to the housing element shall include consideration of prior review and evaluation reports and any reasonable measures identified. The housing element should link jurisdictional goals with overall county goals to ensure that the housing element goals are met.

(3) A capital facilities plan element consisting of: (a) An inventory of existing capital facilities owned by public entities, including green infrastructure, showing the locations and capacities of the capital facilities; (b) a forecast of the future needs for such capital facilities; (c) the proposed locations and capacities of expanded or new capital facilities; (d) at least a six-year plan that will finance such capital facilities within projected funding capacities and clearly identifies sources of public money for such purposes; and (e) a requirement to reassess the land use element if probable funding falls short of meeting existing needs and to ensure that the land use element, capital facilities plan element, and financing plan within the capital facilities plan element are coordinated and consistent. Park and recreation facilities shall be included in the capital facilities plan element.

(4) A utilities element consisting of the general location, proposed location, and capacity of all existing and proposed utilities, including, but not limited to, components of drinking water, stormwater, wastewater, electrical ~~((lines))~~, telecommunications ~~((lines))~~, and natural gas ~~((lines))~~ systems.

(5) Rural element. Counties shall include a rural element including lands that are not designated for urban growth, agriculture, forest, or mineral resources. The following provisions shall apply to the rural element:

(a) Growth management act goals and local circumstances. Because circumstances vary from county to county, in establishing patterns of rural densities and uses, a county may consider local circumstances, but shall develop a written record explaining how the rural element harmonizes the planning goals in RCW 36.70A.020 and meets the requirements of this chapter.

(b) Rural development. The rural element shall permit rural development, forestry, and agriculture in rural areas. The rural element shall provide for a variety of rural densities, uses, essential public facilities, and rural governmental services needed to serve the permitted densities and uses. To achieve a variety of rural densities and uses, counties may provide for clustering, density transfer, design guidelines, conservation easements, and other innovative techniques that will accommodate appropriate rural economic advancement, densities, and uses that are not characterized by urban growth and that are consistent with rural character.

(c) Measures governing rural development. The rural element shall include measures that apply to rural development and protect the rural character of the area, as established by the county, by:

(i) Containing or otherwise controlling rural development;

(ii) Assuring visual compatibility of rural development with the surrounding rural area;

(iii) Reducing the inappropriate conversion of undeveloped land into sprawling, low-density development in the rural area;

(iv) Protecting critical areas, as provided in RCW 36.70A.060, and surface water and groundwater resources; and

(v) Protecting against conflicts with the use of agricultural, forest, and mineral resource lands designated under RCW 36.70A.170.

(d) Limited areas of more intensive rural development. Subject to the requirements of this subsection and except as otherwise specifically provided in this subsection (5)(d), the rural element may allow for limited areas of more intensive rural development, including necessary public facilities and public services to serve the limited area as follows:

(i) Rural development consisting of the infill, development, or redevelopment of existing commercial, industrial, residential, or mixed-use areas, whether characterized as shoreline development, villages, hamlets, rural activity centers, or crossroads developments.

(A) A commercial, industrial, residential, shoreline, or mixed-use area are subject to the requirements of (d)(iv) of this subsection, but are not subject to the requirements of (c)(ii) and (iii) of this subsection.

(B) Any development or redevelopment other than an industrial area or an industrial use within a mixed-use area or an industrial area under this subsection (5)(d)(i) must be principally designed to serve the existing and projected rural population.

(C) Any development or redevelopment in terms of building size, scale, use, or intensity shall be consistent with the character of the existing areas. Development and redevelopment may include changes in use from vacant land or a previously existing use so long as the new use conforms to the requirements of this subsection (5);

(ii) The intensification of development on lots containing, or new development of, small-scale recreational or tourist uses, including commercial facilities to serve those recreational or tourist uses, that rely on a rural location and setting, but that do not include new residential development. A small-scale recreation or tourist use is not required to be principally designed to serve the existing and projected rural population. Public services and public facilities shall be limited to those necessary to serve the recreation or tourist use and shall be provided in a manner that does not permit low-density sprawl;

(iii) The intensification of development on lots containing isolated nonresidential uses or new development of isolated cottage industries and isolated small-scale businesses that are not principally designed to serve the existing and projected rural population and nonresidential uses, but do provide job opportunities for rural residents. Rural counties may allow the expansion of small-scale businesses as long as those small-scale businesses conform with the rural character of the area as defined by the local government according to RCW 36.70A.030(23). Rural counties may also allow new small-scale businesses to utilize a site previously occupied by an existing business as long as the new small-scale business conforms to the rural character of the area as defined by the local government according to RCW 36.70A.030(23). Public services and public facilities shall be limited to those necessary to serve the isolated nonresidential use and shall be provided in a manner that does not permit low-density sprawl;

(iv) A county shall adopt measures to minimize and contain the existing areas or uses of more intensive rural development, as appropriate, authorized under this subsection. Lands included in such existing areas or uses shall not extend beyond the logical outer boundary of the existing area or use, thereby allowing a new pattern of low-density sprawl. Existing areas are those that are clearly identifiable and contained and where there is a logical boundary delineated predominately by the built environment, but that may also include undeveloped lands if limited as provided in this subsection. The county shall establish the logical outer boundary of an area of more intensive rural development. In establishing the logical outer boundary, the county shall address (A) the need to preserve the character of existing natural neighborhoods and communities, (B) physical boundaries, such as bodies of water, streets and highways, and land forms and contours, (C) the prevention of abnormally irregular boundaries, and (D) the ability to provide public facilities and public services in a manner that does not permit low-density sprawl;

(v) For purposes of (d) of this subsection, an existing area or existing use is one that was in existence:

(A) On July 1, 1990, in a county that was initially required to plan under all of the provisions of this chapter;

(B) On the date the county adopted a resolution under RCW 36.70A.040(2), in a county that is planning under all of the provisions of this chapter under RCW 36.70A.040(2); or

(C) On the date the office of financial management certifies the county's population as provided in RCW 36.70A.040(5), in a county that is planning under all of the provisions of this chapter pursuant to RCW 36.70A.040(5).

(e) Exception. This subsection shall not be interpreted to permit in the rural area a major industrial development or a master planned resort unless otherwise specifically permitted under RCW 36.70A.360 and 36.70A.365.

(6) A transportation element that implements, and is consistent with, the land use element.

(a) The transportation element shall include the following subelements:

(i) Land use assumptions used in estimating travel;

(ii) Estimated traffic impacts to state-owned transportation facilities resulting from land use assumptions to assist ~~((the department of transportation))~~ in monitoring the performance of state facilities, to plan improvements for the facilities, and to assess the impact of land-use decisions on state-owned transportation facilities;

(iii) Facilities and services needs, including:

(A) An inventory of air, water, and ground transportation facilities and services, including transit alignments, active transportation facilities, and general aviation airport facilities, to define existing capital facilities and travel levels ~~((as a basis for))~~ to inform future planning. This inventory must include state-owned transportation facilities within the city or county's jurisdictional boundaries;

(B) Level of service standards for all locally owned arterials ~~((and)),~~ locally and regionally operated transit routes that serve urban growth areas, state-owned or operated transit routes that serve urban areas if the department of transportation has prepared such standards, and active transportation facilities to serve as a gauge to judge performance of the system and success in helping to achieve the goals of this chapter consistent with environmental justice. These standards should be regionally coordinated;

(C) For state-owned transportation facilities, level of service standards for highways, as prescribed in chapters 47.06 and 47.80 RCW, to gauge the performance of the system. The purposes of reflecting level of service standards for state highways in the local comprehensive plan are to monitor the performance of the system, to evaluate improvement strategies, and to facilitate coordination between the county's or city's six-year street, road, active transportation, or transit program and the office of financial management's ten-year investment program. The concurrency requirements of (b) of this subsection do not apply to transportation facilities and services of statewide significance except for counties consisting of islands whose only connection to the mainland are state highways or ferry routes. In these island counties, state highways and ferry route capacity must be a factor in meeting the concurrency requirements in (b) of this subsection;

(D) Specific actions and requirements for bringing into compliance ~~((locally owned))~~ transportation facilities or services that are below an established level of service standard;

(E) Forecasts of ~~((traffic))~~ multimodal transportation demand and needs within cities and urban growth areas, and forecasts of traffic demand and needs outside of cities and urban growth areas, for at least ten years based on the adopted land use plan to ~~((provide information on the location, timing, and capacity needs of future growth))~~ inform the development of a transportation element that balances transportation system safety and convenience to accommodate all users of the transportation system to safely, reliably, and efficiently provide access and mobility to people and goods;

(F) Identification of state and local system needs to equitably meet current and future demands. Identified needs on state-owned transportation facilities must be consistent with the statewide multimodal transportation plan required under chapter 47.06 RCW. Local system needs should reflect the regional transportation system, local goals, and strive to equitably implement the multimodal network;

(iv) Finance, including:

(A) An analysis of funding capability to judge needs against probable funding resources;

(B) A multiyear financing plan based on the needs identified in the comprehensive plan, the appropriate parts of which shall serve as the basis for the six-year street, road, or transit program required by RCW 35.77.010 for cities, RCW 36.81.121 for counties, and RCW 35.58.2795 for public transportation systems. The multiyear financing plan should be coordinated with the ten-year investment program developed by the office of financial management as required by RCW 47.05.030;

(C) If probable funding falls short of meeting the identified needs of the transportation system, including state transportation facilities, a discussion of how additional funding will be raised, or how land use assumptions will be reassessed to ensure that level of service standards will be met;

(v) Intergovernmental coordination efforts, including an assessment of the impacts of the transportation plan and land use assumptions on the transportation systems of adjacent jurisdictions;

(vi) Demand-management strategies;
